Dump Eagleton pressure

ABERDEEN, S.D. (UPI)— Sen. George McGovern said Saturday he has been under "intense pressure" to dump Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton from the Democratic ticket. But he said no decision on the "difficult question" will be announced until after he meets face to face with Eagleton Monday.

"I do not know how it will all come out," he said.

McGovern left the Black Hills after a two-week working vacation and stopped at Mitchell, S.D., where he grew up, and Aberdeen, S.D. to address the South Dakota Democratic state convention on his way back to Washington.

He acknowledged he faces an uphill fight to oust President Nixon from the White House but predicted victory.

The last week of his stay in his native state was overshadowed by mounting pressure for him to insist Eagleton resign from the ticket after the Missouri senator revealed Tuesday he had been hospitalized three times from 1960 to 1966 for treatment of exhaustion and depression.

As he left Sylvan Lake Lodge near custer, where he had his vacation headquarters, McGovern issued a statement saying he had talked with Eagleton by phone Saturday morning and the two men would meet in person Monday night "for a mutual assessment" of the situation.

"I have advised Senator Eagleton that I have been under intense pressure all week that he withdraw from the ticket," McGovern said in a statement issued by his press secretary as his party left Custer. "But I have insisted, and still insist, on a proper period of evaluation by both of us on this difficult question."

At the Rapid City airport, McGovern was asked if his statement indicated a softening of his position, enunciated throughout the week, of "one thousand per cent" support for Eagleton.

"It's no softening," he replied, adding "there won't be any change until we've had a chance to talk and there might not be any change then."

Later, addressing the Democratic state convention here after visiting his home town of Mitchell, McGovern referred to the problems surrounding Eagleton's presence on the ticket.

"I do not know how it will all come out," he said in prepared remarks, "but I do know that it gets darkest just before the stars come out. So I ask for your prayers and your patience with Senator Eagleton and me while we deliberate on the proper course ahead."

In his speech, McGovern confidently predicted victory in November. But, he said, "We are going to come from behind, against the odds, the same way we won the primaries, the same way we won in South Dakota, the same road to victory travelled by every people's candidate from Andrew Jackson to Harry Truman."

In his earlier statement, McGovern said during his conversation with Eagleton, "I assured him that I am still backing him as vice presidential nominee of the party." It said, "rumors and reports of any decision having been made on this question are misleading."

The first hint that his firm support for Eagleton was crumbling and that McGovern was keeping open his option of asking Eagleton to resign came Friday night when he sought out newsmen after dining in the public lodge at Sylvan Lake with his wife, Eleanor.

McGovern revealed that he and Eagleton had made a bargain, prior to Eagleton's disclosure of his medical past, that if public pressure made it impossible for Eagleton to stay on the ticket, he would withdraw.

McGovern said he had been through a "terrible" ordeal since Tuesday when Eagleton made his announcement at a news conference at Sylvan Lake.

Wallace won't run this year

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, partially paralized by an assassination attempt in May, announced Saturday he would not run for president on the American party ticket and could not accept a draft.

The 52-year-old Wallace ran for president four years ago under the banner of the American Independent party. The party holds its convention in Louisville, Ky. next week.

Although expected, his withdrawal apparently proved a bitter moment of truth for Wallace, and he left distribution of his formal statement to an aide, rather than appearing in person at a news conference.

"I have conferred with my doctors, and their best advice is that I not involve myself in any extensive campaign activity in the immediate future," the Wallace withdrawal announcement said.

Drunk charge evaporating

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former assistant U.S. Treasury secretary W. True Davis Jr. identified himself Saturday as the source who told columnist Jack Anderson of an alleged record of drunken and reckless driving arrests of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton.

Davis said he told Anderson of the allegations in the course of a casual conversation in 1968 during Davis' campaign against Eagleton for the Democratic senatorial nomination, which Eagleton won.

He said he had not intended at the time for the allegations to be published, but had merely cited them to Anderson as an example of the kind of politicking taking place in the primary.

Eagleton, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, has labeled the report, made public by Anderson last week, "a damnable lie" and has said he was never arrested for any traffic offense more serious than speeding.

Davis said in a CBS interview that he had been given what appeared to be copies of authentic arrest reports concerning Eagleton, and told Anderson of them "without realizing they might be made public without an attempt to verify them."

Earlier Saturday the New York Times published an interview with "Anderson's source," a person the newspaper did not identify but who presumably was Davis, in which the source said he did not know the person who gave him the photostat-like documents, no longer possessed the documents and did not recall specific details of the alleged arrests. He also was quoted as saying he did not recall how Eagleton was identified in the papers.

Davis characterized the information he gave Anderson as "unproven allegations," but he added: "I felt these were legitimate, they looked legitimate."

Gem Demos still back Eagleton

KETCHUM, Idaho (UPI) — Leading Idaho Democrats said Saturday they would continue to support Sen. Thomas Eagleton for the party's second slot despite a controversy that he underwent psychiatric treatment.

"All of us need some psychotherapy," Democratic National Committeeman James Donart said. "I think Tom Eagleton is a realist because he made himself do this. I think a lot of people suspect they need help and don't have the guts to see a psychiatrist."

The State Democratic Executive Committee met here Saturday at Donart's home to conduct party business.

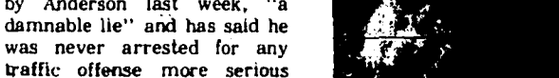

Eagleton, the vice presidential nominee has been the center of controversy since he told newsmen five days ago that he had undergone psychiatric treatment three times during the last 12 years.

"I think people realize that anyone who has undergone psychiatric treatment may very often be a stronger person because of it," Donart said in Eagleton's defense.

State party chairman Joe Mc Carter, Corral, said treatment of this sort is "common" and he didn't think the controversy would keep the Democrats from winning in November.

Air jinx hits second Herndon

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — Six years after his father was killed in a plane crash, James Herndon's plane went down in Gimlet, South of Ketchum, at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Unlike his father, however, who was the Democratic gubernatorial candidate at the time of his death in the crash near Stanley, the younger Herndon survived.

Blaine County officers said Herndon, 31, Salmon, was taken to the Moritz Community Hospital, Sun Valley for treatment of head cuts, a fractured wrist and other injuries. He was alone in his Cessna 172 plane and was attempting a landing at the Gimlet air strip south of Ketchum when the plane nosed into the field, overturned and burned.

'Monster' unzippered

NEW CANTON, Ill. (UPI)— Part of the Missouri Monster legend has come unstuck, or unzipped, Illinois state police disclosed Saturday.

In a wooded area around New Canton, across the Mississippi River about 18 miles northeast of Louisiana, Mo., where "MoMo" first surfaced to terrify local residents, police searchers discovered a discarded costume with a dragon-like body, a frog-like head and bulging eyes.

The Monster, which first appeared on July 11, was described as a creature from outer space by one specialist in unidentified flying objects. Another man in Louisiana, Mo. said the monster fit the description of his daughter's boyfriend.

State police did not speculate on whether the costume belonged to the "monster."

According to Illinois state police, two off-duty officers, William Earles and radio dispatcher Larry Forgey, were driving on Illinois 96 about 1 ½ miles south of New Canton on Thursday when they both saw a "green, long-tailed, strange-looking" creature cross the road in front of their car and plunge into a wooded area.

Earles turned the car and went back to check the vicinity where the creature disappeared. While investigating, they heard screams. They rushed to the place where the screams were heard and found two unoccupied cars.

Shoshone cyclist killed

HAGERMAN — Bryce Vaughn Stimpson, 18, Shoshone, was killed here Friday afternoon in a motorcycle accident.

He died of multiple injuries in the Gooding County Memorial Hospital about two hours following the accident, Gooding County officers said.

Deputy Sheriff William Boyer said the man was south bound about one and one half miles south of Hagerman when his motorcycle hit a hole. The cycle flipped, throwing rider and machine onto the highway.

Officers said Stimpson was riding along a trail between the fence and U.S. Highway 30 when the mishap occurred.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Stimpson, Shoshone. He had been working on land the family farms on the Bell Rapids farm project.

SV route OK'd for airline

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has granted Trans-Magic Airlines a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate a year-round air carrier service between Boise and Hailey-Sun Valley.

Aside from Sun Valley Airlines, which has been servicing the route, Trans-Magic is the only other small commuter airline providing air carrier service in Idaho.

Sun Valley Airlines protested the Trans-Magic application, saying it was already providing an adequate service on the route in question, and that there was no reason to dilute the market by permitting two carriers on the route.

The Commission said the extra route is the only "realistic source for additional revenues needed by Trans-Magic Airlines."

TF man swept off sub

His widow, Merlene Thompson Corey, 18, received word of his death here through a visit from a Naval representative and official telegram.

Mrs. Corey said her husband had been washed overboard while standing on a surfaced submarine. She said a wave had swept him off the deck of the submarine and snapped his lifeline.

She said an extensive search involving submarines, tugboats, helicopters and divers had failed to turn up a body, but the search was still underway.

The telegram notifying Mrs. Corey of her husband's death said he had died while serving his country.

Corey was a native of Jerome who received a GED from the College of Southern Idaho.

People's Party prefers Dr. Spock

People's pick: Spock, Hobson

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The People's party convention Saturday selected pediatrician Benjamin Spock to be its candidate for president as a faction supporting Democrat George McGovern bolted the convention.

Many McGovern backers wanted to leave the party, but at a caucus the dissidents decided to stay within the party but work for McGovern's election.

Black activist Julius Hobson was chosen by acclamation as the vice presidential candidate.

"I will vote for McGovern because we must be realists," said Charles Briody, who resigned as the party's national chairman Thursday to speak from the floor in support of McGovern.

"I will vote for McGovern as my personal choice," Briody said. "A vote for Spock will take a vote away from McGovern and help Nixon. It's as simple as that."

Delegate John Parker of Florida estimated 30 to 40 pro-McGovern delegates would leave the party. About 230 delegates from 31 states attended the four-day convention, which was to conclude Saturday night.

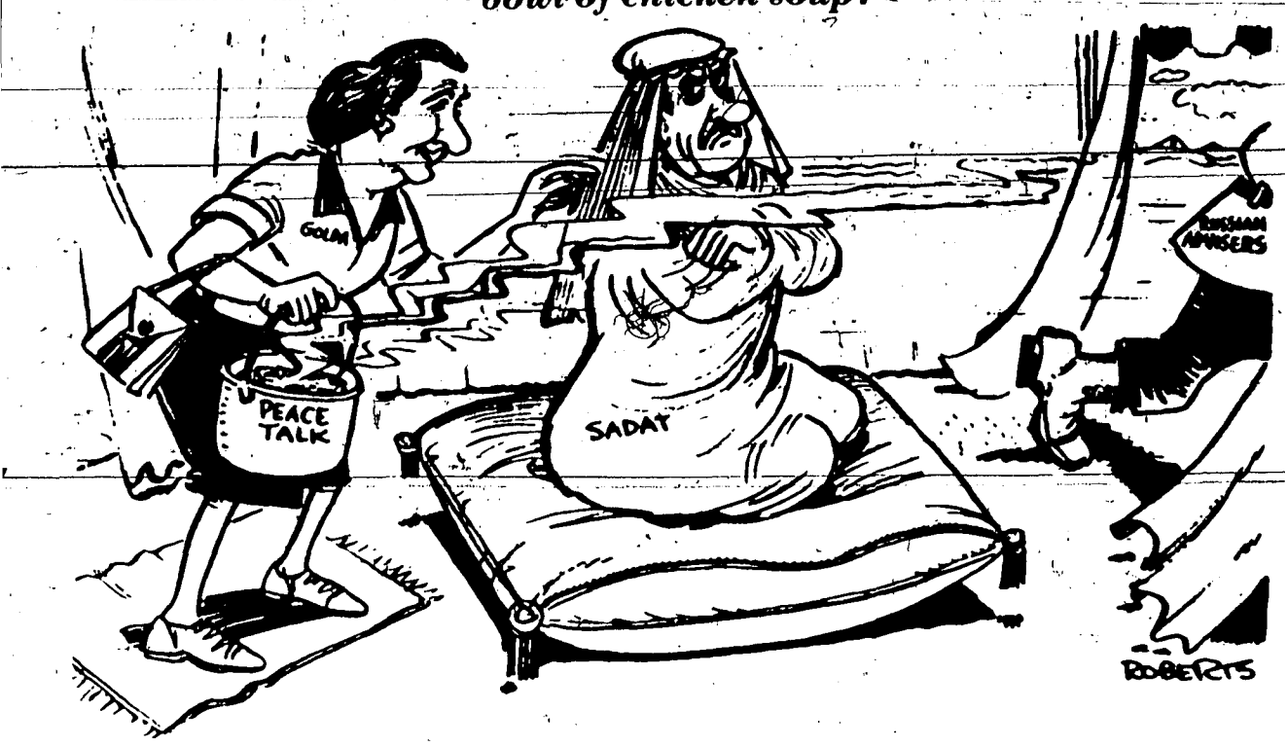

In his acceptance speech Spock said, "Instead of being on the defensive when someone says we will tip the scale against George McGovern, we should say the only people who will elect Nixon are those who vote for Nixon."

"The time after the election will be the crucial time that will determine if we are serious about forming a permanent party," Spock said.

"Right now we may be caught in the spirit of the 1972 election; we must sustain this spirit after the election as we go into the neighborhoods to carry on our message."

Spock was nominated on a voice vote without opposition. McGovern's name was not permitted in nomination through a procedural tactic.

Bond was set at $2,000 by the court and reduced to $1,000 by Judge Maughan. Mrs. Griggs was released on bond to appear at 9:30 p.m. Aug. 15 for the preliminary hearing.

Smylie brands use of weapons

BOISE — Republican senatorial candidate Robert E. Smylie Friday branded as "unspeakable" the consideration of the use of nuclear weapons in the Vietnam War.

The former governor spoke in response to a question concerning remarks of Rep. James McClure that the people of North Vietnam should be made to fear Americans' use of the weapons.

"Suggestions made in the heat of a campaign that we should consider the use of strategic nuclear weapons in Vietnam are unspeakable," Smylie said while campaigning in Boise.

Hearing sought in TF arson case

He is accused of setting a fire in the home of his former wife, Mary Carroway July 20. The court set Aug. 10 at 11 a.m. as the time for preliminary hearing and granted services of the public defender. Judge Reed P. Maughan set the hearing date.

Joseph Martin Naves, 18, arraigned before Judge Maughan also requested preliminary hearing on charges of delivery of a controlled substance. He was being held in custody in lieu of $1,000 bond and a date will be set for preliminary hearing.

Former merchant returns to TF

TWIN FALLS — William E. (Bill) Garnett, former local merchant and community leader, has returned as field representative for the Idaho State Automobile Association.

Garnett, who has been employed in Great Falls and Boise since leaving here, has been with the automobile association for the past seven years. He was former co-owner of the New Central Market, then located where Koto's Cafe is now, and had served as president of the Jaycees as well as having been exalted ruler of the local Elks Lodge 1183.

Warship launched

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat today witnessed the launching of the first Egyptian-made warship, the Middle East News Agency said.

The agency said the ship is equipped with the "latest marine-fighting equipments," but the size or the ship or how many crewmen it would carry was not disclosed.

The agency said the ship was the first of what would be a series of vessels produced by Egyptian military shipyards.

The London-based Institute for Strategic Studies has said the Egyptian navy includes 12 submarines, 5 destroyers, 2 escort vessels, 12 coastal escorts, 8 minesweepers, 19 missile patrol boats, 27 torpedo boats and 18 landing craft.

Director named for society

Dr. D.A. Jackson, Twin Falls, has been confirmed as an associate director, bringing to 11 the number of board members working with the county group.

Magic Valley's Home Newspaper

Sunday, July 30, 1972 — Al Westergren, Publisher — PHONE 733-0931

Official City and County Newspaper — Member of Audit Bureau of Circulation and UPI

Pursuant to Section 60-108 Idaho Code, Thursday is hereby designated as the day of the week on which legal notices will be published. Published daily and Sunday, except Saturday, at 132 Third Street West, Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, by Magic Valley Newspapers, Inc. Entered as second class mail matter April 8, 1918, at the post office in Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, under the act of March 8, 1879.

Plagued By Plenty

While Russia has agreed to buy $750 million dollars worth of feed grains from us over the next three years to take care of her massive needs, we have the greatest wheat surplus since 1964. And the national problem is Idaho's problem.

The suprlus was 900 million bushels on July 1, the Department of Agriculture reported, due to a record 1971 crop and a decline in exports. At the support level of $1.25 a bushel, this represents $1.125 billion dollars in what and Russia's scheduled purchases will hardly dent the mountainous surplus.

President Nixon has sent Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson to Moscow as the head of a delegation assigned to negotiate a comprehensive trade agreement with Russia. Nixon and Party Chairman Brezhnev agreed during their summit meeting to establish a bilateral trade commission to meet alternately in Moscow and Washington to work out an agreement for expanded trade. Peterson said he expected tough bargaining but expressed the hope for an agreement before the year-end, covering settlement of Russia's lendlease debt, opening of some ports of each country to ships of the other, credit arrangements for expanded trade and other issues.

We have given first priority to the debt settlement. Russia acknowledges only $300 million dollars; we claim $800 million. There are reports that both have agreed to settle for $500 million and end the long controversy.

Trade between the world's two largest economies could readily be expanded to hundreds of millions a year with benefits to both. We need Russia's raw material and they need machines and tools as well as grain.

How much we need to export more wheat is pointed up by the administration announcement of a $100 million dollar increase in the subsidy control program aimed at reducing wheat planting next year by as much as 5 million acres. Idaho will share in this, too.

Disturbed

Although not commenting openly to any great extent, Democrats in the Magic Valley are disturbed over Senator Eagleton's mistake in not telling Senator McGovern he had health problems.

The area leaders admit that Senator McGovern's campaign for the Presidency was uphill at the best. They say Senator Eagleton's action has not helped.

There is no doubt about it. Senator McGovern's campaign has been crippled even before it gets off the ground. It is his decision whether he keeps Senator Eagleton on the ticket. Like many, we are of the opinion Senator Eagleton is no longer an asset to the Democratic cause. Many Republican leaders — including those in Magic Valley — are hoping he will stay on the ticket — for obvious reasons.

Currency Juggling

Commenting on the stability of the dollar, West German banker Wilhelm Hankel put it this way: "The real issue is neither one of controls nor of renewed floating, but of America defending its dollar parity."

That is difficult to do with $60 billion in U.S. dollars at large overseas. Hankel suggests one way of retrieving some of those dollars would be for the United States to apply for a loan in the neighborhood of $20 billion in foreign currencies from the International Monetary Fund, and use those funds to buy back dollars held by overseas banks.

Such a move would be a one-shot effort. It would not stop the outflow of dollars, it would not correct the U.S. fiscal or trade imbalances and it would create another obligation for the U.S. to repay.

As a temporary expedient it would remove some of the pressure from the dollar buildup in monetary exchanges. Lasting corrections would still have to be made.

MR. SPECTATOR

Remember That Cat?

Every story has a sequel. The story in Mr. Spectator a few days ago about the cat which kept getting under the hood of Mrs. Spectator's car is no exception.

You will remember that after several attempts to get into the car and get away before the cat could get under the hood, a woman approached and offered to hold the cat until Mrs. Spectator could make her getaway.

We have found out who that helpful woman was — and thank her for her act of aid. And in finding out who she was we also found out what happened to the cat — er we mean kitten.

This is the way it went after Janice Moore, who lives on Route Three, Twin Falls, offered to hold the kitten:

After Mrs. Spectator drove away, Janice put the kitten in the back of a pickup parked nearby. She ran to her own car but noticed that the kitten had jumped out of the truck and onto the ground and then up into the engine of the truck. This is the way it had behaved while Mrs. Spectator was trying to leave. It kept jumping up under the car's hood, making it necessary to raise the hood to get the kitten out.

Well, Janice proved to be kindhearted. She opened the hood on the truck, lifted out the kitten, and put it in the front seat of her own car.

Now the kitten lives out at the Moore place. Janice says the kitten is cute and now has a name. She calls it "Smokey II."

So there you have everyone satisfied. Mrs. Spectator couldn't take the kitten home because she lives in an apartment. And as a result the kitten now lives at a nice place in the country and is most happy.

And so are Janice Moore and Mrs. Spectator. They both are not bothered with kittens under their hoods!

DIVIDENDS

Interviewing political candidates sometimes has side benefits. One came when we recently talked to William E. (Bud) Davis, one of the Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate. He gave us a copy of his book "Nobody Calls Me Doctor" which is a collection of stories having to do with "anecdotes and accounts of the family life and wanderings of an itinerant educator through college, the Marine Corps, teaching and coaching to the humorous adventures of a university president in the remote and primitive regions of the high mountain West." We thank Dr. Davis for the gift — and it will be read.

Connally Just Didn't Want It

WASHINGTON — Although many political realities dictated President Nixon's decision to run again with Spiro T. Agnew, the most important was probably Democrat John B. Connally's all but total refusal to run for Vice President himself.

"Connally just didn't want it," a top-level confidant of Mr. Nixon told us, "so the discussion came down to one thing: the absence of serious alternatives."

With Connally unavailable and nobody else desirable, President Nixon's decision to keep his explosively controversial Vice President was ordained many weeks ago, but his announcement of that decision last Saturday definitely was not.

To the contrary, Mr. Nixon desperately wanted some element of uncertainty to enliven what looks to be the dullest nominating convention in this century. So he quietly passed word to political advisers that he would say nothing until mid-August — on the very eve of the Aug. 21 Miami Beach convention.

What disrupted that Presidential timetable was the sudden, uncontrollable surge of "anybody but Agnew" appeals from moderate and liberal Republicans.

These public attacks on Agnew came from such obvious sources as liberal Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York and William Saxbe of Ohio. But the anti-Agnewites actually embraced a far wider political spectrum, reaching into the White House staff itself: a silent minority of Republicans fearful that Agnew will exploit the Vice Presidency to gain control of the party and the Presidential nomination in 1976.

Ashbrook's decision to offer himself as a rallying point for conservatles unhappy about Mr. Nixon's welfare reform plan and his nuclear arms control negotiations with Moscow triggered secret negotiations between conservatives and top White House political aide Charles Colson.

Using the threat of all-out support for Ashbrook, the conservatives made three demands: first, keep Agnew on the ticket; second, drop the family assistance section of the welfare-reform package; third, step up arms spending. Some of the President's chief advisers, notably former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, counseled acceptance of all three.

Although the President refused to budge on welfare reform, he quickly caved in on the other two demands. That was the real explanation of his sudden, unexpected plug for Agnew in his long television interview with CBS reporter Dan Rather Jan. 2. (It would be foolish, said the President, to "break up a winning combination.")

Demos For McGovern

WASHINGTON — In a direct challenge to the "Democrats for Nixon," a new political organization has been incorporated in Washington this week with the unlikely name of "Democrats for McGovern."

The chairman, Partridge Wankleman, opened the storefront headquarters last Thursday on Pennsylvania Avenue, just three blocks from the White House. We went to a cocktail party celebrating the festivities and had a few moments with Wankleman.

"This is a grass-roots movement," he explained. "There are many Democrats who are fed up with Nixon, and we want to welcome them into our party."

"That's a good idea," I said, "but according to the polls, there aren't too many Democrats who have indicated they would vote for McGovern."

"The polls could be wrong," Wankleman said. "There are some Democrats who want to vote for McGovern, but at this stage, they're not willing to speak up. We hope that by starting this organization we can make it possible for them to work for our candidate. We're not asking them to stop being Democrats.

"All we're asking is that they search their consciences and vote for the best man, even if the best man is George McGovern."

"That's pretty hard for a Democrat to do," I said.

"We're optimistic. As a matter of fact, we've already signed up three Democratic senators and four Democratic governors and that's only the beginning. Our people are now working on Democratic congressmen. I wouldn't be surprised if at least half of them didn't come out for the McGovern ticket."

"That's a good start," I admitted. "I suppose you won't go after people like Mayor Daley or George Meany."

"We will, eventually. But at the moment, we'd rather attract Democrats who are on the fence and could go one way or another. We want those who will work for McGovern even if it's against their philosophy."

Wankleman said the "Democrats for McGovern" were printing buttons, bumper stickers and posters. They were also seeking testimonials from well-known people associated with the Democratic Party in the past. Money seemed to be the big hitch.

"We can find Democrats for McGovern, but we can't seem to find many who will support him financially."

"How do you find them?" I asked.

"We're working from Democratic Party lists. We send out mailings to the Democrats, asking if they would be interested in supporting our candidate. It's amazing how many we've heard from. Last week, out of 1 million letters, we received 1,678 affirmative replies."

"That should give the Republicans something to think about," I said.

"I believe one of the reasons for the success of the organization," Wankleman said, "is we promise them that even if they support McGovern, they can still vote the straight Democratic ticket for other races. This has reassured many Democrats who might otherwise think they were turncoats."

"Where did you get your idea for the 'Democrats for McGovern'?"

"Strangely enough, from the Republicans. When they started 'Democrats for Nixon,' it occurred to us that some Democrats deserved another choice. So we organized the Democrats for McGovern, to give them a place to go."

Mail Service

The U.S. Postal Service, under new management for one year, is, in many respects, worse than ever.

From their own figures, the U.S. Postal Service has to admit that intercity mail moves more slowly now than it did three years ago.

If you can fly from Houston to New York in less than three hours, there's no reason in the world it should take your airmail letter more than three days to get there, but it does.

You and I fly from New York to Chicago in little more than one hour, yet a first-class letter with the ZIP code on it takes two-and-a-half days.

Put a special delivery stamp on it, you say? Forget that. A spot check of letters with that unpressive 60-cent special delivery stamp on them shows most of them — 86 per cent of them — got where they were going no faster then regular 8-cent mail.

One special delivery letter took a day longer to get there!

Postmaster General Elmer Klassen insists that the reorganized Post Office has eliminated much patronage politics, has modernized many operations.

He asks more money and more time to demonstrate improved service. Congress gave him higher postal rates that'll cost you an additional $1.33 billion a year.

And perhaps, considering the cumbersome predecessor structure which has to be modernized, we are too impatient.

But Mrs. Francis Stocker of the Washington, D.C., suburb of Greenbelt, Md., thinks her patience has been overtaxed.

She told the Wall Street Journal that she gave a birthday party for her 3-year-old — and nobody came.

The house was decorated, the cake was decorated, the table was decorated — excited young Jeffrey was scrubbed and waiting. And nobody came.

Invitations mailed 10 days previous were not delivered until six days after.

The Reader's Digest annually mails millions of letters and millions of magazines. That publication reports that its average letter was delivered in 1969 in three days.

Last year, that average letter was not delivered for four days and five hours.

This year, it's averaging five days and seven hours!

In the year the semi-independent U.S. Postal Service has been in business, services have been reduced drastically. In many districts where mail used to be picked up three times a day, it's now picked up once a day. And never on weekends. Even weekend parcel delivery has been discontinued. Window services at post offices have been curtailed.

Private delivery services are booming. Competing with one another, they have to deliver faster, cheaper, better. Maybe that suggests our best hope for better service.

Independent United Parcel Service is now delivering more packages than is the U.S. Postal Service. Regular mail volume is declining for the first time since the depression. What one postal service cannot do, maybe several — competing — can.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Spinach

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any danger in eating "too much" spinach? My parents tell me it may cause kidney stones. Is this true or is it merely a rumor? If it is a fact, I'd be interested in the reason.

I vaguely remember reading that spinach is the best vegetable a person can eat for all-around health. I'm 17 and a senior in high school. — K.R.S.

I'm going to take a firm position somewhere in the middle.

Spinach as well as other greens contains oxalic acid. Some kidney stones consist of oxalates (salts of oxalic acid).

So if a person happened to be a stone-former of the oxalate type (there are other kinds of kidney stones, too, you see), then he ought to avoid spinach and other foods high in oxalic acid. (Rhubarb and chocolate are a couple of others.)

But if somebody doesn't show any tendency toward forming oxalate stones, why worry about it? Anyway, food isn't the sole factor in kidney stones. Ample fluid intake keeps the urine dilute, inhibiting stones. And healthy kidneys, without infection, are much less likely to have stones. There probably are other factors, but the chemistry of the human body is a very complicated matter.

I'll dispute your idea that spinach "is the best vegetable you can eat," being a green, leafy vegetable, it has its values in providing minerals and vitamins. One serving of some green leafy vegetable per day is a pretty valid rule of diet, but it doesn't have to be spinach.

I don't, in fact, know just how spinach got so famous in the first place. But then Popeye in the comic strip popularized spinach (would the word by "Popeye-uralized" it?).

But it doesn't contain any magic properties. I enjoy a mess of spinach now and then, but I can take it or leave it alone. Eat it if you like it, but don't expect it to make you super-healthy. And don't be afraid of it unless you turn out to be an oxalate stone-former. Which you probably won't.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the danger, if any, to the unborn baby of a mother exposed to a child recently vaccinated for rubella? There seems to be conflicting opinion. — Mrs. D.D.

There was concern that such a situation might be dangerous for the baby, but I believe this worry has been dissipated by studies at Western Reserve University.

That study indicated that the danger is minimal if any. If the mother has already had rubella (German measles), there is certainly no risk. If she isn't sure, this can be determined by what is called the HI test.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently purchased some furnace air filters treated with hexachlorophene. In view of the warnings of the Food and Drug Administration about soaps and deodorants containing hexachlorophene, do you think it would be safe to use these filters? — F.J.G.

I doubt that any danger exists. The FDA warning involved direct application to the skin (the possibility of absorption into the system through the skin) and was primarily concerned with use with infants, particularly repeated, full-body bathing, or absorption through broken skin.

You might, as a second check, ask the dealer whether any warnings have been issued about use in such filters, but I have not heard of any.

Two Candidates, Two Interviews, Ten Questions

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

Two candidates, two interviews but only one set of questions. Ten of them by count.

The two candidates: George V. Hansen, Republican, former Second District United States Congressman; William E. (Bud) Davis, Democrat, president-on-leave of Idaho State University. Both candidates for the United States Senate — subject to the will of the voters in the upcoming primary.

The interviews: one in the Turf Club after Dr. Davis had addressed the Twin Falls Rotary Club. One in an air-conditioned apartment to get out of the blistering heat after Mr. Hansen had attended and discussed campaign issues with Republican women at an afternoon get together at a private home.

The questions: Ten in number, wide in range, and answered by each candidate without knowledge of what either said until they read this story at about the same hour Times-News subscribers are reading it.

Question One:

Realizing how close a vice-president is to being President, do you believe a vice-president should be someone who has a record of breaking under pressure and hard work?

MR. HANSEN: This depends upon, of course, how much of a cure he (Eagleton) has undergone. But I would say it is very important that people who run for these lofty offices, such as President and vice-president, have a clean bill of health so that there is no question but what they are capable mentally and physically to take care of the job.

DR. DAVIS: I feel that those closest to the situation, and who have access to the facts, are more competent in making this decision. I certainly believe, however, that the general health and mental health of a candidate running for vice-president of the United States should be unquestionable at the time he is running for the office.

QUESTION TWO:

Do you believe Senator Eagleton was justified in not admitting to Senator McGovern that he had undergone psychiatric treatment on three occasions?

DR. DAVIS: I believe that Senator McGovern would have preferred to have known these facts and to have taken them into consideration at the time he made his selection. I believe Senator Eagleton should have informed Senator McGovern of his past medical record.

MR. HANSEN: I'm a little amazed because I would think this sort of thing would have been the subject of confidential conversations prior to the time any decision was made. I would think that Senator Eagleton not disclosing this, knowing that it could become a matter of public concern, certainly was amiss in not telling Senator McGovern the whole story when the selection was being made.

QUESTION THREE:

Mayors of various large cities have endorsed revenue sharing. Do you favor this?

MR. HANSEN: I'm very concerned about revenue sharing because I think this is another method of bypassing the city and state governments, and it weakens local government. I really think it would be just as feasible for the federal government to back off from taxing under certain conditions and allow the state and local governments to do this. I think there has to be a new concept developed where local governments not only handle their own business but raise and handle their own money.

DR. DAVIS: I strongly favor the revenue sharing concept. I believe federal funds can be more efficiently and effectively administered as near as possible to the local level. This holds whether it is the city, county or state.

QUESTION FOUR:

Do you favor withdrawal from Vietnam before the POW's are actually released?

DR. DAVIS: Any withdrawal from Vietnam must be with the firm understanding that we will have the immediate release of the prisoners of war and an accounting of those missing in action.

MR. HANSEN: The POW circumstance should be tied directly to any end of the war in Vietnam. I do not advocate leaving those men there without any kind of negotiating ability against the North Viets who hold them.

QUESTION FIVE:

Are you in sympathy with the House foreign affairs committee in voting for the withdrawal of all forces not later than October 1?

MR. HANSEN: This action ties the President's hands and gives the Communists a decided advantage. It is a grave disservice to the President. It puts him on the defensive. I believe the course of action in the Senate and the House as regards this war has been nothing but a tragedy for the United States of America.

DR. DAVIS: Yes, I favor the committee action. I think this is conditioned on a POW release and states negotiable terms. This puts responsibility for the action back in the Congress which has shared so little in the decision making of the conduct of this war over the years.

QUESTION SIX:

Should there be any difference in treatment of a deserter than the treatment given someone who left this country to escape the draft?

DR. DAVIS: Absolutely. I am against granting blanket amnesty and I feel that people who violated the law did so knowing there would be consequences. As long as the present draft law is in effect and there is a shooting war we cannot even legislate in this regard.

MR. HANSEN: They are both evading their responsibility. However, I think there is a special seriousness to a person who deserts the armed forces after joining. In a sense, those who left to evade the draft should not be treated any less seriously because if an act of war had been declared their action would have been treason. Under the circumstances they made their choice of living in another country or accepting their responsibility here and I believe we should let them live with that choice.

QUESTION SEVEN:

Do you favor a national park or recreation area in the Sawtooth-White Cloud area of Idaho?

MR. HANSEN: I feel that the recreation area, multiple use concept is by far the best. I do not believe there is any need, any use, or any real desire for a national park in that area, either now or in the foreseeable future.

DR. DAVIS: I prefer a national park for legislation which would prohibit mining in the White Clouds. In other areas I favor the multiple use concept so long as recreation is considered in connection with the timber, grazing and other uses.

QUESTION EIGHT:

Do you favor closing all loopholes which now permit people rich or poor to invest in tax free bonds and securities?

DR. DAVIS: I favor a thorough study of the existing tax program and favor starting from scratch to give consideration to each of the loopholes. This should all be studied but I do not have a final answer at this time.

MR. HANSEN: The tax free bonds are public bonds and pay only a small amount of interest. I am not too concerned about that. But I believe that in the overall we should have a real evaluation of the whole taxing structure of the United States. This is needed because it allows too many people of means to pay no tax, or not their fair load. The problem of loopholes would not exist if we could get into a new and clean-type tax.

QUESTION NINE:

Do you anticipate a recession if the Vietnam war is drawn to a sudden close and war contracts cancelled?

MR. HANSEN: Not really, I think proper management of government and the needs of national defense would allow us to shift these contracts to updating our armament and equipment so that we could continue to be a strong nation. Right now our military store house has been depleted. The time it takes to change this situation would give us ample time to phase back and change our economy from wartime to peace time.

DR. DAVIS: I think intelligent planning in terms of the nation's economy will permit a shift from a war oriented program to a peace economy. This will take foresight and planning and this will be one of the important roles of government in the next few months. It is the obligation of government to provide such planning.

QUESTION TEN:

Are you satisfied with your campaign results and do you anticipate your efforts will end in victory in the primary?

DR. DAVIS: I'm never satisfied with my own efforts but I feel confident. I feel that I will win the primary and also the general election in November.

MR. HANSEN: I feel good about the acceptance we have had in the Second Congressional district, which I represented in Congress. I believe we have had an excellent reception in the Boise area and a better than expected reception in North Idaho. We have fine support, fine workers and things are working out well. Putting it all together I feel we will win the primary and go on to win the general in November.

On Gun Controls

Editor, Times-News:

The Kennedyites (Bayh, McGovern, Humphrey, Hart, Stevenson, Scott, Cellars, Mikva, Harrington, Van Deering, Thompson, Wolff, Gude, Rostenkowski and others) are after your firearms again. When I say firearms I don't mean the so called cheap "Saturday Night Specials" but all private owned firearms.

Law Abiding Citizens don't carry guns while on our streets, in schoolhouses or saloons. It could be possible guns are carried by someone other than a law abiding citizen in foul smelling smoke filled saloons frequented by Andrew Tully and in some schoolhouse in Ireland which Mr. Tully never attended.

Be informed that public officials, writers and news medias that advocate this trash about Gun Control are discriminating, slandering and jeopardizing the law abiding citizen. (The Second Amendment to The Constitution is a guarantee of certain rights). A well regulated Militia, (pause) being necessary to the security of a free State, (pause) the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, (pause) shall not be infringed.

The Congress of the United States makes the Laws of our Country but the Second Amendment specifies that Congress has no power to break or trespass upon the laws of the Second Amendment. Gun Registration or Confiscation is a direct TRESPASS upon every American's Constitutional Rights.

Every State has restrictions PROHIBITING ex-convicts from carrying weapons. A person can be sentenced from five to fifteen years for using a gun to commit a felony. The United States has adequate gun laws. Enforcement of these Laws is the answer for crime control.

Attempted gun confiscation isn't anything new in The United States. Socialistic Adolph Hitlerites tried in the 1930s. Gun confiscation was successful in other Countries. In Ireland, Czechoslovakia, England, Germany and the "grand Pappy" of all gun confiscators — Russia.

In March 1917 the Bolsheviks, after tricking the Czar of Russia into banning firearms, instigated the first unsuccessful Communist insurrection. In Nov. 1917 the second revolution began.

In 1938 Socialist Adolph Hitler stated. "To make the Fatherland safe we must confiscate all the guns." What Hitler really meant was: "To make the Fatherland safe for Nazies all guns must be confiscated through compulsory Gun Registration. When the period of registration is canceled or expires only US NAZIS shall possess guns."

Subversives started racial dissension in The United States and have organized cells of militants. Mr. Senator, Mr. Congressman WHY not a SUBVERSIVE CONTROL instead of Gun Control?

Wake Up Americans! Do you want a socialistic democratic form of government or a CONSTITUTIONAL form of government? A government by all Law Abiding Americans for all the people. Americans, regardless of your sex, write your Congressman or Senator. Your protest against further Gun Control is needed to stop the Kennedyites.

Prayer For Today

Thank you, God, for summer. I love the changing seasons and every one has a charm of its own. But summer brings such a wealth of color in flower, sky and sun. The hymn, "This Is My Father's World," emphasizes another phase by saying "all nature sings and round me rings the music of the spheres." Nature does seem happiest in summer. Help us this year to have a new awareness of the wonders of Your creation and the faithfulness of Your love, which is shown so vividly here.

Sooner Than Suspect

Editor, Times-News:

It is not only later than you think. It is sooner than you suspect. That applies to the primary election where the Republican voters must choose a successor to Senator Jordan.

When we single out the Republican voters we do so because none of the opposition candidates, to date, has caught the imagination of either the press or the people.

On the ticket we find three in the public eye. First, an old party machine man who stakes his all on the old regulars who control the industry and the contributions that finance a campaign. The greasy handed man who repairs the machinery, the common farmer whose calloused hands are more fitted to the handle of an irrigation shovel than to a wine glass, he knows not.

The second is a young and ambitious lawyer and Congressman who aspires to a higher step on the political ladder. If he has a platform it apparently is a well kept secret from all but the Rotarians, the Chamber of Commerce and the heads of industry and finance.

The third is a former Congressman who served well for two terms before he tried to unseat Senator Church. This man has openly stated and restated his politics and his plan of serving the people if elected.

Foremost is his promise to introduce legislation in Congress that would force an administration to stay within the money appropriated by the Congress. An annual deficit of from $26 billion to a projected $38 billion must be stopped. Second he stresses the need for western representatives on the Senate committee on Agriculture and Interior. Today the Senate committees that deal with our problems are controlled by eastern politicans and men who know little of reclamation or grassland management.

For the past three years George Hansen has served in the Department of Agriculture. He is not afraid to shake the greasy hand or rub shoulders with the dusty farmer. Or talk to a road construction worker instead of the contractor who hires him. He answers questions without a 30 minute preface of goobledydook that says nothing. Although a Mormon, he states his position on tax exemptions for multi-million dollar church businesses. That takes plain courage.

This is the first time I have ever endorsed a political candidate. But if George Hansen isn't caught stealing something larger than a chicken or pushing old ladies in mudholes, then he has my blessing and at least my one vote.

And the rest of you better believe it.

Those Rumors

Editor, Times-News:

Because of unfounded rumors being circulated by supporters of other candidates, we feel it necessary to clarify two points of interest regarding Republican senatorial candidate, Glen Wegner.

1. With regard to WISCHE — Mr. Wegner received this scholarship in 1960. Provisions of this program were changed in 1963 to include a pay back or practice in Idaho clause. Therefore, the existing regulations do not apply to him. It should be noted, however, that Glen Wegner does have an Idaho State Medical license and is associated with a medical clinic in Nampa at the present time.

2. Dr. Wegner's out-of-state financial support has been questioned. In actuality it amounts to less than 10 per cent of his total contributions and comes from College of Idaho alumni, medical and law school friends, and other personal friends interested in seeing a man of his high caliber represent Idaho in the Senate. It must be remembered that Glen Wegner prides himself on the fact that he is not indebted to any vested interests and that his financing has come from all segments of the population.

There have been several news commentaries regarding the apathy of the Idaho electorate towards the August 8th primary election Is not everyone aware of the unique opportunity we, as Idahoans, have this year to elect a young man who, because of his widespread knowledge and abilities was selected by his peers and colleagues to serve as the man to head health legislation for one of the largest governmental agencies, ie, Health Education and Welfare, as well as, to serve as an advisor to the President of the United States?

Then let us Republicans recognize the vitality Glen Wegner can bring to our party in Idaho and join together in getting him elected as Idaho's newest and most brilliant U.S. Senator.

About Welfare

Editor, Times-News:

Recently we are hearing a lot of vocal complaints from the welfare mothers about a cut in their payment.

Well, take it from a taxpayer who is fed up with all this welfare, it's not enough to cut it, it should be limited to helping only the elderly and the handicapped.

My mother raised six children, five after my father died. She had no financial help from anyone. We all worked as soon as we were old enough and we had a severe depression going on too.

She was gone from home most of the time during the day and early evening as the librarian. Why shouldn't these women get out and work just like any other working mother? Probably it would be the best thing they could do for their children. Teach them to stand on their own two feet and not expect someone else to solve their problems.

It has been proven over and over again that welfare doesn't solve the problems of a family. It becomes a "way of life" for generations after generation. We do not owe them anything and it is not their "right" to have part of what other people earn any more than it is my right to what my next door neighbor has. So instead of wasting time with sit-ins and such, go find a job!

Ezra Meeker

Editor, Times-News:

Congratulations on your splendid article on Ezra Meeker in the June 25 issue of your paper.

As a student at "Idaho Tech" at Pocatello (now Idaho State University) I HEARD Mr. Meeker who was then about 90 speak about the Oregon Trail and his youthful days on it. He was then marking it in the Pocatello and Fort Hall areas.

Meeting him was an inspiration and today, at 75, I am enjoying a few weeks with relatives in Idaho. I have enjoyed my visit here in the Twin Falls area with my older brother Ted Sturgill. By the time you read this I will be back in my home at Asheville, N.C.

Eternally Grateful

(Note: The writer of this letter was injured in an automobile accident and wrote the Times-News editor telling of her feelings and her thanks for all those who prayed for her).

To the many friends and relatives who came to visit me at Magic Valley Memorial hospital and for the many beautiful cards, letters, gifts and flowers — and especially the prayers — I am eternally grateful.

I am quite sure I would not be here today without the prayers. I expect to be transferred to St. Benedicts Hospital in Jerome I expect to be there for some three weeks and then a cast will be placed on my leg around August 19. I should be able to leave the hospital on August 22 and a few days before Thanksgiving I should have the cast taken off. What a joyous Thanksgiving that will be.

I hope my three children and nine grandchildren will help me celebrate. I now feel this accident was a blessing in disguise. I didn't at first. My first eight or nine days were a living hell, but since then when anyone asks me how I feel the answer is just great — never felt better in my life. And I really mean it.

One great lesson learned is never to take good health or a feeling of well being for granted. It takes the bitter in life to make you appreciate the sweet. Likewise, it takes pain and suffering to make you appreciate what it is like to be free of pain.

When my doctor asks if it hurts during the treatments I have to laugh. Imagine thinking that a little thing like that could be painful after what I've been through.

God bless all of you.

Fiscal group urges accural system

MOSCOW (UPI) — Members of the Idaho Legislative Budget Fiscal Committee Friday concluded the state should turn to an accural system of tracking the elusive general fund, rather than the current "cash only" accounting system.

Both Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach and Acting Budget Director D.E. Chilberg concurred with the accrual recommendation which would figure in liabilities as well as cash flow.

The committee also discussed Defenbach's controversial post audit of the general fund deficit of $2.4 million could be reduced to $1.8 million if unrecorded revenues and improper encumbrances were included.

Defenbach told the committee his report indicated a need for several changes in the accounting system. These included clarification of whether state agencies can spend more than appropriated, the need for control over liabilities, classification of recepits to appropriations and inter-account transfers as revenue, a change to keep the state books open after the fiscal year ends to account for last minute collections, and some sort of policy regarding encumbrances of travel funds.

Rep. Wilbert Cammack, D-Blackfoot, said he felt Defenbach's report had "done a lot more harm than good" and said it offered no help to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus for evaluation purposes.

"The publicity gave the public the opinion that we as a committee are just like the legislature, "Cammack said. "We are spending all our time squabbling."

But State Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, committee co-chairman, said Defenbach's post audit showed the need for clarification of the Standard Appropriations Act.

"I think our problem is simply that we do not have an adequate budget law to give the governor and his bureau proper management control," he said.

Later, Chilberg told the committee Andrus will announce next week his final decision on what holdbacks will be needed to balance the current fiscal year general fund budget of $137.7 million.

Chilberg said his office is "still projecting some deficit for next year although not as high as we were two months ago."

He said he still predicts "about a $2 million deficit" in revenues as opposed to appropriations, although he said sales tax returns are "very encouraging."

Chilberg reminded the lawmakers they must also consider the deficit holdover from the fiscal year just ended June 30.

Policy only

MOSCOW (UPI) — Acting Budget Director D.E. Chilberg said Friday an executive directive regarding legislators' inquiries is meant to apply to policy questions only.

Chilberg appeared before the Legislative Budget and Fiscal Committee to respond to questions concerning Gov. Cecil B. Andrus' order that requests for information be channeled through Chilberg's office.

Several lawmakers have complained the restriction cuts off any direct communication between legislators and state agencies.

Chilberg said the order did not intend to apply to purely fiscal questions, but the governor wanted a chance to control policy statements.

"The governor is responsible for the policies of various state agencies and he is accountable for these policies," the acting budget director said. "And we feel he should have a chance to review this information."

Idaho candidate terms opponent as 'politician'

By United Press International

On the campaign trail in Boise Friday, Republican congressional candidate Steven Symms said, "It is rather obvious that my opponent (State Sen. Wayne Kidwell) is running on the platform that he is a politician."

"A politician looks to the next election; a statesman looks to the next generation. I'll either be a statesman or an apple grower," he said.

Meanwhile, Idaho Attorney General W. Anthony Park, Friday accused Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, "talking out of both sides of his mouth on the issue of Vietnam, and trying to mislead the voters of Idaho."

McClure evidently has one speech for the people of Coeur d'Alene and another for the people of Twin Falls on the issue of Vietnam," the Democratcratis Senate hopeful said.

Republican Senate aspirant George Hansen said in northern Idaho Friday he is finding growing resentment to the 1970 Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA).

"People all over Idaho are disgusted with OSHA," he said. "And they are especially angered by the fact that Idaho's congressional delegation voted for the bill in the first place."

On another political front, Democrat William E. DAvis said Friday a government study showed Idahoans frequently complain about high interest rates under the Nixon Administration.

Stumping in Rupert and Burley, Davis said, "Either we have to have some control on these rates to make money available to the average wage earner or the government is going to have to begin subsidizing more types of loans."

Republican Senate hopeful Robert E. Smylie told the Boise Exchange Club Friday the presence of three distinct new groups of voters has changed the rules of American politics.

"Youth, women and those over 65 will tend to vote with greater independence than ever before in American voting history," he said, "and their emergence will play an important role in future elections."

Democratic Senate aspirant Byron Johnson said in Boise Friday he supports "work incentive for the working poor."

He praised the notion of a welfare reform program that would allow recipents to keep the first $720 in earnings plus 40 per cent of any additional income in determining their supplementary grants. The Boise attorney said the plan would insure those capable of working "not to be locked into dependence on public handouts."

Congressional hopeful Bob Purcell said Friday the tax system is unfair to the small business owner and the small farmer.

The Boise Republican said a return on equity program would be fairer "because it would evaluate the profitability of a business or farm in comparison with the amount of money invested."

Land withdrawn from mining claims

BOISE (UPI) — The Bureau of Land Management announced today the proposed withdrawal of 1,183.47 acres of land in two Idaho National Forests from operation of mining laws.

William L. Mathews, Idaho director of the BLM, said 183.47 acres in the Coeur d'Alene National Forest 12 miles northeast of Pritchard, Idaho, contains one of the few remaining stands of old growth western red cedar in the forest.

The other 1,000 acres of public land are in the St. Joe National Forest.

Applications for withdrawal were filed by the secretary of agriculture.

The effect of recordation was to temporarily ban prospecting and locating mining claims in the area pending action on the applications by the Department of Interior.

Wiretap point delays Pentagon Paper trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Pentagon Papers trial has been indefinitely delayed until the U.S. Supreme Court can hold a hearing on wiretap information, defense attorneys said Saturday.

Lawyers for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo said they had been notified that Justice William O. Douglas had granted a stay of the trial, due to get underway here Monday. In Washington, spokesmen for the Supreme Court had made no announcement of the decision.

The defense was given 30 days to file a petition for a writ of certiorari, and the trial would then be delayed until after the full court can schedule a hearing, after it convenes in October.

Earlier this month U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne ordered the government to turn over to him any information about electronic eavesdropping against anyone connectd with the defense.

Last weekend the government filed a confidential statement with the judge outlining the details of the wiretap, which they said had no bearing on the case.

Byrne overruled the defense request for a hearing on the wiretap information, and he was upheld by a federal appeals panel.

Defense attorneys argued that only they could determine whether the overheard conversation had any bearing on the case.

Newsman still held

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — Hector Menoni, UPI manager for Uruguay, remained a prisoner of the anarchist OPR-33 organization Saturday and his abductors offered no explanation for their failure to release him quickly as promised.

Within 10 hours of abducting the 47-year old Uruguayan national from his apartment Friday morning, the terrorists gave two telephone assurances one to his wife Blanca, the other to the UPI office—that he would be released shortly.

They used the Spanish expression "within a few hours" which indicated the likelihood that Menoni would be turned free in the pre-dawn hours Saturday.

The kidnapers, a smaller rival terrorist group of the better known Tupamaros guerrillas, originally said they were abducting Menoni for a "press conference."

6 Nudes arrested for strolt

LONDON (UPI)—A group of young women wearing nothing but big smiles stopped traffic Saturday as they strolled down Oxford Street. Then they tried to visit Prime Minister Edward Heath and got arrested.

A spokesman for the group said it was a stunt to prompte a rock and roll festival at Wembley next Saturday. During the show, he said the girls would dance naked on stage.

Before that, a police spokesman said all would have to appear in a local court to answer charges of insulting behaviour.

$1 million ransom frees woman

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn (UPI) —A silver-haired 49-year-old socialite, kidnaped from her wooded suburban estate by two husky men Thursday, was found unharmed, chained to a tree Saturday after her husband paid a $1 million ransom.

Mrs. H.C. Piper Jr., wife of the board chairman of a Minneapolis investment firm was found in the Duluth area. She was returned home about mid-afternoon and was reported "tired but otherwise well."

John Morrison, brother-in-law of the Pipers, said the family was "overjoyed and relieved."

The FBI said Mrs. Piper was found in a wooded area near about 150 miles from here about noon. An anonymous caller revealed where she was.

The kidnapers left a ransom note when they took Mrs. Piper from the family's two-story colonial home in Orono, Minn. after tying up two housekeepers.

On Friday Piper appealed to the kidnapers to get back in touch with him. He said he would cooperate completely.

Morrison said Piper was contacted about 9:30 p.m. Friday and was given instructions on what to do with the ransom money. He confirmed earlier reports of the $1 million figure. Piper followed the instructions exactly and paid the ransom Friday night Morrison said.

The kidnapers promised to release Mrs. Piper Saturday morning. When there was no word from her Saturday, Piper made an appeal for the public to be on the lookout for her.

A six-state search, coordinated by the FBI, was conducted for Mrs. Piper. Authorities in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, North and South Dakota worked on the case.

The kidnapers were described by authorities as "heavy-set and tough-looking." They wore pullover sweaters, masks, and gloves, police said. They fled with Mrs. Piper in a two-tone green 1967 Buick sedan, with Minnesota license plates, stolen here the night before police said. The men were followed by a smaller "dirty yellow" car, according to police.

Piper is board chairman of Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood, a Minneapolis investment company with assets of about $56 million. He holds about 12 per cent of the company's stock and in 1970 received a salary of $60,000.

An anonymous man had telephoned a Twin Cities radio station Friday, saying the financial community was trying to turn up $1 million in small unmarked bill for the ransom.

Mrs. piper, daughter of a pioneer advertising man here, is a violinist and an avid golfer. She was board chairman of Northwestern Hospital from 1963 to 1969 and until recently was on the board of the Minneapolis Medical Center.

Tragedy again hits aerial circus family

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)— The son-in-law of tightwire walker Carl Wallenda was injured critically Friday night when he came in contact with an electric wire and fell 50 feet while assisting with a circus act.

The accident was the latest in a series for the Flying Wallendas, considered one of the best acts of its kind in the business. Two members of the team were killed in a 50-foot fall during a performance in Detroit in 1962 and another fell to his death a year later in a performance in Omaha.

Richard Guzman, 29, Sarasota, Fla., was climbing a lighting pole carrying a balancing pole for his father-in-law when he came in contact with an electric wire.

Guzman landed on regular utility wires where he lay in a stunned condition for two or three minutes. He regained some movement and then fell about 50 feet to the ground where his fall was broken by a city policeman who tried to catch him.

The officer, Harry N. Croft, was taken to a hospital for X-rays of his head and neck.

Another policeman reported Guzman's heart was not beating, and a registered nurse working as a volunteer successfully administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to revive him before he was rushed to the hospital.

Wallenda was about three-fourths of the way across a tightwire atop Wheeling Island Stadium when the accident happened at the Osiris Shrine Circus. Wallenda successfully completed his walk.

Check presses nabbed

ROME (UPI)—Police raided a suburban house late Friday and found two printing presses and about $4.1 million worth of fake travelers checks.

Along with the two presses, police said they found 220 pounds of $50 checks in sheets of eight.

Police said only landlord Luciano Pizzardi was in the building when they raided it. Police said they were seeking two men identified as Fernando Lena and Mario Squarzanti on charges of forgery and fraud.

They also filed charges of criminal conspiracy against Pizzardi and his brother Augusto.

When police attempted to trace Squarzanti through an address he gave his landlord they found a convent which led them to speculate that the men may have given Pizzardi fake names.

TO THE VOTERS OF TWIN FALLS COUNTY

We, the members of the Twin Falls Sheriff's Department, have felt that many accusations and insinuations regarding our inability and lack of knowledge in performing the duties of the Sheriff's Department are entirely unfounded. We would like to clarify a few points. We realize we are not perfect, however at the present time, we feel we have a group of dedicated officers who work together and in many cases, put in a great deal of extra time attempting to get the job done. There is good cooperation within the department and much has been accomplished as a result of this. Many night hours are spent by the day officers and many day hours are spent by the night officers — all in an attempt to achieve better law-enforcement.

It has been the policy of the Sheriff's Department that a new deputy should be with the department for a year before he is given the privilege of extra-curricular class training. This gives the Deputy time to determine whether he would be happy in law-enforcement, and also for the department head to decide if he qualifies for law-enforcement work. The deputies entitled to extra training have to take turns as the courses are available, because a partial crew has to be on duty for emergencies. Many of our officers had training prior to joining the Sheriff's force and there are several who have much more than six years experience. Most of those who started their law enforcement careers with our office have attended seminars and training schools conducted by the FBI, Idaho State Enforcement Training Academy and other agencies. They also have the benefit of working with experienced officers, so they are receiving on the job training every day.

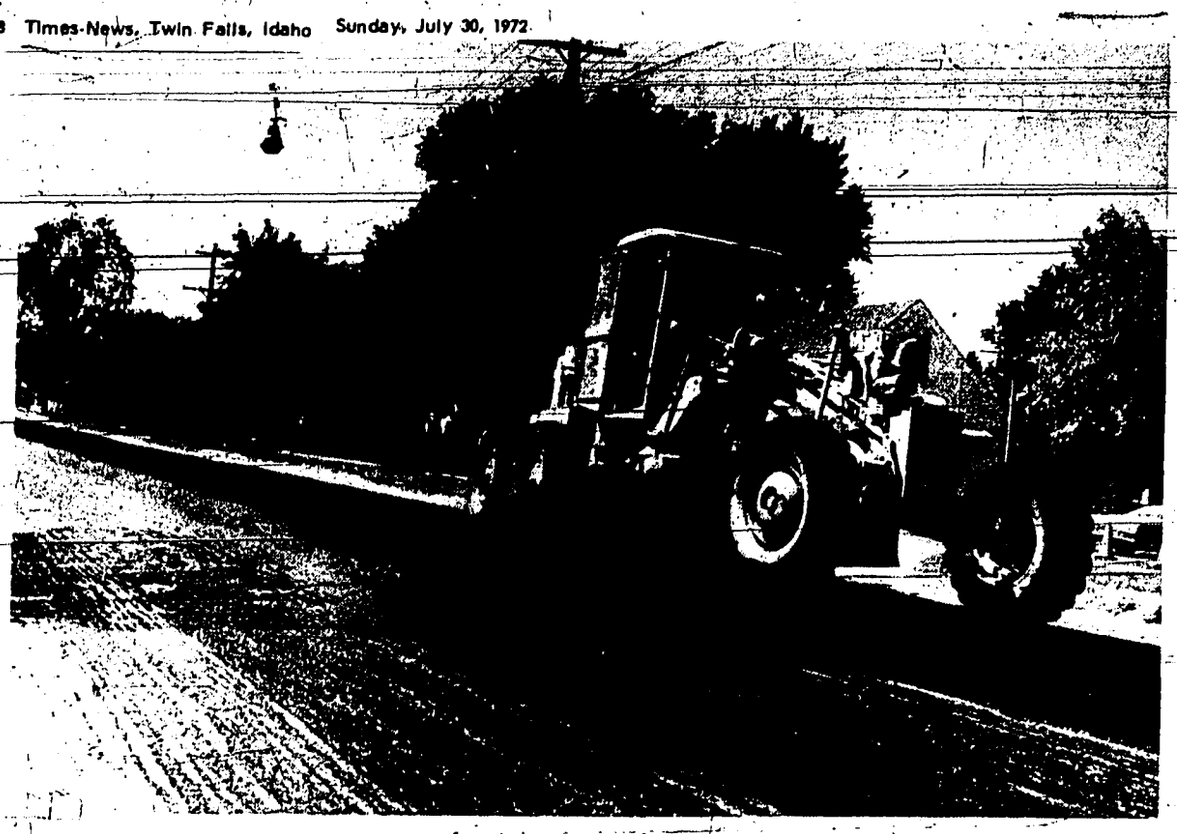

The officers who have left the Twin Falls Sheriff's office, with a few exceptions have gone to jobs which pay higher wages and offer more retirement benefits. They have received training while employed by our office which qualifies them for jobs with other departments, which are anxious to hire trained personnel.

We feel we can put our department up against any department of similar size, and rank very high. We are proud of our department and appreciate the support of the citizens of Twin Falls County. We want to continue to work for Twin Falls County under Sheriff Paul Corder, whom we feel has done an excellent job in training, organizing, and fulfilling the duties of his office in a reasonable and prudent manner within the limits of the budget alloted him.

We, as Deputies pledge to the people of this County, our best in law-enforcement and ask your support in the upcoming election. A vote for PAUL CORDER is a vote of confidence in this department.

ONE OF ROUGHEST of the streets in Twin Falls, Addison Avenue is getting some long deserved maintenance work. Idaho Department of Highways crews began placing a new cover on the main portion of the avenue Thursday. The area between Jefferson and Buchanan Street is slated for reconstruction in 1973.

Maintenance work

TWIN FALLS — Maintenance work on Addison Avenue began Thursday by Idaho Department of Highways crews.

A new surface coating is being spread on the avenue from about Jefferson to Buchanan Streets, highway officials said.

This section of the highway is scheduled for a full reconstruction project in 1973, City Manager Jean Milar said. The state is currently accepting environmental comments and statements regarding the project from citizens and local agencies. Public hearing regarding actual construction plans have been held and right of way work outlined.

Milar said the present maintenance project is a stopgap measure to improve the badly deteriorated street, part of U. S. Highway 93, until the permanent widening and reconstruction can be undertaken.

Manager duped

DETROIT (UPI) — A bank manager Thursday was duped into giving $68,000 in bank funds to a telephone extortionist who said he was holding the manager's wife hostage and threatened to blow up the bank.

In his haste to meet the demand, Alfred Zukowski, 33, manager of branch of the Bank of the Commonwealth, turned over $18,000 more than the extortionist demanded.

Zukowski later learned that his wife was safe at home, had not been held and had been tricked into not answering the telephone.

Divorce prevented

VISALIA, Calif. (UPI)—A 10-year-old girl's plea to a judge to help her "keep a mom and dad" by preventing a divorce has brought the couple together again.

Judge Jay Ballantyne of Tulare County Superior Court said the girl's mother and father agreed to give their 12-year marriage a second try during a tearful reunion in the judge's private chambers Wednesday.

The young girl had sent a letter to Ballantyne. Part of it read: "Please don't let them get a divorce. My Momma loves my Dad; if you could put him in a hospital he could quit drinking."

Ballantyne said he'd received letters from all over the country offering help.

The father, he said, had agreed to join Alcoholics Anonymous and the family would seek counseling from an associated group—Al-Anon.

LA man searches for girl

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — David Schwartz is looking for "Albuquerque Girl" and the search is costing him $1,600—in bus advertising.

Schwartz, 20, has taken his entire savings to pay for ads on the sides of 50 buses which say:

"I love Albuquerque Girl. Real skinny who works and lives in L.A. Picked me up on Hywy 1 in Santa Monica July 10. Contact me at 925 S. Vermont. Urgent."

Schwartz, a former student at the University of Michigan, said he has met the girl only once. He was hitchhiking from Detroit to San Francisco, he said, when the brown-haired girl and a male companion picked him up in Santa Monica.

"I blew it," he said. "It wasn't until I got up as far as Monterey that I realized I didn't know her name. She was great. It's just a feeling you have when you talk to someone and you immediately seem like old friends."

Lin's death confirmed

ALGIERS (UPI) — Former Chinese Defense Minister Lin Piao tried to assassinate Mao Tse-tung and seize power in China, then was killed when he fled to Russia aboard an aircraft that crashed in Mongolia Sept. 12 1971, the Chinese Embassy said today.

The embassy announcement did not say whether Lin, once designated as Mao's successor, was killed in the crash or whether he died in some other manner. Nor did the statement disclose the cause of the plane crash.

Details of Lin's failure to overthrow Mao and also to reach Russia safely were published in the Algerian government newspaper El Moudjahid. The embassy later confirmed that it had released the published announcement.

The Chinese embassy in Paris also confirmed Lin's death.

The embassy statements apparently ended 10 months of speculation as to the fate of the former defense minister.

After the crash of the Trident aircraft in Mongolia, reports from the Soviet Union identified Lin as one the victims but the Mongolians and Chinese at the time denied the report.

Lin "conducted antiparty activities in a premeditated fashion with a well determined program and with a plan to usurp power, that is, to take over the direction of the party, the government and the army," the embassy statement in El Moudjahid said.

"Lin Piao committed errors repeatedly and President Mao Tse-tung had time and again battled against him," the embassy statement said.

"Outwardly he declared openly his support of the thought of Mao Tse-tung and and made propaganda in favor of this thought. Thus he was able to hoax the masses of people into becoming in their eyes the 'successor' of Mao Tse-tung.

"Some times Lin Piao was obliged to tone down his arrogance and thus was able to accomplish a certain useful work. But he was not able to renounce his crafty nature during the Great Cultural Revolution.

"The Lin Piao affair constitutes a reflection of the battle between two lines in the heart of the party that had been going on for a long time."

Earlier, in Hong Kong, an authoritative Chinese publication had hinted that Lin was dead.

Honolulu widow files suit

HONOLULU (UPI)—The widow of a 24-year-old man who committed suicide has filed a $1.2 million suit against a store that sold him a rifle which he used to shoot himself.

The suit charged that Honolulu Sporting Goods Co. violated federal law in selling the .22 caliber rifle to Ian T. Miller because he was a convicted felon and a registered narcotics addict.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court here by Philip D. Bogetto, representing Mrs. Stephanie Miller, demanded a jury trial. The suit said Miller shot and killed himself while sitting on a boulder in a streambead Jan. 2.

Town buzzes with Missouri monster stories

LOUISIANA, Mo. (UPI)—At 3:30 p.m. on July 11, Terry Harrison, 8, was playing in the backyard of his parents' home when he saw "a big, hairy thing with a dog under its arm."

Terry ran to the house and hollered for his older sister, Doris, 15. Doris looked out the bathroom window and saw "a tall, black hairy thing standing in the ditch." She locked the doors and called her mother.

At 4 p.m., her father, Edgar Harrison, arrived home and found no trace of the monster. But he said the brush was beaten down where the creature supposedly had been and there were some faint footprints in the dust with black hairs around them.

Since then, this quiet Mississippi River town of 4,600 has been alive with reports of the monster on Marzolf Hill.

At City Hall, the town's bars and the A&W root beer stand, people are buzzing with tales of "it," "the beast," "the creature" or, as they have nicknamed it, "Momo"—Missouri monster.

Three days after Terry first said he saw the monster it was church night at the Harrisons' house. The family was showing more than 30 persons out at 9:45 p.m.

"About 12 of us were left when balls of light, moving east to west, fell over the trees in the next yard," Harrison said. "Two more came over Lincoln School. One was white, the other green, both about a foot in diameter."

"Then there was a loud growling sound, getting louder and louder, closer and closer. My family jumped into the car and began urging me to drive off," he said.

"Over 40 people were coming toward my house, some carrying guns. They had heard the same noise we did," he continued. "I stopped the car and my wife told them: 'Here it comes. And those 40 people turned around and ran down the street."

Harrison, who has worked 21 years for the city's Board of Public Works, said his wife and daughter have moved out of the house and said are not coming back.

"I spend my noon hours with some of the fellas looking in the woods," Harrison added. "I'll look under every piece of brush, every piece of rock. I won't stop until I find out what it is."

The city had declared Marzolf Hill "off limits" because of the newsmen and trigger-happy adventurers who have flocked to the heavily wooded hill. The city owns 40 acres of the hill, which is better known as "Star Hill" because town elders put up a star on its summit every Christmas. But Edgar Harrison owns six acres and "nobody's gonna keep me off."

Ellis Minor is a grizzled, toothless fisherman who spends summer trying to catch catfish near his cabin on the river.

"I'm 63 and lived here since I was 6," Minor said. He stopped cleaning fish long enough to describe in a slow drawl what he saw about 8:30 p.m. on July 21.

"I was sitting right here in front of the house; The rest of the family were at a fair at Pleasant Hill," he said. "My white bird dog started to growl. He's usually quiet. And I shone a light, right there about 20 feet up the road.

"It was standing there, hair black as coal. I couldn't see its eyes or face—it had hair nearly down to its chest. As soon as I threw the light on it, it whirled and took off thataway. It's the first time I ever seen an ugly-looking thing like that," Minor said.

"If that dog hadn't growled, it might have walked right down into my yard. It was headed for the water. I don't know which would've run faster—me or the dog."

"We tried to track it the next day, but couldn't 'cause it's so dry," Minor said. "Besides, a person would be a damn fool to try to catch that ugly thing. He's absolutely the damndest-looking thing I've ever seen in my life."

Patrolman John Whitaker, an easygoing man who has been patient but amused at the flock of newsmen and sightseers, listened carefully to Minor's account.

"I've known Ellis Minor all my life and I've never known him to make anything up," Walker said later. "Something just might be up in these hills."

About 11 miles southeast of Bowling Green, Mo., a young, pregnant housewife stood angered and embarrassed in front of a small, two-story frame house. She had been harassed by skeptical neighbors and her landlord threatened to throw out her family because of her report of what she saw in a field the night before.

She refused to give her name, although it was stenciled neatly on the mailbox in front.

"We're church-going people," she said. "We got no need to lie. I'm not crazy and I'm not afraid of those who'll say I am. I know what I saw."

She said she had been washing the dishes the night of July 22 and smelled "something dead." She said she went outside where she saw two balls of fire and thought one of them landed in the cow pasture.

"Then we heard grunts and like a scream," she said. "We've got coyotes around here and I've heard wild hogs—but never anything like that."

Jerry Floyd is a painter and assistant chief of the town's six-man police force. He'll be happy to dump the whole monster business into the lap of Police Chief Shelby Ward when Ward returns from his Michigan vacation.

Dutifully, Floyd has investigated the various reports—that a shaggy beast was seen running across a road with a dog in its mouth, or lifting the rear end of a foreign car containing two frightened teenagers.

"We've investigated in hopes of ending the rumors," Floyd said. "I walked up and down Marzolf Hill with a flashlight and found nothing but three carloads of kids looking for the monster."

"I think I'm open-minded about this thing, but I've investigated everything and haven't found any substantial evidence," he said. "It could be a combination of things. People don't have much to do in the summertime. They might let their imaginations run away with them. Or it could be kids."

"Most of the people are disgusted with the whole thing. They think it's ridiculous."

Asked whether there had been other sightings by persons who didn't want the publicity, Floyd replied, "in all fairness, we have had other people say they've seen this thing. Most at a distance of about 20 feet and at night. Some good, reliable citizens. I just don't know."

One man who thinks he might know what is haunting Marzolf Hill is Hayden C. Hewes, founder of the International Unidentified Flying Object (UFO) bureau based in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Hewes and an assistant camped out a night on the hill—hoping to record the growls of Momo.

Mahon airs spending

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman George H. Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee said Friday Congress is not in a mood to pass President Nixon's proposed ceiling on spending.

Mahon said saving money isn't that easy.

But the Texas Democrat said he nevertheless will talk it over with congressional leaders and Appropriations Committee members "to see whether any worthwhile move can be made" toward a workable spending limitation.

"I don't think sentiment right at the moment such that this would be done," Mahon told a reporter. "Maybe if the President outlined what cuts he had in mind the Congress would be in better position to act."

Nixon this week called on Congress to quit forcing his budget into the red, and asked for passage of a bill putting a flat limit of $250 billion on the amount the government can spend in the 12 months that began July 1. Current spending plans run several billions higher than that.

JOHN R. LEMOYNE
Gooding County Commissioner

Residence: Hagerman, Gooding County

Biographical Sketch

Have lived in Hagerman Valley since 1928, and am now 49 years old. Owned irrigated farm for 21 years, have served on the Hagerman Highway Board for 20 years, four years on Hagerman School Board, two years on Gooding Hospital Board, one year chairman of County ASC Committee, four years on Gooding Country Club Board, several years on County Waterways Committee, now a licensed real estate broker and president of South Idaho Chamber of Commerce.

Goals and Concerns

I stand in favor of orderly, well planned growth for Gooding County. The county will grow anyway, and we must take steps to plan and direct that growth.

I feel that there have definitely been abuses in the welfare program, and that it requires continuous scrutiny. I would like to see how other counties are handling the problem and perhaps implement their more successful programs.

I am seriously concerned with the entire county. Although better acquainted with the Hagerman district, I realize that my responsibilities as county commissioner would be to all the people of Gooding County, and my real estate business has made me familiar with the whole county.

I strongly uphold the multiple use concept for our natural resources. I believe that with proper management, we can gain the economic advantages from our water and land, and still preserve the beauty and freedom of use that we have enjoyed in the past.

I realize that the county is a 3½ million dollar a year business and I will be prepared to help run it in a business-like manner. Wages paid and work produced should be comparable to that expected in a business

WILLIAM N. BRAILSFORD
Gooding County Commissioner
Republican

Residence: Hagerman, Gooding County

Biographical Sketch

Life-long resident of Hagerman. Graduated with honors in 1963 from California State Polytechnic College with degree in animal science.

Have two children. Serving second term as president of Big Bend Canal Co.; second term as advisory board member of Sawtooth National Forest; member of Gooding County Wool Grower's Association; Idaho Wool Grower's Association; Idaho Cattlemen's Association; American Society of Range Management, and Idaho Public Land Resource Council, Inc.

Goals and Concerns

I believe that a certain amount of welfare is warranted, but a long, hard look should be given to some welfare allocations.

I feel that the county is under a heavy tax burden at the present time and that spending should be kept to a minimum.

I think law enforcement has been handicapped by recent court decisions, but the county must exert all possible moral, financial and political support to the law enforcement officials.

Since Gooding County is primarily an agricultural area, I feel that heavy industry, with its train of urban ills and blight, should be discouraged.

I feel we should "make haste slowly" in planning for the future so that the end result will benefit all residents.

I am firmly in accord with the "multiple use concept" and believe development guided by sensible, balanced controls will assure the economic, recreational and aesthetic legacy for the future.

This is an exciting and perplexing time and I believe all changes must be given the most careful study and wisest council to make certain the citizens of Gooding County receive the greatest benefits and highest priority.

Court backs censure of attorney

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court Friday affirmed the recommendation order of the board of commissioners of the Idaho State Bar against Frederick A. Snook, a Salmon attorney.

A complaint was filed against Snook last August for "willfully and knowingly" attempting to avade income tax payments and owing the United States in violation of the Internal Revenue Code.

The board of commissioners filed a recommendatory order that Snook be suspended from law practice for nine months, fined $1,000 and pay all costs.

Snook entered a plea of no contest to the charge.

Pro Tem honored in rite

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The body of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., was placed with martial honors in the marble rotunda of the Louisiana capitol Saturday and he was praised in a memorial service as the state's most respected man of this century.

Ellender, 81, who served in the Senate 36 years, rising to No. 1 in seniority and the position of president pro tempre, died Thursday in Bethesda Naval Hospital near Washington D. C. His body was brought home Saturday by an honor guard, his family and staff.

President Nixon, Vice President spiro T. Agnew and Sens. George S. McGovern and Thomas F. Eagleton, the Democratic presidential and vice presidential candidates, will lead mourners at funeral services Monday in Ellender's hometown of Houma.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said at the memorial service in the rotunda that Ellender became president pro tem and third in line for the presidency "because he deserved it."

Long said that "never at any time during his entire career was there so much as one hint of mischief or misconduct, either in his public or in his private life."

Gov. Edwin Edwards said, "Not in our lifetime will we in Louisiana again witness a man of his magnitude." The 44-year-old Cajun governor ended with a tribute to Ellender in French.

"He never allowed me to talk to him by telephone or in person without speaking French, which he dearly loved," Edwards said afterward.

Five soldiers stood at attention at Ellender's open black coffin.

Bridger impact report nearing

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — A spokesman for the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) said Friday that a final environmental impact statement on the Jim Bridger Power Plant will be released the middle of next week.

To Rodda, regional BLM planner, said the statement would not be made public here or in Washington until the middle of next week. He said it had been sent to the Council on Environmental Quality.

The final statement is aimed at the effect the power plant and power lines may have on air quality and rangeland ecosystems, as well as the effect it would have on the community during construction and operation.

The statement also concerns the issuance of right - of - way permits to allow the plant operators, Pacific Power and Light Co. and the Idaho Power Co., to build electrical transmission lines across interior managed public land.

The Sierra Club July 18 demanded that the Environmental Protection Agency suspend construction of the plant until it could insure the facility would meet pollution standards. A suit was threatened in 60-days if no action was taken.

The $300 million project, located 35 miles northeast of Rock Springs, Wyo., is two - thirds controlled by Pacific Power and one-third by Idaho Power.

It is scheduled to produce 1,500 megawatts of power by 1976, which would make it te second largest coal-fired power plant west of the Mississippi River.

Subsidy flap brings another panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department, embarrassed by the leak of an internal young executives committee (YEC) report recommending abolition of farm subsidies, has named another committee.

But Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell in making the announcement said Friday that no matter what the new group of young administrators does, no one should interpret any reports they may make as reflecting anything but their personal views.

"The purpose of the young executives committee is for members to select a topic for study which will get them acquainted with work beyond their own agency in the Department of Agriculture," Campbell said.

"As previously, any report that they develop will be the opinion of the young executives and will not be an official report of the Department of Agriculture."

The Undersecretary was formally designated as chairman of the YEC. He held the same post for a similar committee which functioned from April, 1971, until last June 30 under a directive by former Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

The 1971-72 panel, asked by Hardin to study farm income programs to give him the benefit of a fresh approach to the subject, compiled a report which recommended phasing out all farm subsidies within five years.

The report conceded farm income would be slashed sharply and the value of the farmland would be drastically reduced, but argued the government should regard farming as an industry and offer aid only if needed to assure adequate production.

A copy of the report leaked to the National Farmers Organization, which publicized it widely. Later, department officials furnished copies to newsmen who requested it, along with a statement declaring the report represented only the views of the authors and not the policy of the administration.

NFO officials persuaded the Democratic Party to write a formal "repudiation" of the report into their platform, and have indicated they will seek a similar statement in the Republican Platform.

Research fund hike pondered

MOSCOW (UPI) — Dr. Autis Mullins, dean of the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, said Friday agricultural research in the Cooperative Extension Service would seek about $1 million in additional state appropriations for fiscal 1974.

US firms build hatred selling 'outlaw' goods

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — American corporations are creating hatred and animosity toward the United States by selling undeveloped nations products outlawed in this country.

The American Trial Lawyers' Association Convention was told Friday by Irwin Birnbaum, a New York trial lawyer and professor of law at Syracuse University college of law, that "While we trial lawyers are using our resources to bring safe products and working conditions to Americans, the same American corporations, who are being forced to respect consumer and workers safety in this country, continue to kill, maim and injure workers in other countries with products that have been proven unsafe and even lethal in the United States."

"American corporations are dumping unsafe and dangerous products in every underdeveloped country in the world and creating hatred and animosity toward the U.S. and inflicting injury and death in these countries," Birnbaum said.

As examples, the lawyers said, "Drugs banned from the market by the FDA as unsafe and ineffective are being sold in England by their American manufacturers."

"American cigarette manufacturers are selling American-made cigarettes in Africa without the warning labels on the package," he said.

And, in reverse, "International Harvester and John Deere cannot sell the farm tractor in Sweden without a rollover cage, yet thousands of American farmworkers are injured and many killed through use of such farm equipment without this important protection."

Gem court redirects appeal

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court Friday affirmed a lower court decision which said administrative remedies should be exhausted in utility cases before proceeding to the courts.

The justices ruled in the case of Wayne and Noreen Grever, operators of the Ferncroft Lodge in west-central Idaho. The Grevers had sought a court order requiring the Idaho Telephone Co. to provide service, as they had previously been unable to secure service for their business.

The court said the district court had ruled correctly and stated the plaintiffs should have initiated their action in the administrative agency.

The machine is so arranged that you can turn down only the proper number of voting levers for each office.

No votes are registered until the curtain lever is moved to open the curtain, and so you can make as many changes as you desire while the curtain lever is at the right side.

No one will know how you have voted because the movement of the curtain lever returns the voted voting levers to the unvoted position before the curtain begins to open.

Residence: Hazelton, Jerome County

Biographical Sketch

I have been a resident of Jerome County most of my life. I worked for the Twin Falls Police Department from September 1965 to July 1970 and the Sun Valley police department from July 1970 to July 1971. I have attended numerous law enforcement schools. I am now a business owner in Hazelton.

Goals and Concerns

If elected to the office of Jerome County sheriff my goal will be to have a law enforcement agency that will give the taxpayers of the county their money's worth. My main ambitions for the county as sheriff are as follows:

An efficient 24-hour law enforcement agency with full time deputies; to have all personnel certified and trained in police work;

to have a deputy on duty at nights to patrol the county and check businesses for theft and fire (also this would include homes of people who are away and wish their homes watched).

I have been born, raised, and pay taxes in Jerome County. I feel qualified to know what the people expect for their tax dollars that support the sheriff's office.

Member of American Federation of Police; Magic Valley Peace Officers Association; Idaho Peace Officers Association; Jerome Masonic Lodge; past worthy patron of Eastern Star and completed advanced police officers course, 1971.

Goals and Concerns

Opposed to the registration of hand guns. "Guns in Jerome County are a way of life - both for protection and recreation - and I would be active in any law enforcement association which opposes gun, ownership restrictions."

We have adequate laws right now and the key rests with enforcement of those laws and not the introduction of new legislation.

Favor better communication between law enforcement and young adults.

Due to my recent experience in Jerome County law enforcement I am aware of the present problems — such as drugs, disrespect for law, etc. If elected sheriff, I am qualified to step in and proceed accordingly.

Gas earnings up

BOISE — Operating revenues of Intermountain Gas Co. increased during the 12 months ended June 30 by $5 million over the same time last year.

R.D. Grimm, president, reported revenues of $30.4 million for 1972 compared to $25.3 million in 1971. Earnings per common share for the 12 months ended June 30 were 11 cents above the same period in 1971.

Construction throughout Intermountain's service territory for the first five months of 1972 is 41 per cent greater than the same period in 1971. National construction figures for the first four months of the year show an increase of 15 per cent above a year ago, Grimm said.

McGovern's staff undergoing severe trials

By JOHN HALL

CUSTER, S.D. (UPI)—The precocious, hard working staff that helped Sen. George S. McGovern win the Democratic presidential nomination is undergoing another severe trial.

The misfortune that placed McGovern with a running mate who was under a psychiatrist's care until six years ago is being blamed on the team of political newcomers who helped raise McGovern to the top.

For perhaps the first time, the self-confidence and esprit that infected the McGovern organization—even in its lowest moments when the candidate was an also ran in public opinion polls—appears to be fading.

Twice this week, McGovern has reprimanded his workers: once for undercutting efforts to re-unite the party with planted stories that Lawrence F. O'Brien, the former Democratic national chairman, had been relegated to a titular role in the campaign, and secondly a statement in which McGovern warned his people to halt further speculation that Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton would be replaced as the vice presidential candidate.

Although McGovern has declared he blames no one for Eagleton's selection, many of his staff are plagued with guilt that they did not more thoroughly check rumors that circulated about Eagleton's health.

The staff, which managed the McGovern delegates so skillfully at the convention, failed to convey the rumors in an urgent manner. They were passed off as gossip.

Five days later at a breakfast with Eagleton in Washington, attended by McGovern staffers Frank Mankiewicz and Gary Hart, it became clear that a story of critical importance to McGovern's campaign was about to break. It regarded Eagleton's past.

By that time it was too late.

While some of McGovern's staff clearly had been busy keeping open loopholes for the possible replacement of Eagleton on the ticket, it is clear that only two men will be involved in that decision.

McGovern and Eagleton.

It is just as clear that only McGovern and Eagleton could have prevented the selection.

Here was the scene at Miami Beach, the night of McGovern's nomination. Rumors had circulated that Eagleton, one of the top men on McGovern's list of vice presidential possibilities, has suffered from a drinking problem and a nervous condition.

That input is digested along with a myriad of other factors: Eagleton's Catholicism, which provides a balance to McGovern, the son of a Methodist preacher; Eagleton's ties to labor unions, which McGovern lacks; his easy relationship with Democratic regulars, whom McGovern has offended.

Gordon Weil, McGovern's entrusted senate aide, is given the job of finding out if the rumors are true. A routine matter, another piece of idle gossip to be checked out quietly.

Weil calls a number of senators, politicians and reporters familiar with Eagleton's career. He can find no confirmation and the investigation ends in an hour.

The findings are reported back to McGovern in the heady moment of his triumph, and he barely pays attention to them.

So Eagleton is not even asked if the rumors are true. It would have been an insult to a member of the Senate club. Aides have lost their jobs for less, and even among the brash young men on McGovern's payroll, not one would risk aggrieving a junior senator.

In short it was not a staff matter. Any more probing investigation by Weil or any other McGovern aide not only would have been dangerous for their careers, but would have opened the McGovern staff to charges of Gestapo tactics at the very time he was trying to unite the party.

So the buck stopped at McGovern. When he called Eagleton on July 14, getting him out of a swimming pool to inform him that he was the vice presidential choice, there was one question.

"Were there any problems in his past that he thought were significant—that were, worth discussing with me at that time and he said no."

There was no next question. "What about all this gossip that you are an alcoholic and nervous?"

The protocol of the Senate is such that questions like this are not asked even in private, but are put down.

Why Eagleton did not volunteer the information is not clear. He said later he had "experienced good solid sound health" in past years and that was all that mattered.

In addition, he thought at the time that only he possessed the information about his past.

The dream world began dissipating two days later when Knight Newspapers received a telephone call from a man its reporters identified as "Mr. X," a source who asked not to be identified, claiming that Eagleton had been hospitalized and had received shock treatments for a severe nervous condition.

Knight and other news organizations tried to check out a story that was snowballing. Eagleton's administrative assistant telephoned Hart and Mankiewicz July 18 in the Virgin Islands where they were resting after the convention.

They cut their vacation short and flew back to Washington after telephoning McGovern to tell him the news. They ate breakfast with Eagleton July 19, confirmed that Eagleton had been hospitalized three times, between 1960 and 1966 and received shock treatments during two visits and had been under a psychiatrist's care.

Mankiewicz and Hart flew back with McGovern to his Black Hills retreat July 21. They seemed preoccupied for the next few days with most newsmen not having the faintest idea why, until Eagleton arrived here last Tuesday. He joined McGovern at a news conference and the story was told to the public.

Mull problem

JUST HOW MUCH Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's past psychiatric problems will be involved in the current presidential campaign remains to be seen, but Sen. George S. McGovern, right, shows confidence here in his running mate, Sen. Eagleton. (UPI)

Nevada taxes on gambling up

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Gambling taxes brought $54.9 million to the State of Nevada in the fiscal year just ended, an increase of 31.7 per cent over the previous year.

Officials said today that $8.5 million of the $13.2 million increase came from slot machine taxes collected by the state that were previously levied by the federal government.

In addition to diversion of a $200 fee on each slot machine from federal to state coffers, the fiscal year saw an 11.5 per cent growth in other gambling tax revenue, despite a slump in the general economy.

TWIN FALLS — The director of the South Central Idaho Health District appealed to area residents today to guard themselves against paralysis-causing ticks.

The warning came after Dr. Wayne Carte confirmed one reported case of paralysis in the Magic Valley area earlier this summer.

Carte said area residents should inspect their bodies for the small ticks after being outdoors. The parasites attach themselves usually to the back of the head and can cause paralysis if not detected and removed.

Cases of actual paralysis are rare, he said, but one case, in Lincoln County, was reported to health officials earlier in July.

A girl, nearly 3 years old, had developed symptoms of paralysis of her right arm. She was taken to a doctor, who discovered the tick and removed it, causing the symptoms to disappear within one-half hour.

Carte said the cause of the disease is the common dog tick or wood tick.

Although incidents of paralysis are rare, Carte said, there is a high mortality rate, 12 per cent, among those who do develop the symptoms.

The health director said the disease is more common in the summer because people spend longer periods of time outdoors. It also goes unnoticed among people with long hair.

Start your winter vacation now

CHANGE YOUR HOME TO FLAMELESS
ELECTRIC HEAT

This year begin your vacation from winter discomfort, from cold floors, drafty rooms, heating noise and inconvenience. Now, while you can do so with the least disturbance to family routine, is a good time to change your home to modern electric heat.

Adding the extra insulation for comfort and economy will make your home cooler in summer, too. So take a winter vacation from outmoded heating and all its troubles. Change to flameless electric heat now!

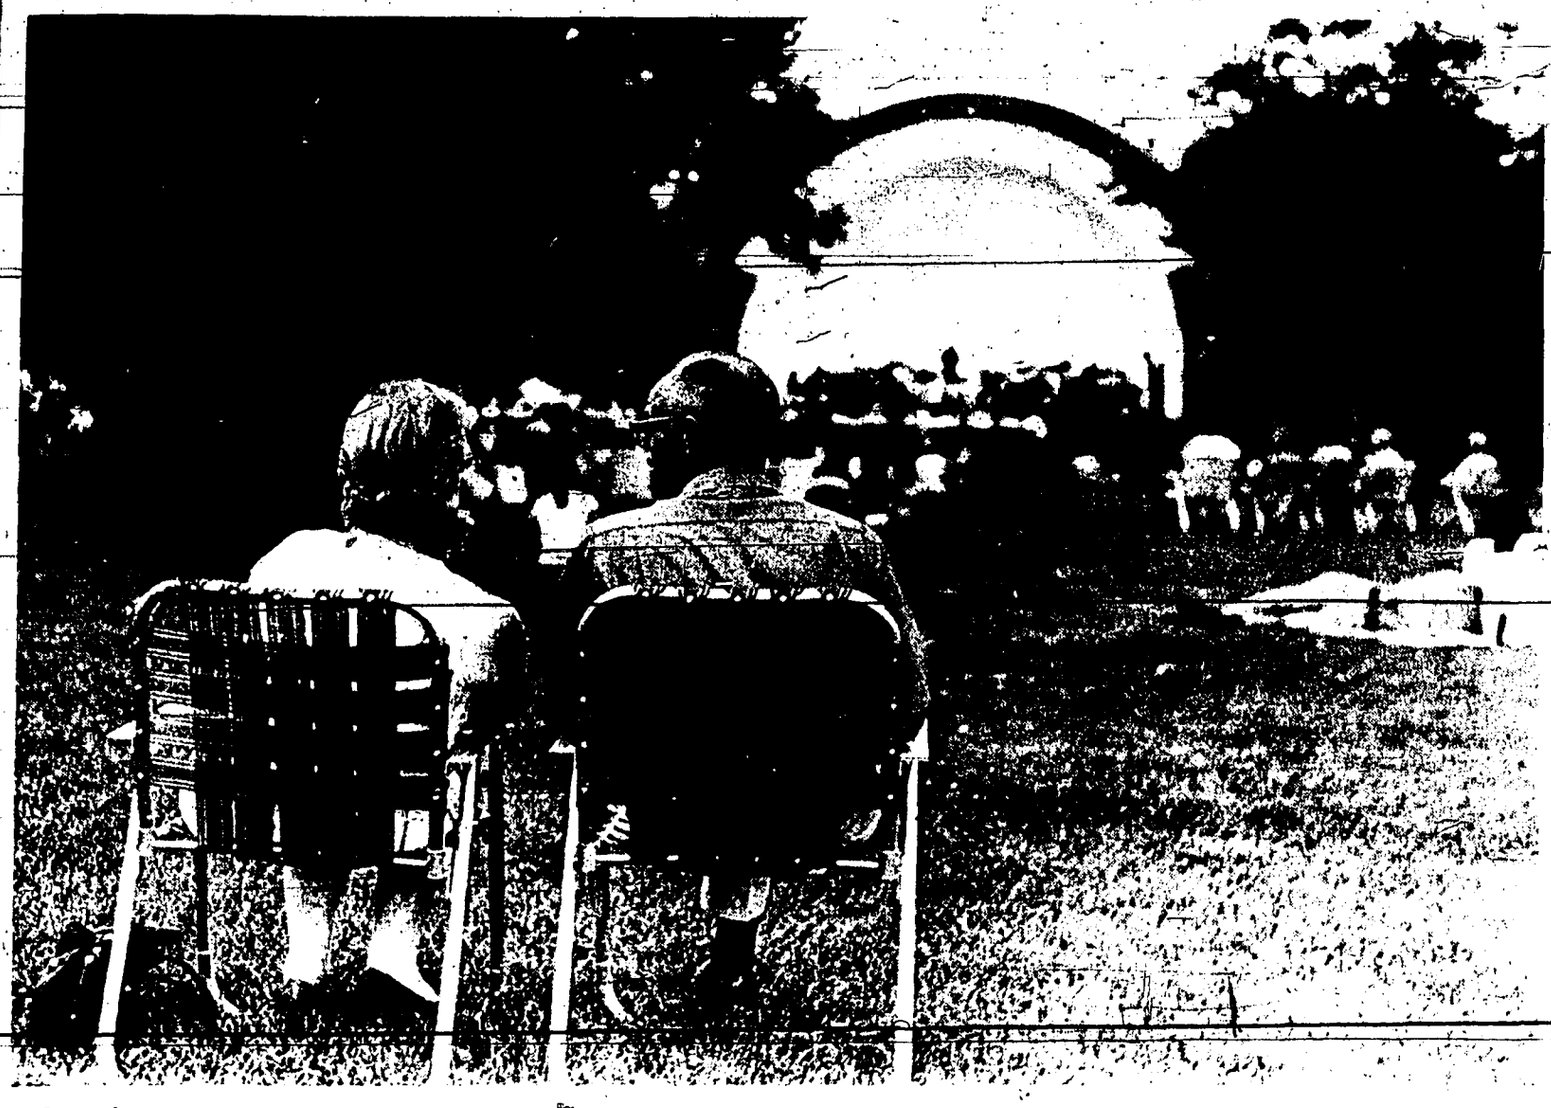

For expert assistance in choosing the best type of electric heat for your home, call your local Idaho Power office.

In this area, electric heating is an "off-peak" service from Idaho Power's system because our yearly peak occurs on a hot summer day, usually in July.

Electric heating does not require added generators — it uses generating capacity already in existence to meet summer demands for air conditioning and irrigation pumping.

TWIN FALLS — Thursday night is city band night in Twin Falls during the summer.

Any week during the annual two-month season one sees families carrying blankets and jackets, perhaps folding chairs, heading toward the park come Thursday evening. Young children are drawn as by magnet to the activity and senior citizens look forward to meeting friends and acquaintances.

But the visible audience at the park is only part of those who enjoy the weekly concerts. Many persons living "within earshot" also plan their Thursday night schedule to be outside, or on front porches and, if the traffic is not too heavy, they also can listen in comfort of their homes.

Some groups deliberately change their meeting night to Thursday during the summer and plan a picnic at the park to take advantage of the concerts.

Over the years, Twin Falls has received much favorable publicity because of the long record of continuous service set by the Twin Falls Municipal band. This is one of the few cities left in the country to still have such summer concerts.

Opening lead—♠ 3

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We aren't going to go into a long discussion of the merits of the bidding. The game was rubber bridge with the usual rubber bridge simple bidding methods.

South wanted to be in six after the opening no-trump bid and North's decision to bid the grand slam was based on his idea that he had to be holding the perfect hand for his partner.

Seven is a reasonable bid in either hearts, diamonds or no-trump. It is best in diamonds because South has a choice of ways to guard against a 4-1 break in hearts.

One is to draw two rounds of trumps and then lead hearts. If both opponents follow to the second heart the last trump is drawn. If the second heart is ruffed declarer goes down but he could not make the slam by drawing trumps.

Jim Kauder tried the best line of play. He won the spade in his hand and cashed the jack of diamonds to see if trumps were 5-0. Then he led a club to the ace; ruffed a club; led a diamond to dummy's queen to see if both opponents would follow.

They did, so he ruffed another club; entered dummy with the king of hearts; ruffed a fourth club; entered dummy with the spade ace; played dummy's last trump and claimed the balance since dummy was good.

If diamonds had broken 4-1 he would have had to draw trumps and hope for a 3-2 heart break and if clubs had broken 5-2 the play would not have worked, but all in all it was the best percentage play and it did win.

Miss Mothershead, Schroeder marry

HANSEN — Debra Ann Mothershead and Marshall Scott Schroeder were married in an afternoon ceremony July 16 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Buhl.

Rev. Harold Schroeder, Wentworth, S.D., performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Doris Mothershead and the late Kenneth B. Mothershead, Hansen. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schroeder, Buhl.

The chapel was decorated with two baskets of white gladioli centered with pale blue chrysanthemums accented with pale blue bows and streamers. White candelabra held pale blue candles and were trimmed with bows and streamers. After the ceremony, the couple lit a pale blue unity candle.

The bride, given in marriage by Ronald Mothershead, her brother, wore a floor-length gown of lace over satin in an empire style. The gown featured long pointed lace sleeves, tiny seed pearls in embroidery at the neckline and a three-tier train. Her elbow-length three-tier veil, borrowed from Mrs. Doug Werner, Kimberly, was held by a daisy headpiece.

Pam Boulton, Kimberly, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gary Bohling, Buhl, sister of the bridegroom, Deanna Dalrymple, Hansen, cousin of the bride, and Katie Rasmussen, Kimberly.

Julie Kohntopp, Jerome, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Robbie Vawser, Kimberly, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. Scot and Steve Atkins, Buhl, were candlelighters.

Kip Gould, Buhl, was best man. Mike Schroeder, brother of the bridegroom, Ted Popplewell and George Wagner, all Buhl, were groomsmen. Ushers were Gary Bohling, Gary Schroeder, both Buhl, and Roger Sievers, Twin Falls.

Roger Clark, Buhl, was soloist. He was accompanied by Ivan Schroeder, Buhl, organist.

At a reception after the ceremony in the church basement, the bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth over blue and trimmed with a satin skirt and pale blue bows. The table was centered with the cake which was flanked by arrangements of daisies and pale blue chrysanthemums.

The four-tiered wedding cake was round with white columns separating the tiers. It was iced with white and trimmed with blue and decorated with fresh daisies on each layer. The cake was topped with a cluster of daisies and a silver cross entwined with two rings.

Giftbearers were Keith Mothershead, Hansen, brother of the bride, and Dave Russell, Kimberly. Eileen Perkins, Hansen, and Susan Spain, Kimberly, cousin of the bride, cared for the gift table.

Shawna Stanger, Hansen, was in charge of the guest book.

Assisting with serving at the reception were Stella Spain and Phyllis Vawser, Kimberly; Alice Dutt, Hansen, and Ella Aizawa and Jenny Kohntopp, Jerome, all aunts of the bride. Carrying trays were Celia Gould, Buhl, and Ramona Pearson, Bonnie Pearson and Julie Huck, all Hansen.

7 MV youngsters attend Gem camp

Those attending are Delene Pooler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean W. Pooler, Bellevue, and her attendant Dawn Skinner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Skinner, Twin Falls; Doug Jacobsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jacobsen, and his attendant, J.D. Bowlin, both of Shoshone; Barbara Bartel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie W. Bartel, Rupert; Karen Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Clark, Twin Falls; and Lee Ann Whitesides, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Whitesides, Burley.

They will drive by car to Boise, where they will join a group from that area, and proceed to Camp Easter Seal by chartered bus.

This year the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Idaho will send a total of 51 children to camp. The camp is owned and operated by Washington State University, and is staffed by counselors who are majoring in physical, speech or vocational therapy.

A typical summer will see cerebral palsy, amputees, post polio, post rheumatic fever, deaf, blind, muscular dystrophy, plus many other orthopedically handicapped children in attendance. Children participate in as normal camping experience as their disabilities will permit. Activities include swimming, boating, archery, shuffleboard, overnight cookouts and arts and crafts.

Not only do the children engage in various forms of physical activities, but they are also helped with personal living skills, such as crutch walking, eating habits and dressing skills.

Although camp registrations are closed for this year, parents of handicapped children are urged to contact the Easter Seal Society for information on next year's encampment.

Courreges pants still popular

PARIS (UPI) — Andre Courreges' trousers that started the clothes revolution 10 years ago came out wider and softer at his winter high fashion show today.

Any change in Courreges' pants for women is a bulletin. It was this shy, balding designer who first put women into trousers suits, and Paris has not been able to pry females loose from trousers since.

Courreges' space-age dresses and coats with welted seams and a stiff look are forever popular with his fans.

But the space-age designer did an about face to show the fluffiest, most feminine evening gowns in Paris.

The designer's first try last season at long dresses looking like schoolgirl "formals" was a success because his customers loved them as wedding gowns, he said after his show.

This winter's versions still are all ruffles and bows in baby pink and blue, perhaps the influence of his 18-month-old daughter.

The innocent-looking gowns, however, are slashed widely to the waist. And several became dangerous with see-through tops. One transparent bodice had strips of black sequins here and there. Pink, satin-crossed straps on another gown did no good at all.

Courreges used an above-ankle length for more simple dinner dresses.

The lowest cost material does not necessarily represent the best flooring value any more than the highest price floor does. Your selection should, first and foremost, satisfy the functional requirements of the area to be covered.

Women's lib movement more than fancy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The women's lib movement is more than a fancy, an assistant professor of English at Ohio State University found. Prof. Mildred B. Munday says in response to a course she is teaching that got little advance publicity enrollment was oversubscribed. The title of the course: "Women in Literature: Images, Models and Stereotypes."

Prof. Munday says literature is something like a Dow-Jones indicator of cultural trends. "Rather than creating social movements," she said.

Blue said popular in new styles

PARIS (UPI)—Paris has the blues today.

Designer Hubert de Givenchy's winter collection for the press was heavy on blue, from navy to electric blue.

A navy wool coat with panels of rust suede down the side matched a rust and navy sheath dress. Classic navy tailored suits were worn with navy stockings and shoes.

For evening, if a long Givenchy dress wasn't black, it was blue, in flowing chiffon or stiff faille.

The big winter style news at Givenchy was a sleeveless coat over suits, to solve the problem of how to wriggle into both suit and coat.

Givenchy's suits were straight and narrow with long jackets sometimes with a skinny belt.

The sleeveless or cap-sleeved overcoats were half or three-quarter length to show the skirt underneath.

For example, a tomato red and olive green plaid suit had a pleated skirt and Givenchy's famous rolled collar.

Book Review

By COLLEN ARRINGTON
Twin Falls Public Library

TWIN FALLS — Classics are often last resort literature for adults and students, when in reality classical selections can be guides to good literature, not lists of thick books to be avoided.

"Jude the Obscure," by Victorian author Thomas Hardy is the subject of this review.

Jude was an impoverished English stonemason who aspired to the ministry but was rejected. This rejection stemmed from the rigid divisions of the era between common laborers and wealthy, influential families.

Jude's lonely childhood parallels Hardy's own early life in sensitivity and early pessimism. Jude himself is not truly pessimistic but Hardy's tone colors the character and shapes a life too tragic for the man to bear.

Jude fails repeatedly in his aspirations to be formally educated, and to conquer loneliness. Although rejected by the universities, Jude did become a self-tutored Greek scholar and devoted all energies and spare moments attempting to appease his desire for knowledge.

As a young man he had apprenticed himself as a stonemason with the purpose of attaining a trade to support himself for educational purposes. Following an unsuccessful marriage, Jude went to Christminister, England, to enter a university. His request was denied for biased reasons. Jude realized then that he could not rise above the laborer's status.

His vocation entailed repairing the old cathedrals and universities, which constantly reminded him of his rejection from those institutions. Throughout the book, Hardy imprints his negative personal attitude upon a character who struggles in vain. When labeled pessimistic by a critic, Hardy replied that he was an emeliorist: an improver.

Thus the character Jude emerges in the end not warped and bitter at his seeming defeats, but a man who has been tempered by realistic aspects of life that can't be altered.

I recommend this book to your reading because it demonstrates well that one does not have to succeed in original goals to be measured as a successful person.

Summer charmer

Fresh fruits, molasses combine in summer treat

Here is a recipe for a luscious summer dessert in which the flavor of molasses is combined with the tang of fresh, juicy fruits of the season.

The colorful Fruited Chiffon Pie is a fluffy creation that takes little time to make. Its delicious filling is a creamy mixture of eggs, milk, vanilla pudding mix and light molasses. Gelatin stabilizes the chiffon mixture and keeps it light and airy when the diced fresh fruit is whirled through it.

Peaches, nectarines, apricots, pears and bananas are all delicious choices for use in this pie. Just before serving, garnish the top with additional sliced fruit. When cutting the pie, use a knife with a serrated edge for easy slicing.

FRUITED CHIFFON PIE

$1\frac{1}{2}$ cups graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1-3 cup butter or regular margarine, melted
1 package ($3\frac{1}{4}$ ounce) vanilla pudding and pie filling
$2\frac{1}{2}$ cups milk
$\frac{1}{4}$ cup light molasses
3 eggs, separated
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
$\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
2 teaspoons rum flavoring
2 cups finely diced fruits (peeled peaches, nectarines, apricots, pears, bananas)
Fruit slices for garnish

In a small bowl, combine crumbs, sugar and butter; mix well. Press mixture evenly into the bottom and sides of an ungreased 9-inch pie plate. Chill. (Or buy two 6-ounce crumb crust shells.)

In a large saucepan, combine pudding mix, milk, molasses and egg yolks. Cook, stirring constantly, until pudding is smooth and thickened. Remove from heat. In a small bowl, combine gelatin, water and rum flavor; mix well; stir into hot pudding until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until mixture becomes the consistency of thick sour cream.

In medium bowl, with rotary beater, beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites and fruit into pudding. Spoon mixture into pie shell heaping it lightly and swirling with back of spoon. Chill until firm. Garnish with additional fruit slices.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

NOTE: For whipped cream variation, prepare pudding omitting egg yolks. Increase rum flavor to one tablespoon in gelatin mixture. When pudding has chilled and thickened, fold in one cup heavy cream, whipped, in place of egg whites.

CELERY

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Celery by its ancient name proclaims its virtue as a low-calorie food to 20th century dieters.

Wild celery was called smallage from ancient times until the first quarter of the 17th century, says the Western Growers Assn., a trade organization representing the vegetable, melon and potatoe industry of California and Arizona. Until then, it had been used only for medicinal purposes in the Mediterranean area.

The name was changed to celery about the time—1623—the French cultivated the wild variety for use as a seasoning herb.

A stalk of celery has only, about five calories and 1 cup, diced, about 20 calories.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I realize that many young people have gone in for far out weddings, which is all right with me. But when they depart from the conventional "thank you" note for their wedding gifts, I think they are going too far.

Today I received what was supposed to be a "thank you" note for a wedding gift I sent to a young couple. [The bride was the daughter of dear friends, so I sent a very expensive silver coffee service.]

The acknowledgment was a folded piece of paper. On the front was "THANK YOU" commercially printed in gold letters. When I opened it there was a photographer's picture of the couple on one side, and a short poem on the other with the couple's names printed below. Abby, that was it! The bride did address the envelope by hand, which was the only personal touch.

I was appalled. I wouldn't have the nerve to say anything to the couple or to their parents, but thru you, Abby, I have been able to fume accordingly. Any comment? No name, please. APPALLED

DEAR APPALLED: Glad you didn't have the nerve to say anything to the parents. After the kids say their "I do's" their parents are not responsible for their actions. I agree, tho customs do change, good manners do not. The appropriate expression of gratitude is a personally written note—The exception being when the number runs into the high hundreds or into the thousands.

P. S. That couple at least sent a card. I was advised that a young couple was sent a check for their wedding gift, and the only acknowledgement ever received was a "thank you" written on the back of the cancelled check!]

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl and I have been taking guitar lessons for some time now. I recently switched to a new teacher who is very attractive. [He's about 20.] He has complimented me on my clothes, my hair, and once he even said he thought I was "cute." He has casually put his arm around me, touched my hand and nudged my foot. From these actions I take it he has an eye for me.

Well, I want him to know that I have an eye for him, too, but in these situations I tend to turn red and clam up.

I am hoping he will ask me out, but I am getting a little tired of waiting. Should I make some sort of move toward him? Or should I let him make the first move?

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Don't make any sort of "move" toward him, but if something comes along that requires an escort, ask him. If he doesn't jump at the chance, quit waiting. He probably has a girl friend.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor lady who leaves her pet [a dog of questionable pedigree] tied up in her backyard from 7:30 a. m. until 5 p. m.—five days a week, while she works.

The poor dog's leash is about 10 feet long, but it invariably gets tangled up in some bushes and the porch bannister, preventing him from reaching the pan of water she has set out for him.

Also, there is no shelter whatsoever to protect this dog from the sun's rays, which are very punishing these days.

I've heard some pathetic cries for help when this dog is in trouble, and on these occasions I've gone out and freed him from his entanglement. But what will happen when I go on my vacation?

I once told the woman that if she couldn't provide better care for the animal she ought not have one, and she said, "I need him for 'protection' at night, and mind your own business!"

Now what? LOVES ANIMALS

DEAR LOVES: Report her to your local Humane Society. If the animal is providing her with protection at night, the least she can do is to provide him with a decent and comfortable shelter.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Book Review

By ANNA LOU CALLEN
Twin Falls Public Libary

TWIN FALLS — Every once in awhile one has the opportunity to read a delightful book which contains humor, sadness and a lot of good thinking.

This is what I found when I read "This is a Recording" by Barbara Corcoran.

Marianne used a tape recorder to register the account of a school year spent in a small Montana community. Her parents have sent her to her grandmother's ranch so they may travel in Europe.

A somewhat sophisticated tenth-grader from an eastern city, Marianne is curiously attracted to TV westerns. She encounters misery and every kind of adjustment problem because of her awkwardnes and tactlessness. After having painfully survived disasters at school and in the woods, she gains the friendship and respect of two Indian boys and of her own grandmother.

During this trying time, Marianne learns much about the destruction of wildlife and about discrimination against Indians. As a heroine, she makes the reader want to finish the story, for the overall conception and style are excellent. The small line drawings used as the chapter headings make the volume more attractive.

"This is a Recording" by Barbara Corcoran may be found in the Children's Room at the Twin Falls Public Library.

Couple marries

TWIN FALLS — Michael Pollak, son of Mrs. Joan A. Pollak, Twin Falls, was married to Lydia Avendano in rites July 16 at the First Baptist Church.

After a wedding trip at the Anderson Cabin in Ketchum, the couple is now at the U.S. Naval Station, Glynco, Ga., where he will finish active duty in the Navy next January.

They plan to return to Twin Falls then, where he will attend the College of Southern Idaho.

Current Cues

By HELEN WALKER

TWIN FALLS — Ecology begins at home — in the kitchen.

Food waste disposers help solve kitchen clean-up problems, the chore of taking out the garbage, eliminating messy garbage cans and their resultant odors, germs, insects, rodents and other pests. They come in several brands and models, and are of two basic types — the continuous feed and the batch feed.

Continuous feed allows the user to add food waste while the disposer is operating. The batch feed is first loaded, then the cover (acting as the on-off switch) must be locked in place before the disposer will operate.

It is wise to give consideration before purchase to: the amount and type of sound insulation, a design which prevents jamming, the size of the hopper and the rate of disposing of food waste.

To make the best use of a waste disposer grind all waste immediately. Foods decay rapidly, (particularly in warm weather) and acids that develop can corrode metal disposer parts and cause odors.

Use cold water for grinding wastes and use a large enough flow to keep the food wastes moving down the drain line. It is important that the disposer and cold water be left running a few minutes after the grinding is completed to flush and drain.

Most disposers are designed to handle all food wastes including bones, fruit rinds and seeds. Fibrous matter like corn husks, pea pods and arthichokes should be ground with other food wastes and fed slowly with a good flow of water.

Non-food garbage such as paper, string, glass or metal should never be put into the disposer, for they could cause drain problems, dull the shredder or harm the impeller.

If your dishwasher drains into the disposer run the disposer for a short time after dishwasher use to dispose of any food particles which may be left.

It is a good idea to flush the drain about once a day. Stop the sink and fill it with about three inches of water, open, then let the water drain through the disposer naturally.

Best results are obtained when:

No. 1. Grease and fats have been solidified before they are disposed of.

No. 2. Melon rinds; banana skins, citrus rinds are torn before fed into the hopper.

No. 3. Soft food waste is mixed with hard.

No. 4. Food waste is not packed into the hopper.

The food waste disposer is self-cleaning and should need no special care. If odors are noticed the procedure is to run an orange or lemon rind or some ice cubes through the unit.

Hiskey and Zarley claim lead in team tournament

LIGONIER, Pa. (UPI)—Babe Hiskey and Kermit Zarley held off scrambling Lanny Wadkins and Gibby Gilbert to grab a one stroke lead Saturday after the third round of $200,000 PGA National Team Championship.

Zarley made three birdies and Hiskey two as they teamed for a 5-under-par 66 on the tournament's better ball scoring system, giving them a 196 total for 54 holes.

Wadkins and Gilbert, who were tied for the lead at the start of the day, overcame their erratic play to shoot a 67 for a 197 total.

Zarley made a birdie putt at the 563 yard, par 5, 11th hole to snap the last tie of the day as the two leading teams could manage only pars down the homestretch on the 7,045-yard Laurel Valley Golf Club course.

But the real story of the day was the way Wadkins and Gilbert were able to stay close to the lead even though each player missed the same green five times.

"The only thing that saved us today was Lanny's putter," said Gilbert.

Wadkins made putts of five feet or more to salvage a par everytime both he and his partner missed a green.

The teams of Gary Player-Bob Rosburg and Bud Allin-Al Geiberger were tied for third place at 200, while three more teams were another stroke away at 201 — Bob Barbarossa-Ralph Johnston, Frank Beard-Deane Beman, and Charles Sifford-Bob Stone.

Zarley, who had a shot at winning the U. S. Open last month until he scored a final round 79, said "If we can shoot a 65 tomorrow, I think we'll win it. We might not have to shoot that well."

The leaders were never in danger of making a bogey Saturday although, said Hiskey, "we made a lot of three-footers for par."

That was nothing, however, compared with problems that befell Gilbert and Wadkins.

Wadkins made eight-foot putts to save pars at the first two holes, sank 10-foot par putts at the fifth and 13th holes, and a five-footer at No. 16. Almost-par putts came after both he and Gilbert missed the green, a rare occurrence in better ball play.

Ironically, the second-place team made its only bogey when Gilbert three-putted from 15 feet at the 12th hole.

Wadkins had three birdies, including an 18-foot chip-in at No. 9 and Gilbert made a 20-foot putt for an eagle three at the 11th hole.

Rambling around.

Roger Michener has given up his wrestling coaching and ticket managing job at University of Idaho to take a teaching position at Buhl high school — and will not be connected with athletics this coming year.

Michener finds it very difficult to stay away from Magic Valley. He left Twin Falls at the peak of his first wrestling assignment (first in district, second in state) to get his masters degree at Idaho. He left Jerome, again after wrestling (first in-district dual loss in history for Minico) to take the above mentioned jobs at Idaho.

Rumors say one of the more successful Magic Valley basketball coaches may be pencilled in as the next assistant coach hired by Glenn Potter at Brigham Young University. Haven't been able to get hold of the man will withhold his name pending verification.

Don Davis, who assisted in football and wrestling and had tennis at Jerome high last year, is switching nine miles up the road to Wendell where he'll help in football and track and head up the wrestling program. Understand that Yogi Behrens will get back into the head basketball harness after a three-year sabbatical — with wrestling.

Interesting news on Idaho's reported plans for getting out of the Big Sky Conference and going elsewhere for affiliation. One such "elsewhere" is the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference. However, those to the south point out that Santa Barbara has given up football and Los Angeles State has made utterances that this could be its last year to field a football team.

The newest thing we've heard is the proposal for Idaho State, Boise State, Idaho and Weber to bolt the Big Sky, pick up Hawaii and Utah State and the stronger (financially, we assume) PCAC teams and have a new alignment. Only thing about that report is both BSC and ISU say the subject hasn't been broached to them and they seem perfectly happy with the present arrangement.

Reports that a North Idaho "angel" might provide the money for roofing the new Idaho football stadium have fallen through. However, most at Vandalville feel that the dome will be a reality for the 1974 season.

Artifical turf base and padding have been laid at the new stadium and the fake grass should going on soon, possibly as early as Monday.

Interesting fact brought out about the Eric Guthrie thing at Boise State. Should whoever is ever going to do something about it decide BSC will have to forfeit all things, the switch of Weber from third to second in football will give the Utah school the all-sports trophy that Idaho now holds. That largely is in the big deal department.

It appears that the Southern Idaho Conference will no longer have ties in football games. No, there'll be no sudden-death playoff. But the league has adopted a rather complicated — and maneuverable — system for breaking ties through statistics. That means the involved schools will have to hire statisticians for each game — and you talk about chances for a good homering situation if they don't. It could well be expected that all offensive — and defensive records — will be shattered this fall. Recall a couple-three years ago when Twin Falls managed only something like 25 yards in the first half to over 100 for Minico and yet led 14-0 at halftime. Go on number of plays' Recall three years ago when Capital's sophomores had the ball only seven plays in the second half (five going for touchdowns) and Twin Falls had it the rest of the time. Add a yard a play, most SIC winning teams (excluding hurry-up Borah) average 62 plays a game and the losers 46 and tight games can be won. That's the one statistic we can prove after 10 years of keeping SIC data — and about the only one.

The new ABA situation at San Diego (no players, no coach, no general manager and no place to play) brings to mind something Jim Goddard, then Idaho basketball coach said in reference to expansion teams.

It gisted that if a man were given a franchise, like the dentist in San Diego Friday, it also meant the owners "gave" him the right to buy their substitutes for exorbitant prices. Goddard said if he were in that position, he would let them keep their subs, go to the streets of New York to pick up 20 to 22 year - olds who were great players but never finished high school or went to college and then come back in a couple of years and beat the socks off most of the established teams.

Heights and depths

15-year-old has early lead in Burley tourney

Spencer, the only one in the field to break par, continues the young tempo established last week when 16-year-old Kevin Packard, Twin Falls, took the opening lead at Gooding and went on to claim the championship.

Spencer will take a two-shot lead into the final 18 holes Sunday, starting at 1 p.m. for the championship flight, but he has some competition within easy hailing distance. Ken Huizinga, Burley, ranked second Saturday night at 73 while the Twin Falls brothers, Jim and Kevin Packard, were tied at 74. Mike Robertson, formerly of Burley and now of Twin Falls, and Dick Reed, Twin Falls, share 75 while defending champion Curt Thomsen, Twin Falls, had a 76.

Robertson, who won this event three years ago, looked like the one to watch when he turned the front side in a three-under par 33. But from the 13th hole on he found nothing but misery, twice getting into tree trouble and absorbing an out of bounds to end the once sharp-looking day with a 42. Jim Blandford, Twin Falls, the reigning Rupert amateur titlist, just missed a double eagle on the 18th hole, had a one-inch tap in for an eagle — and wound up at 79.

Action resumes at 7 a.m. Sunday with the fourth flight teeing-off. It will be followed by the third flight at 7:35 a.m. and second flight at 8:31. Hhe first flight leads off the afternoon shift at noon with the championship flighters going at 1 p.m.

Brad Smith, Gooding, took the first flight lead Saturday with a 76 while Don Robertson had a 76, Roger Nussgen, Burley, 79, and Jim Crawford, Burley, 80. In the second flight, Scott Hansen, Pocatello, shot an 81 to edge Judge G.D. Anderson, Burley by a stroke. Rod Murphy, Burley had 83 while sharing 84 were George Anderson, Mike Ellis and Bill Morgan, all Burley and Frank McFarland, Paul.

Twin Falls' Dick Cook shot an 86 to lead the third flight with Floyd Higgins, Rupert, and Bill Parsons, Burley, one shot back. Sharing 88s were Jerry Dunn, Burley; Brad Neibauer, Rupert, and Rex Wood, Twin Falls.

Ryun turns in third fastest mile time in history-3:52.8

TORONTO (UPI)—Jim Ryun of Lawrence, Kan., ran the third fastest mile of his career Saturday night at the 90th Metro Police Games, shattering the meet and Canadian records for the distance.

Ryun sped around the new rubberized asphalt track at the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium in 3:52.8, only 1.7 seconds off his world record for the mile.

He bested the previous Canadian mark of 3:55.4 set by Jim Grelle in 1967 and the meet record of 3:57.4 run by Tom Von Ruden in 1970.

Ryun, on a comeback bid that he hopes will culminate in a gold medal for the 1500 meters in the Munich Olympics, took complete command of the race with 800 yards to go and virtually sprinted across the finish line, 100 yards ahead of Canada's Grant McLaren.

"I felt pretty tired most of the way," Ryun said after the race. "But I knew I was in for a good time when I heard the announcer say we went three-quarters in 2:57.2 and the crowd really gave me tremendous encouragement."

No attendance figure was announced but the crowd was estimated at 20,000.

The elapsed times after each of the quarters were: .59, 1:57.6, 2:57.2 and 3:52.8.

Ryun said his attitude towards Munich was "much better than it was for Mexico.

Ryun lost out to Kenya's Kipchoge Keino in the 1968 Mexico Olympics in the 1500 meters and his career took an immediate downturn. He was plagued with physical and psychological problems, and only since April has he been running with anything like his old style.

"In Mexico I had to overcome the high altitude and physical problems — mononucleosis—while this year I only have psychological problems and everyone else has them, too," Ryun added.

Ryun's fastest time for the mile is 3:51.1 and the world record for the distance which was set in 1967. He ran a 3:51.3 mile shortly after that.

The teams meet again at 1 p.m. Sunday at Kaycee Park.

Nelson hit a batter in the fourth inning to spoil an otherwise perfect effort on the mound. The nightcap was called after five innings.

The first game was the most interesting as Boise jumped off to a 3-0 lead by scoring a run on Kaufman's double in the first and two more on an error in the third.

Twin Falls had only one hit going into the fifth and then rallied into the lead. Dick Walker started with a base hit and losing pitcher Mike Anderson walked. Rick Spriggs delivered a single and Mike Fries then drove in the tying runs with a double. He scored the go-ahead run seconds later. Twin Falls appeared to ice it in the sixth with an insurance run, coming when Darrell Groves led off with a double and stole home.

But in the top of the seventh, Henslee lived on a throwing error and Thompson drew a walk. Hall and Kaufman delivered a run each with a single and the decisive tally crossed when Joe Adams dropped a good squeeze bunt on a 3-0 pitch.

Twin Falls wasted little time in the second game, erupting for six runs. With one away, Dennis Warburton double and Fries single. Nelson was hit by a pitch to load the bases and the merry-go-round came on consecutive singles by Mike Tremayne, Walker, Kerry Wentworth and Spriggs.

Twin Falls added four more in the second on three straight walks and singles by Walker and Wentworth. In the fourth, Groves and Walker each singled in a pair of runs to windup the lopsided affair.

After Sunday's single game with the Senators, Twin Falls will start preparing for "phase two" of the Lewiston-inspired district tournament. Twin Falls will travel to Mountain Home for as many nights needed in a best of three series to find the sole representative to the state tournament slated for Lewiston next month.

Soviet juniors top U.S. in track meet

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Superiority in the field events and in distance running carried Russian teen-agers to a 124 to 108 victory over the United States Saturday night in the first junior track meet between the two countries.

Victorious performance by Vladmir Zatonsky in the 5000 meter run, Anatoly Solomin in the 10-kilometer walk, Vladimir Isakov in the 3000-meters and Mihail Syegal in the triple jump spearheaded the Russian effort in the second night of competition involving athletes 19 years and younger.

One of the highlights for the Soviets was an upset victory recorded by Vitkov Iounkin in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. He turned in a 52.5 to nip Jim Gailey of Baylor University who was timed in 52.7.

The Russians had built up a 62-54 point advantage during the meet's initial events Friday night.

One of the top performances for the Americans was by Oregon State University's Tom Woods, who captured the high jump with a 7-2 ¼ mark. Woods barely missed an attempt to better the world junior record of 7-5. The NCAA champion bested two Russian entries who cleared 7-1.

The Americans, as expected, dominated the sprints and hurdles.

Johnny Williams, 17, Talladega, Ala., and Harold William of the University of Texas-El Paso broke on top early to sweep the 200-meter dash. Johnny Williams' winning time was a personal best of 20.8.

Americans grabbed the first two places in the 800-meter run with Bob Smith, an 18-year-old Louisiana State University sophomore, shading teammate Dale Scott of El Cerrito, Calif. Smith was timed in 1:49.3.

Droll Role pads mark in stakes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Droll Role, John M. Schiff's impressive four-year-old colt, continued to fatten his owner's bank account Saturday as he swept to his fourth handicap victory of the year with a 1 ½ length triumph in the $59,100 Tidal Handicap at Aqueduct.

The son of Tom Rolfe-Pardella, Droll Role, who won three straight handicaps before finishing second to Quack in the Holly Invitational two weeks ago, earned the winner's share of $35,460.

Angels sweep Texas series

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Southpaw Rudy May survived being struck by a line drive by Frank Howard in the fourth inning to complete a four-hitter Saturday night as the California Angels defeated the Texas Rangers, 8-1, to sweep a three-game series.

May's batterymate, John Stephenson, paced a 13-hit Angel attack with a double and single good for three runs batted in.

After being doubled up in pain, May settled down to hold the Rangers to one hit in the last five innings despite being hit in the midsection by Howard's drive.

The California lefthander also contributed a key double in the bottom of the fourth that ignited a three-run rally after his club held a 2-1 lead.

Vikings sign three veterans

MANKATO, Minn. (UPI)—The Minnesota Vikings announced late Saturday that they have come to terms with Charlie West, Clinton Jones and Gene Washington.

The three players, free agents since May 1, had insisted earlier in the week on bargaining as a unit, but the Vikings said the club negotiated separate contracts with the players' agent, Al Ross.

Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks said "contracts for each of the players were negotiated separately and individually."

Jones and West were due to report to camp here Sunday. Washington, still in Lansing, Mich., when he agreed to terms, will get to camp as soon as possible, a Vikings spokesman said.

Canada grid players sign

MONTREAL (UPI)—Canadian Football League players have voted on a new proposal which brought an end to the current dispute between the CFL Players Association and the team owners Saturday.

This means the regular season will begin on schedule Monday night.

The accepted proposal was first presented to CFLPA Executive Director Gerry Patterson Friday night during a meeting with the CFL commissioner, Jake Gaudaur.

Steelers look at rookies

JEANNETTE, Pa. (UPI)—Rookie quarterback Joe Gilliam caught Rocky Bleier with an eight-yard scoring pass and Denny Ferris plunged one yard for another touchdown Saturday night to lead the Pittsburgh Steeler offense to an 18-13 victory over the defense in a final scrimmage.

ISU hires third new grid aide

POCATELLO — Pete Adrian is the latest addition to the Idaho State University football coaching staff. The 24-year-old Adrian has been selected by Head Coach Bob Griffin to be in charge of the Bengal defensive line.

Adrian is the third member of the ISU staff to come to Pocatello from the University of Rhode Island. In 1971 he coached the pass receivers at URI and one of his split receivers, Chris Hess, broke the Yankee Conference pass-catching mark with 54 grabs.

However in 1970 he worked with Bengal Defensive Coordinator Bill Muir at URI coaching the defensive line.

Adrian is a 1970 graduate of West Virginia University. He had been an outstanding offensive guard until he was sidelined by a series of knee injuries. He co-captained the 1966 WVU freshmen but had a knee operation after the season.

He came back from his knee problems so far that by his senior season in 1969 he was a starter at guard. However after the first game the team physician told him he'd better not play any more.

Figonero has first victory

DEL MAR, Calif. (UPI)—Figonero, unable to win a race this year, scored his first victory of 1972 Saturday when he captured the $22,600 San Diego Handicap at Del Mar by 2 ½ lengths.

The 7-year-old Figonero, imported from Argentina three years ago, pulled away from favored War Heim in the stretch after having taken the lead on the turn from Jeff David which finished third.

Leonard has Schaefer 500

LONG POND, Pa. (UPI)—Joe Leonard won the Schaefer 500, second jewel in auto racing's triple crown, Saturday with a track record of 154.781 miles per hour at the Pocono International Raceway.

Leonard was declared winner following a controversy which developed when his teammate, Al Unser, was awarded the checkered flag. Both drove Parnelli Offenhausers.

When Unser's name went up on the scoreboard as the unofficial winner, reporters and other observers loudly protested, pointing out that he had been in a pit but that time was not recorded.

After a 45 minute study of the timer's tape, officials reversed their decision and awarded first place to Leonard. Leonard was timed in 3:13.49, another track record.

"It was a clear track," Leonard said. "The track was surprisingly good for the entire race."

Mario Andretti, Leonard's teammate, also driving an Offenhauser, roared off to a lead which he held until the 164th lap. The former Indianapolis winner, dropped out of contention when his car was stalled in the pits because of gear trouble.

Leonard maintained his lead through lap 174 when a yellow caution flag was waved because of an accident on the third turn. Jimmy Caruthers suffered first and second degree burns on his left forearm and contusions when his car bounced off a retaining wall. He was in fair condition at a hospital in East Stroudsburg, Pa.

Two cars crashed on lap 122 but there were no injuries to the drivers, Wally Dallenbach and Sam Sessions.

Andretti and Leonard began their duel after favored Bobby Unser dropped out on the 77th lap with transmission trouble. Unser had five stops in the first 77 laps.

Chicago nips Cardinals 3-2

CHICAGO (UPI) — Randy Hundley's fourth homer of the year and a pair of sacrifice flies lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 3-2 verdict over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Cubs' starter Bill Hands, who went 7 1-3 innings, recorded his third win of the season against the Cardinals against one loss, while recording his eighth triumph of the year. Cub reliever Steve Hamilton shared the hero's role by getting Matty Alou to line into a double play with the tying run on second base in the eighth inning.

A's top Twins on 3 homeruns

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Reggie Jackson hit a pair of solo homers and Joe Rudi a three-run shot to lift Jim Hunter and the Oakland A's to a 7-2 win over the Minnesota Twins Saturday.

Jackson, who now has 20 homers this season, cracked his first round-tripper of the game off loser Ray Corbin in the third inning. His second smash came right after Rudi's in the seventh, when the A's scored four unearned runs off reliever Jim Strickland to put the game away. Eric Soderholm's error on a grounder opened the door to the big hitting.

Orioles edge Indians in 11

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Brooks Robinson's fifth home run of the season with two out and none on in the 11th inning Saturday gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians

Robinson slammed a 2-2 pitch from loser Steve Mingori over the leftfield fence at the 385-foot mark. The blow made Grant Jackson, 1-1, the winner in relief of Jim Palmer. John Lowenstein's leadoff homer in the ninth inning gave the Indians a 3-2 lead but the Orioles tied the score in their half of thee inning on a double by Paul Blair and a single by Don Baylor.

Jets wallop Long Island

NEW YORK, N.Y. (UPI)—Rookie quarterback Mike Packer rifled three touchdown passes Saturday to lead the New York Jets to a 29-3 exhibition win over the Long Island Chiefs of the Seaboard Professional Football League.

The rookie quarterback from Penn State (Lockhaven) went 9-for-22 for 213 yards, operating on a rookie-dominated Jet club. Packer threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to John Greco, a 45-yard TD to Rocky Turner and a 49-yarder to Vern Studdard.

Veteran quarterback Joe Namath worked out in a session for regulars earlier in the day and his contract negotiations were scheduled to continue Monday.

San Diego has ABA franchise; needs only players, coach, place to play

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Professional basketball will return to this Southern California community after a one-year absence this fall, but who, what, and how remained unanswered.

New American Basketball Association commissioner Robert Carlson made the announcement Friday, three days after a franchise was awarded. The new owner is Dr. Leonard Bloom, 38, a dentist who made an eleventh hour bid after sports arena operator Peter Graham and attorney J. Stacey Sullivan filed to reach agreement with league directors.

The curly haired dentist promised to give San Diego the best possible team.

"Quality is the objective," he said. "Sometimes you have to take the rubber band off the green."

Bloom has no name for the team. Players will be selected Aug. 10, tentatively, and a coach and general manager sooner. Negotiations for a place to play continue.

Bloom will not be entitled to any rookies but will have, in effect, the seven and ninth best players from each of the nine present ABA clubs. These include players acquired from the recent foldings of Florida and Pittsburgh.

Three factors make Bloom's acquisition reasonably sound despite ABA pronouncements $20 million has been lost by the league since its formation in 1967

—The proposed merger with the National Basketball Association

—The propect of acquiring 6-foot-11 center Bill Walton, who was local high school player of the year before becoming college player of the year as a sophomore at UCLA.

—And the fact the San Diego Rockets drew well during their four-year NBA tenure in the city.

The major drawback would appear to be negotiations with Graham. After Bob Breitbard got rid of the sports arena and moved his Rockets to Houston, Graham took over with the objective of putting the arena on a paying basis.

An example of what enterpreneurs consider extravagant demands was the recent decision of the Republicans to move their national convention to Miami. However, rock concerts and roller derby are flourishing at the arena.

Graham, despite owning the area, failed in his bid for an ABA franchise and both Graham and Bloom failed in bids to secure the NBA Cincinnati Royals.

Bloom said negotiations with Graham look good but he is prepared to use a temporary facility for one year and build a permanent one himself, including an ice hockey rink, for the future.

Another problem is travel expenses as Salt Lake City, the closest ABA team, is about 800 miles away. Other teams in the western division will be Denver, Texas and either Memphis or Indiana.

A third problem is that the fans are used to the likes of Elvin Hayes and Calvin Murphy and their types will not be available.

San Diego will have second choice behind Denver's bonus pick in next year's college draft and should be able to start building a respectable club if the money is there.

Carlson said no decision has been made on an undergraduate draft, so the prospect of Walton remains undetermined.

Names such as Bill Russell and Elgin Baylor have been mentioned for administrative spots on the new club and Carlson assured everyone cooperation will be forthcoming from both the ABA and NBA for an exhibition schedule, league play begins Oct. 12.

Brewer homers beat Detroit

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —Home runs by John Briggs, Joe Lahoud and Dave May backed the eight-hit pitching of Jim Colborn to give the Milwaukee Brewers an 8-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

Colborn survived a rocky start to settle down and permit just three Tigers to reach base the last 5 2-3 innings. The win was his third against two defeats while loser Bill Slayback evened his record at 4-4.

The home runs by Briggs, Lahoud and May, accounted for seven of the Brewers' eight runs. Briggs slugged his 14th of the season in the first with two on, Lahoud hit his sixth with Briggs on base in the third andd May his seventh with one on in the sixth.

Sox cop 26th one-run win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ed Spiezio singled with two outs in the ninth inning Saturday to score Carlos May from third base with the winning run for a 4-3 decision for the Chicago White Sox over the Kansas City Royals, their 26th one-run victory this season.

May reached third without a Sox hit as he was plunked by losing pitcher Ted Abernathy, stole second and went to third on catcher Ed Kirkpatrick's throwing error. Abernathy, the third Royals' pitcher, took his second loss against two wins.

The Sox, winning for the fifth time in the last six games, came from behind in the third inning when Jay Johnstone singled and scored on Dick Allen's double while Allen scored on May's single.

Two share lead in Pepsi open

ATLANTA (UPI)—Jan Ferraris, a slender brunette from San Francisco, battled rain and a soggy golf course Saturday to move into a tie with Gail Denenberg of Monroe, N. Y., for the second round lead in the Lady Pepsi Open.

Miss Ferraris shot a one over par 74 Saturday and Miss Denenberg, the first round leader, had a two-over par 75 for their matching 36-hole totals of even par 146.

The tournament, for the second day in a row, was delayed more than an hour by rain and the weatherman forecast more for the same for Sunday's final round.

Sharon Miller, in with a 72 Saturday for one of only two sub par rounds during the day, was alone in third place two strokes off the lead at 148.

Sandra Palmer, with a 75, and shelly Hamlin, with a 76, were next at 149.

Clifford Ann Creed, who had a 72 Friday to put her only one stroke off the lead, skied to a 78 Saturday and stood at 150 along with Mary Mills who had a 74, Joyce Kazmierski, who had a 75, and LPGA all-time money winner Kathy Whitworth who had a 77.

Two-time defending champion Jane Blalock was well back in the pack with a 77-156 and complained "you can have one bad round and still make a comeback but two bad rounds pretty much does me in."

Miss Denenberg, whose 71 Friday was the tournament's best round, sank a 15-foot birdie putt on the final hole Saturday and then watched Miss Ferraris miss a similar putt moments later to put the two into a tie going into Sunday's final round.

"I made 10 foot putts for pars on the first two holes and then sank a 12-foot birdie putt on No. 3 and really felt like I was with it," Miss Ferraris said. "But the rain caught me after seven holes and after the long delay I couldn't seem to regain my concentration."

Streak lives

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Sandy Alomar came within three innings of having his consecutive game streak snapped Friday night, but manager Del Rice inserted him in the California Angels lineup against the Texas Rangers in the seventh inning.

Alomar had started 565 consecutive games but the late-inning appearance kept the streak alive and made it 566 games to give him seventh place on the American League list for the most games in a row.

Block sent to 76ers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks Friday dealt reserve forward John Block to the Philadelphia 76ers to complete a trade last year that saw veteran guard Wally Jones come into the Bucks fold.

Block, a 6-foot-10 veteran, went to the 76ers along with a second-round draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash to complete the trade made last Dec. 14.

"We were reluctant to give John up," said Bucks general manager Wayne Embry. He's done a good job for us.

Australian girls take lead over U.S. in Bonne Bell meet

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The flashy Australian duo of Evonne Goolagong and Leslie Hunt took only 64 minutes to defeat Chris Evert and Pattie Hogan, 6-1, 6-3, Saturday while Wendy Overton was forced to default her singles match to Kerry Melville, giving the Aussie girls a 3-1 advantage over the U.S. following the second round of the inaugural Bonne Bell Cup tennis matches.

Evonne and Leslie, who won the Australian and French junior championships in 1968 and defended the Australian title a year later, broke the Americans' service three consecutive times in the first set and three times in the closing set. It put on the line the U.S. comeback ability in the final two singles and a doubles match Sunday at Harold T. Clark Stadium in suburban Cleveland Heights.

Paced by the tremendous rifle-like service shots of the blond Miss Hunt, the best female tennis player yet to come out of Perth in western Australia, the Goolagong-Hunt combination proved unconquerable for non-playing U.S. Capt. Carol Graebner's second doubles team.

Miss Hunt's rollicking sense of humor also added to the bright picture as she received the cheers and applause of the audience when she hit a ball with the racquet behind her back to win a game in the first set.

Brown offense edges defense

HIRAM, Ohio (UPI)—Don Cockroft booted a 46-yard field goal in the last two minutes Saturday to give the Cleveland Browns' offensive team a 13-11 victory over the defense in the annual intersquad game.

Quarterback Mike Phipps, who completed six of 11 attempts, tossed a 28-yard touchdown pass to rookie flanker Cookie Brinkman as the offense got off to a quick 6-0 lead.

Browns Coach Nick Skorich gave second string quarterback Don Gault an opportunity to play and the rangy signal caller hit on 50 per cent of his passes, four out of eight.

Astros sell Hiatt to Cal

HOUSTON (upi) — Catcher Jack Hiatt was sold Saturday by the Houston Astros to the California Angels for an undisclosed amount of cash and a player to be named later.

Hiatt, 30, was hitting .200 in 10 games for the Astros this season. He has been out for six weeks with a broken shoulder and returned only last week.

The Astros took him off the active roster Thursday night when they recalled right-hander James Rodney Richards from Oklahoma City. Hiatt came to the Astros from the San Francisco Giants Dec. 1, 1971.

He had started his career with the Angels in 1964 and has played with the Chicago Cubs and Montreal Expos.

May-led Astros drop Dodgers

HOUSTON (UPI)—Lee May drove in four runs with a single and three-run homer, his 21st of the season, to spark the Houston Astros to a 7-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday.

May drove in the game's first run with a first inning single and climaxed a four-run uprising in the seventh with a three-run homer. Reliever Tom Griffin started the rally with a double.

Griffin moved to third on Roger Metzger's grounder to first baseman Wes Parker and scored when reliever Pete Mikkelsen missed Parker's throw at first. Jim Wynn walked and May lined a drive into the second deck in leftfield. All four runs were unearned because of Mikkelsen's error.

Houston had scored two unearned runs in the first inning off loser Don Sutton, 12-6. Cesar Cedeno started it by reaching first when third baseman Bob Valentine fumbled his grounder.

Expos outlast New York 6-3

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ron Fairly hit a three-run homer in the first inning and Mike Marshall picked up his 12th save while preserving Mike Torrez' 12th victory Saturday night as the Montreal Expos edged the New York Mets, 6-3.

Marshall, who also has seven wins and has accounted for 19 of Montreal's 42 victories, pitched four innings of two-hit relief ball after coming on for Torrez with two on and none out in the sixth inning with Montreal holding a 4-3 lead. After Jim Fregosi sacrificed the runners along, Marshall struck out Jerry grote and got pinch-hitter Tommie Agee, making his first appearance since July 8, to ground out.

San Francisco drops Braves

ATLANTA (UPI)—San Francisco scored all five of its runs in the fourth inning and made them stand up for a 5-2 victory over Atlanta Saturday night, giving Frank Reberger his second win of the season.

Reberger allowed 12 hits and six bases on balls in eight innings but the Braves could not capitalize on his shakiness, the Braves leaving 14 men on base.

The Giants collected five singles and a walk in the fourth inning. They were helped by a throwing error by Atlanta third baseman Darrell Evans that let in two runs.

Padres defeat Reds in 17th

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Nate Colbert doubled with one out in the 17th inning and came home on Jerry Morales single to give the San Diego Padres a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday night.

Ed Acosta, the fourth of five Padre pitchers, picked up his third victory in eight decisions, but needed help from Mike Schaeffer after Darrell Chaney and pinch-hitter Julian Javier singled with two out in the bottom of the 8th. Schaeffer retired Pete Rose to gain his first save of the season.

Pirates split with Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Manny Sanguillen homered and singled to drive in a pair of runs Saturday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory the Philadelphia Phillies and a split of a doubleheader. The Phillies won the first game 5-2.

Sanguillen, who was 3-for-7 for the night gave Luke Walker his fourth victory against five defeats in the nightcap when he blasted a solo homer in the second, his sixth of the season. He also hit a run-producing single in the fourth inning.

Bears welcome three players

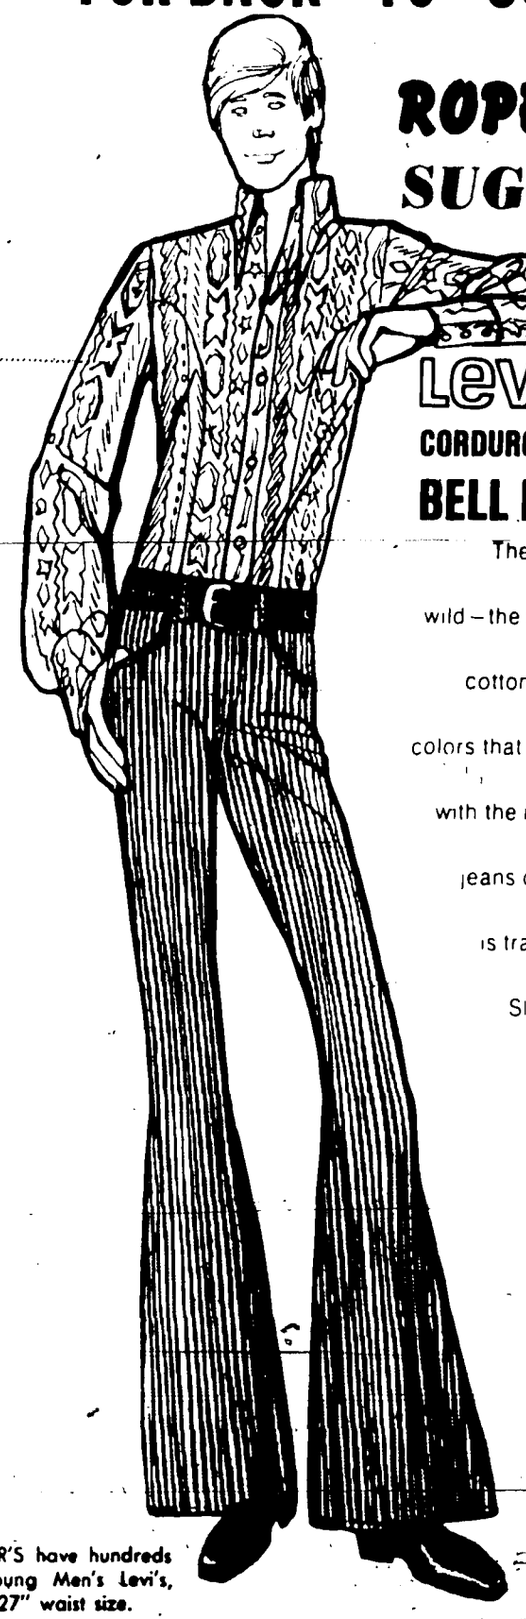

RENSSELAER, Ind. (UPI)—Veteran defensive tackle Bill Staley and the Chicago Bears' top two draft choices of 1972, Lionel Antoine and Craig Clemons, joined the team in training camp for the first time Saturday.

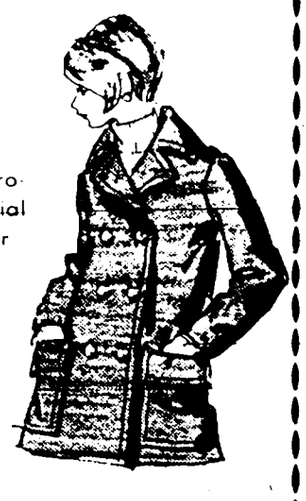

Staley underwent knee surgery in the off-season and reported to camp after completing a rehabilitation program in Chicago. He may see limited action in the Bears' first exhibition game against the Kansas City Chiefs at Notre Dame Stadium in South Bend, Ind., Aug. 5., a team spokesman said.

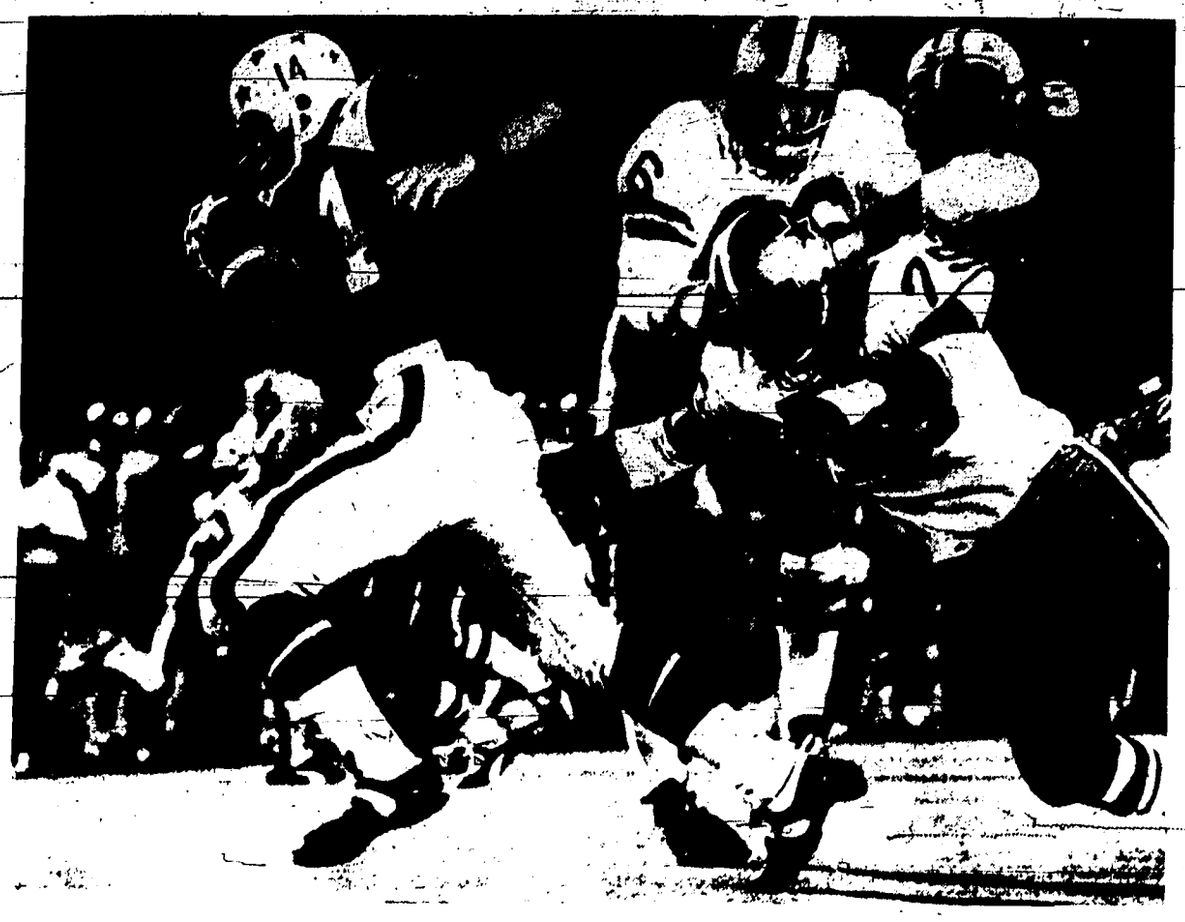

Antoine, an offensive lineman from Southern Illinois University, and Clemons, a defensive back from Iowa, were on the College All-Star team defeated in Chicago Friday night by the Dallas Cowboys, 20-7.

Heisman winner puts only spark in all-star loss

But it ain't the whole ball game, as far as All-Star quarterback Pat Sullivan is concerned.

Sullivan came off the bench and guided the College All Stars to their only touchdown against the Dallas Cowboys, in the 20-7 victofy Friday night by the National Football Conference champions.

"Yep, I sure was getting anxious sitting on the sidelines, watching us get beat like that," Sullivan, the 1971 Heisman Trophy winner from Auburn.

Sullivan had what some felt was a tough act to follow. Jerry Tagge, Nebraska's stellar signal-caller, had been getting nowhere slow against the Cowboys' defense. Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney, head man in the 39th annual match between the collegians and the pro champs, finally removed Tagge with the score 20-0 in the fourth quarter.

Sullivan, whose selection for the Heisman Trophy had not been greeted with unanimous fervor, stood 80 yards away from the Dallas goalline a short time later, he was six inches away from the Dallas goal line. Bob Newhouse, Houston fullback, crashed over and the Stars were on the board.

Along the way, Sullivan completed five of eight passes. For the night, he hit eight of 15. Tagge connected nine out of 10.

Devaney said after the game Sullivan should have gone in "a little earlier. He seemed to have a hot hand." He said Tagge had problems because

Tagge's option plays and passing never brought the Stars closer than the Cowboys' 30-yard line. The collegians made 77 yards rushing to the Cowboys' 100, and beat them by two yards in passing (156-154), much of that figure, however, coming with the Cowboys' defense playing Sullivan loose.

"Our defense was back a bit," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "You're going to give the quarterback more room when you're up by three yards."

Quarterback problems weren't exclusive with the Stars. Roger Staubach, the Cowboys' No. 1 signal caller, saw stars in the second quarter after a hard tackle. Craig Morton came off the bench and passed for two touchdown passes to lead the Cowboys to their 11th straight victory (and the ninth straight for pro teams in the classic).

Morton hit an 18-yarder to Ron Sellers in the second period, then struck Bob Hayes with a 24-yard scoring play in the third period. Mike Clark kicked a field goal in the first period and Tom Fritsch did the same in the last.

Kansas City beats Giants in hall of fame exhibition

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) The kicking of Jan Stenerud and the running and passing of backup quarterback Mike Livingston gave the Kansas City Chiefs a 23-17 exhibition win Saturday over the New York Giants in the 10th annual Pro Football Hall of Fame game.

Kansas City, in its first appearance here, rallied from a 10-6 halftime deficit to score two touchdowns and a field goal in the last half of the nationally televised contest, staged at Fawcett Stadium before a sellout crowd.

The Chiefs took the opening kickoff and scored on Stenerud's 37-yard field goal, and they added three more points in the second period as Stenerud booted a 43-yard field goal.

The Giants started rolling in the second quarter as quarterback Randy Johnson passed to running back Charlie Evans at the three. Evans carried in on the next play for the touchdown. Pete Gogolak booted the extra point to give New York a 7-6 lead.

Moments later a fumble by the Chiefs' Jim Otis was recovered by the Giants' defensive tackle Dan Gioch on the Kansas City 39. After several plays, Gogolak kicked a 21-yard field goal to give the Giants a 10-6 halftime lead.

Livingston, a fifth-year pro from Southern Methodist, put the Chiefs back on top in the third quarter when he scampered 39 yards for a score after finding all receivers covered.

In the last quarter, Kansas City's running back Wendell Hayes, an eight-year pro, took a seven-yard pass from Livingston on the sixth play of a 71-yard drive for a touchdown. Stenerud again kicked the extra point, and four minutes later booted his third field goal of the game, a 14-yarder.

The Giants rallied again when wide receiver Joe Morrison, in his 14th year in the pros, took a 28-yard pass in the right corner of the end zone from Norm Snead, who had taken his team 71 yards in three plays. Gogolak kicked the game's last point.

Four enshrined in grid hall of fame

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) Lamar Hunt was enshrined into the Pro Football Hall of Fame along with three gridders Saturday just two hours before his Kansas City Chiefs defeated the New York Giants 23-17 at their first competition in the annual Hall of Fame game.

The four were saluted by the 19,307 fans at the game following their induction at the adjacent Hall of Fame building.

Hunt, the owner-president of the Chiefs who was an American Football League founder, said he was lucky.

"It's been remarkable luck that I have been able to be involved in what I think we can call the game of our day, and to be one of the men being enshrined here today," Hunt said at the ceremony.

"I know that I am here today because of the success of the American Football League, and since I am basically a fan, I accept this honor on behalf of all the football fans in America."

Also enshrined were Clarence "Ace" Parker, an all-American tailback at Duke University who has been called the last of the great triple threat stars of football; Olie Matson, an all-American halfback at the University of San Francisco; and his college teammate, Gino Marchetti. The last two were named to the hall in the first year they became eligible, five years after they retired.

"This is the greatest thrill of all my life, said Parker, who became famous as quarterback and defensive halfback for the Brooklyn Dodgers of the NFL. He was with the New York Yankees of the All American Football Conference in 1946.

"When I was informed that I had been selected to the Hall of Fame, it was like the first time I came to bat in the major leagues for the Philadelphia Athletics and hit a home run."

Matson also excelled in two sports. He played pro football with the Chicago Cardinals, the Los Angeles Rams, the Detroit Lions and the Philadelphia Eagles. In 1952 Matson represented the United States at the Olympic games in the 400-meter and the 1600-meter relays. He took a bronze medal in the shorter event and was on the winning 1600-meter team.

"I feel very proud in having been named to the Hall of Fame and I'd like to say that the most significant thing in my life was that so many people had faith in my ability and gave me the chance to compete," Matson said.

After playing with Matson at San Francisco, Marchetti spent 13 of his 14 years in pro football with the Baltimore Colts, including two teams that won NFL championships and one the Super Bowl crown.

"I never dreamed of ever being named to the Hall of Fame, and I'd like to thank the people from the Hall of Fame for selecting me and the wonderful courtesy and treatment they showed me.

Crenshaw ousted from golf tourney

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Pre-tournament favorite Ben Crenshaw, who doesn't like match play to begin with, was eliminated from the Western Amateur Golf Tournament Saturday in the quarterfinal round of match play.

Crenshaw defeated his University of Texas roommate Bill Killian 3 and 1 in the opening round but was ousted 5 and 3 by Gil Morgan of Wewoka, Okla., in the quarterfinals.

Morgan will meet Steve Grove of Lancaster, Ohio, in one of two semifinal matches Sunday. Grove advanced to the semifinals with Saturday victories over Drue Johnson of Paris, Ill., (4 and 3) and Tommy Evans of Dallas (2-up) in the quarterfinals.

Morgan was awarded the opportunity to take on Crenshaw with a 2 and 1 win over Frank Zoeller of New Albany, Ind., in the first round.

Sunday's other semifinal match will be between Gary Sanders of Anaheim, Calif., and Bill Rogers of Texarkana, Tex.

Sanders knocked off Art Russell of Freeport, Tex., 4 and 3 in the quarterfinals after eliminating Bill Kratzert of Fort Wayne, Ind., 2 and 1 in the opening round. Rogers defeated Marty West of Bethesda, Md., 2 and 1 in the quarterfinals following a 4 and 2 victory over Gar Hamilton of Toronto.

Crenshaw, who led the pack during the qualifying rounds of medalist play which began Wednesday, had expressed displeasure over the prospect of switching to match play Saturday.

"It equalizes two players of different skills," he said.

Others eliminated in Saturday's first round were Gary Balliett of Rochester, Mich., who met a 3 and 1 defeat at the hands of Tommy Evans; Gary Viddinger of Westport, Ind., defeated 3 and 2 by Art Russell, and Larry Zee of Tonawanda, N.Y., a 1-up loser to marty West.

LA outscores Chargers 3-2

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Rams outscored the San Diego Chargers, three touchdowns to two, Saturday in a controlled scrimmage on the UC Irvine campus where the Chargers are training.

John Walton was the outstanding passer for the Rams as he completed eight of 17 passes for 132 yards and one touchdown. Dave Williams of the Chargers was the leading receiver as he caught four passes for 72 yards and both of San Diego's touchdowns.

Wayne Clark, who completed a 24-yard touchdown pass to Williams, made good on five of 10 passes for 75 yards while Marty Domres threw the other touchdown pass and had six completions in 13 attempts for 67 yards.

For the Rams, Jerry Rhome completed four of six for 47 yards and Mike Yancheff completed three of six for 35 yards.

The only Rams touchdown on a pass was a five-yard throw from Walton to John Love, the leading receiver for the Rams with four catches for 46 yards.

Three Minidoka grass operations toured

RUPERT — Local residents attended the Minidoka County Grassman Tour Thursday and viewed three grass operations.

For the first time this year all the persons taking the tour rode on a bus. Operations of Blaine Hodges, Delmas Beaver and DeVon Hunsaker were visited.

Hodges' farm is located at 600 West 925 North of Rupert and he operates 240 acres in a combination row crop, beef cow and calf operation.

He has 30 acres of permanent pasture in the rocks and sagebrush. The first grass seed planted on the plot was the University Mix, but through the years spraying to control Canada thistle has killed out the legumes. Later he used Latar and Regar Brome mixed with Cascade Trefoil. A seed crop was raised the first year he had Regar which he saved for replanting.

The past two years he has planted Sainfoin with Regar for the legume modules and to cut down on commercial fertilizer.

The pasture is divided into five areas which are all fenced and the cattle are rotated ahead of the irrigation sprinklers.

His cattle include 53 cows, 13 that are purebred Herefords, two herd sires and 23 purebred polled Herefords for replacement cows. This year he had a 100 per cent calf crop. Part of the calves are kept for replacement and the others are sold at 10 to 13 months of age.

The row crops include sugar beets, potatoes, alfalfa hay, barley and fall wheat.

Whater on the property is recycled and used over and over through a system of ponds and pumps.

Hodges is sponsored by Minidoka Soil and Water Conservation District.

The second stop on the tour was at Beaver's located 845 West 200 South of Rupert.

Beaver keeps from 600 to 700 head of cattle in the feedlot plus 60 head of Angus cows and calves. He purchases heifers between 500 and 600 pounds, mainly crossbreds which Beaver believes do better in the feedlots than straight bred cattle.

He keeps some of the better calves for replacement breeding stock and the other calves are put into the feedlot.

There are seven pastures all fenced for a total of 31 acres of posture. The cows are kept in each pasture about 10 days then moved to the next pasture. The pastures are irrigated just before the cows are moved in and immediately after the cows are moved out.

He said about 52 acres of corn, 61 acres alfalfa hay and 24 acres of grain with all the crops produced used for feed for the cattle in the feedlots. All the corn, hay and grain are green chopped then stored in pits. The silage is fed to the cattle being fattened for market.

All manure from the feedlot is returned to the land and no commercial fertilizer is used except phosphate and a little nitrogen for the alfalfa each spring.

Stubble that is left from the green chopping is plowed into the ground. Beaver tries to get all grain ground plowed in the fall and corn ground plowed in the spring. When land is taken out of alfalfa he plants it to corn for two years, then grain for a year, using the grain as a cover crop for the new alfalfa seeding.

After green chopping the grain and watering, Beaver has found that a small second cutting of the alfalfa is available making about a ton per acre.

The Rupert Rotary Club is sponsoring Beaver. The tour group stopped for lunch at the Rupert Elks Lodge hall.

After lunch the group visited the Hunsaker operation 431 South 100 East of Rupert. Hunsaker owns 210 acres and rents 80 acres and has a dairy operation with his two sons Glenn and Lynn.

The family milks 100 head of grade Holsteins. Presently they have 278 young calves. Some are dairy calves and about 100 are herefords. They purchase yearlings and keep them to feeder size and then they are sold.

He has about 90 acres in pasture seeded with the University Nix. The pasture is cross fenced and the cows are moved from pasture to pasture.

There is 78 acres of corn, 80 acres of alfalfa and 24 acres of grain. All the corn and grain and about half of the alfalfa is green chopped for cattle feed. The remainder of the alfalfa is baled and fed also. In addition he purchases about 30 tons of rolled grain per week for the cows.

The corrals are drained into a cement pit and the liquid manure as well as the dry manure in the corrals is hauled back onto the land.

Hunsaker leaves his fields in alfalfa from four to five years, then plows then up and plants corn for two years, then plants grain with new alfalfa seeding. All the land is watered by flood irrigation.

All the young dairy stock and beef calves are pastured and moved from one pasture to another.

The pasture is given 70 units of nitrogen in the spring, with more added in July.

The Hunsakers are experimenting this year by letting the grass get taller before putting the cows on the pasture. The grass seems to be improving with a stronger root system and a longer growing period.

The dairy cows are milked in a four-on-a-side herringbone grade A dairy barn and the cows rest in a freestall loafing shed just east of the barn.

Hunsaker is sponsored by the Rupert Lions Club.

Judges for the tour were J. Wayne Cole, Cassia County agent, and Blaine Linford, Twin Falls, district supervisor for the University of Idaho Cooperative Extension Service.

Minidoka County Grassman committee includes George Haynes, chairman; Ken Roth, vice chairman, and LaMont Smith, secretary.

Sales benefit Idaho farmers

BOISE — Wheat producers in Idaho should benefit from the sale of $750 million worth of grain by the U. S. to Russia over the next three years.

Forest J. Severe, executive director for the Idaho Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said "this sale alone will increase our grain exports about 17 per cent for each of the next three years."

"The wheat sales of our farmers make up a substantial part of the financial lifeblood of Idaho," Severe said, "and a sale of this magnitude will benefit every grain-producing area across the U. S."

The Soviet Union will have the option of purchasing wheat, corn, barley, grain sorghum, rye and oats from the U. S. The grain purchase will be made through private U. S. grain traders.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture will make available credit terms to the Sovies through the Commodity Credit Corporation at regular interest rates and terms. The total outstanding credit, not to exceed $500 million, is to be repaid in three annual installments.

CRACKED CHERRIES: Many have asked us what causes the skins of cherries to crack open. This is due to rains followed by sunny weather.

Too much moisture causes the skins to crack, especially with sweet cherries. Tomatoes have the same "cracking" problem. Some varieties such as Glamour are "crack-resistant" and will refuse to crack, regardless of the soil conditions or weather.

By the way, did you ever make pickled sour cherries? Here's a 100 - year - old recipe sent to us by an "over 80" gardener. Pit about three quarts of sour cherries. Put them in a stone crock (or large glass jar). Cover with cider vinegar and let stand over night.

In the morning drain off the vinegar (save it to use in other pickles) Measure the cherries cup for cup with granulated sugar and stir well, cover cherries, then stir every morning for ten mornings.

The sugar will all be dissolved by that time. Put a cover over the jar and tie a clean cloth over the cover. They are ready to eat as a relish with meat dishes, and everyone seems to like them very much. They are so easy to make with no heating or cooking.

BIRCH TROUBLES: Birches are graceful and beautiful, but they are also fussy about soil and have plenty of problems. The three main pests are birch leaf miner, borer and die-back disease.

Gray, canoe and cut-leaf birches are susceptible to attacks by the leaf miner, a small flat worm which causes the leaves to turn brown. If you hold an affected leaf up in the light, you can see the worm now.

CONTROL: Spray in early spring (about May 1) using either diazinon, malathion or Sevin. Give two extra sprays at 10-day intervals, and spray again around July 1 and July 10 to kill the second brood of leaf miners.

A simpler method of control consists of using a systemic such as dimethoate (Cygon) as a soil drench around the base of the tree. This is absorbed into the sap stream, Apply in spring as the trees can take it up easier then.

Bronze birch borer is a flat-headed grub one-half inch or so long, and it makes irregular, winding galleries just beneath the bark of the main trunk. These cause the tops of the birches to die back.

CONTROL: Spray trunk and branches (and leaves) in early summer, and twice more at two-week intervals using malathion.

Die back, as the name implies is when the tops start to start dying back. It's a fungus disease and trees weakened by drought two or three years ago show the trouble. Symptoms are similar to those shown by infestations of the bronze birch borer.

CONTROL: Cut out affected branches back to sound wood.

CARE OF BIRCHES: Keep the trees fed and watered in dry spells. Just as soon as you see a weak or dying branch, cut it back to live tissue and burn it!.

In some areas dead birch trees are allowed to stand. These are reservoirs for infection and should be cut down. Do not use wood for fireplace as it can harbor the beetle.

If possible, burn the affected wood or dispose of it so the wood won't be allowed to incubate more borers and pepper your community.

RAW ONIONS KILL GERMS: Onions are one of the best vegetables you can grow. You probably didn't know it but those onions in your garden contain one of the most powerful germ killers in the world.

Russian medical experts tested the bacteria-killing power of 150 plants and herbs and found the onion to be the most effective. Scientists in the U.S. have proved that chewing raw onion sterilizes the mouth and throat, backing up the claim of grandma that it could cure a cold.

Herbalists claim that onion juice mixed with water and glycerine is an effective gargle.

Engineers are still wondering how men built the pyramids of Gaza, Egypt. They know they got their strength by consuming about $2 million worth of onions, garlic and radishes, proof that onions are good for you.

We just read of a report stating that onions help break up cholesterol, that waxy substance which collects along the walls of our arteries, restricting free passage of blood and resulting in heart problems.

BINDWEED IS TOUGH: My nomination for the toughest weed in the world is the wild morning glory or bindweed. A root system of a single plant will penetrate to a depth of four feet in one season, and spread three feet laterally.

After three growing seasons college tests show that the roots can extend downward to 20 feet and cover a circle 17 to 18 feet in diameter.

CONTROL: It's tough. Pulling the weeds won't help much unless you do it regularly to starve it out. Mowing it over and over will help starve it out.

How about weedkillers? White vinegar sprayed on leaves helps check it, according to some gardeners. Paraquat weedkiller kills the tops back, but the pest springs back. I wish we had a good control for bindweed. Does any reader know of one? Please send it along.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: E.D. of Twin Falls: "I have a black oxheart sweet cherry tree planted seven years ago. It has never had any cherries on. There are two other oxheart trees planted at the same time and they have been loaded with fruit for the past three years. What's wrong with the one that never bears?"

Sweet cherries are more temperamental to grow than apples. One tree can bear heavily and just 15 feet away another tree will refuse. Local soil site (poor drainage, type, etc.) can affect growth. Sweet cherries are slower to come into bearing than most apple varieties.

Although the trees have been planted for seven years, one tree simply may not have come into bearing yet. It's very common for sweet cherries to take seven or eight years to bear their first measurable crop.

When a nurseryman removes "suckers" from budded sweet cherry trees in spring, it is often difficult for him to distinguish between the shoots which develop from the desired or inserted bud and the suckers' arising from the Mazzard rootstock. If he mistakenly permits the mazzard sucker to grow and the inserted bud dies, then the rootstock sucker will develop into a tree and he could mistakenly sell the tree as a budded black oxheart.

Such a tree takes even longer than black oxheart to begin to bear a crop. When it does come into fruiting the fruits will be small and inedible.

Yours is a tough question. Wet soils and sometimes a lack of proper pollination from another variety can cause the failure of fruit set. Whatever the cause, driving iron nails into the tree trunk will NOT help, as many believe.

B.L. of Shoshone: "We're tired of fighting weeds, grubs and bugs in our lawn and are seriously thinking of putting in artificial turf. We saw a lawn in the south and it looked good. Do you recommend it?"

No. Natural grass maintenance costs are less than artificial turf.

MORAVIAN barley harvest for Coors Brewing Co. has commenced in Magic Valley. Most farmers will store their barley in bins on their farms until this fall when it will be hauled to company warehouses. Brent Lierman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lierman, watched a load being augered into the grain bin on his father's farm southwest of Filer.

NYC receives federal funds

SEATTLE — An allocation of $345,060 in federal funds for a Neighborhood Youth Corps out-of-school project will provide 120 job opportunities for Idahoans.

Jess C. Ramaker, northwest regional manpower administrator for the U.S. Department of Labor, said those enrolled in the statewide project for disadvantaged young people will be paid at the rate of $1.60 per hour. The project contract carries a July 21, 1973, termination date.

Most NYC projects involve occupations in the public sector, Ramaker said. The goal of the program is to provide earnings, work experience and supportive services to encourage youths to return to school or help them acquire work habits that will improve their employability.

Suit threatened over rain making

ITHACA, Mich. (UPI)—The Navy bean and sugar beet farmers are threatening to file suit to stop rainmakers in nearby Gratiot county because they say their Tuscola county acreage gets pelted by hail when the rainmakers fly.

"We don't pretend to know what caused the storms but we think it must be related to the rainmaking," said Erwin Reinbold, 62, in reference to two severe hail storms July 11 and July 16.

The Tuscola county farmer says he may have lost as much as $50,000 in the two downpours.

Roger L. Volmar, 29, agreed. "Everybody doesn't want rain at the same time. But if some individuals are controlling the weather it isn't fair," Volmar said. "Maybe they're starting something they can't control."

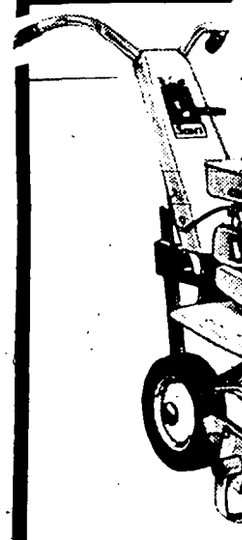

The idea to seed the clouds in Gratiot county was suggested by John Baker, the county's agricultural agent.

DOWN TOWN ON THE MALL

Completion nears

HOUSING FOR 128 Mexican-American women imported by Green Giant Co., Buhl, for the current season's pack is nearing completion. Already being used to house the out of state workers, the building will be completed in the next few weeks. This year the firm needs 1,300 to 1,400 workers for the canning run with local labor falling short of that supply due to other new industry in the area.

Charters suspended

MADRID (UPI)—The Spanish Government Friday suspended the academic charters of Madrid's two universities and decreed a set of emergency measures aimed at ending student unrest.

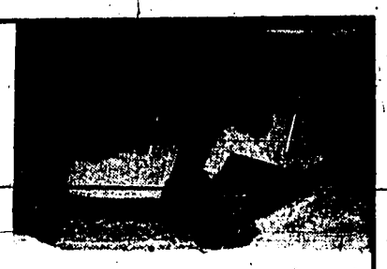

The decree, signed by Generalissimo Francisco Franco and published in the official state bulletin, gave university authorities powers to suspend or expel students who interfere with the "normal functioning of academic institutions and university life".

It also ordered all professors to obey and carry out policies laid down by academic authorities or risk suspension.

The decree was published as the campuses were closed down for the summer vacation. The measures were the result of recurrent student unrest, demonstrations, strikes and clashes with police which started last November and flared up time and again until the start of the vacations.

Student groups have demanded a bigger say in university affairs and an end to police presence on the campuses. In some protest actions, they were joined by faculty members.

Demos set major moves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The death of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, d-La., will set in motion a series of major moves in committee assignments for Senate Democrats.

First, veteran Arkansas Sen. John L. McClellan will assume chairmanship of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee which Ellender held.

This in turn will leave a vacancy in the chairmanship of the Government Operations Committee. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is considered likely to take over that spot in place of McClellan.

Should Jackson shift, he would vacate the chairmanship of the Senate Interior Committee. At present, Sen. Clinton M. Anderson of New Mexico who has announced his retirement at the end of this session is next in line and following him in seniority is Sen. Alan Bible of Nevada.

In addition, Ellender's death opens two slots on the Appropriations and Agriculture Committees which will be open for bid by Democrats on the basis of seniority.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the Democratic Steering Committee will meet Tuesday to rejigger the assignments.

It was on the Government Operations Committee, and as chairman of its permanent investigating subcommittee, that McClellan made his reputation as an investigator and crime fighter.

McClellan will maintain his ranking position on the Senate Judiciary Committee, where he also heads the subcommittee on criminal laws and procedures and on patents, trade-marks and copyrights.

Mansfield said two committee posts, after the shifting, will be left vacant for Ellender's successor, to be appointed by Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

Question: If you go on a trip for three to four weeks and leave your cat with someone else, will she get attached to the person you leave her with?

Answer: That depends on the person and the cat. If the two are "sympatico" they may form a very cozy friendship. Rarely, however, is the true and original owner supplanted in a vacation span. Cats DO have a memory and they can form very deep attachments.

Question: How long can a dog have pups?

Answer: Theoretically, as long as she lives. The dog's ovaries do not cease to function at any given age. Practically, reproduction is one of the first things to go with any loss of condition.

As the infirmities of age begin to show, the bitch's heat cycles usually spread out further apart, there are fewer pups per litter, and eventually reproduction ceases altogether.

Question: Is it okay to leave your cat outside all the time? I have to.

Answer: Cats can manage quite well outdoors as long as there's warm, dry shelter and food and water. After all, cats shifted for themselves for centuries and many still do.

The outdoorsman often does have a shortened lifespan, however, because of a large predator — the automobile. Since "Don't Fence Me In" could have been written for a cat, it's almost impossible to keep one from roaming. It's difficult to roam far without crossing the street.

Question: What is the smartest breed of dog?

Answer: Somebody wants to see me squirm! Everyone knows that HIS dog is the smartest, especially if he's a "huntin' fool." Actually, the standard poodle has been rated most intelligent with the German shepherds in second place.

- The shepherd has been preferred for sentry duty because of its less nervous temperament. But, then again, intelligence tests are a pretty shakey deal and it's hard to compare one breed's natural pointing ability with another's fantastic capacity for herding cattle. Dogs are individuals and not all poodles were created equal.

Question: We were given a Bantam hen a few days ago. She laid an egg and then left it. Now we're trying to incubate it and would like to know if it will hatch?

Answer: I don't know — was she married? Baby chick's fathers are called roosters. Without roosters, eggs are good scrambled or poached but not incubated.

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet column, c-o the Times-News.

Wrong sex

FORMBY, England (UPI) — Harry Frost, 47, needed a copy of his birth certificate to join a pension plan and applied to the registry office.

"There seems to be a slight hitch," the clerk told him. "You're supposed to be a girl."

"I'm positive the original certificate said I was a male," Frost said. "I've tried to find the doctor who was around when I was born but he has since died. And all my relatives who witnessed my birth are dead now."

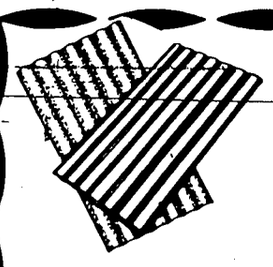

Government officials said the matter could be rectified with a doctor's certificate. Frost said: "My wife just roared with laughter."

Police cars recalled

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. Friday announced it was recalling 3,025 police interceptor cars in the United States and another 146 in Canada for replacement of the rear fuel tube and fuel hose leading from the gas tank to the engine.

While there have been no reports of fires because of fuel leaks, the 1972 model Ford and Mercury cars were being recalled "because the potential for fires is there," a company spokesman said.

FINAL SUMMER CLEANSWEEP SALE

— MEMO —

TO: Mr. Les Hazen, Sales Manager
FROM: Elvis Cain

Thanks for a fine effort that made our July Clearance the best ever.

After reviewing our remaining stock of older pieces, discontinued items, floor models, etc. with Mr. Van Orden, our Controller, I feel we should make another great effort to Clear these remaining items . . . so you can have a greater Open to Buy and help you in planning your Fall purchases.

This is your authorization to take further markdowns on these items and to award the salesman who sells the greatest number of items. I suggest we leave the mark down prices in effect until all items are sold.

"Good Luck"
Elvis Cain

OUR JULY CLEARANCE acclaimed the greatest in our 26 year history— But, as always, at the end of a clearance, we have too many items left that were marked to clear. Such is the case NOW — So we have taken further markdowns on these items for this CLEAN SWEEP EVENT and are listing some of them here in this ad. Please take time to read it . . . Notice the Memo. WE MEAN BUSINESS!!

TO THE PEOPLE OF MAGIC VALLEY

I've been in the Home Furnishings business for 20 years and I can truthfully say I've never seen values like these. I urge everyone to come in as soon as possible to avoid disappointment.

Due to the additional Mark-Downs, I want to urge that you come prepared to pick up the item purchased if possible— especially the smaller pieces.

We decided against staying open nites, but if you would like to visit our store in the evening, Please call for an appointment. One of my salesmen will meet you here.

THANKS,
LES HAZEN

Musicians reunite

AFTER 45 YEARS, three musicians who played together during college days got together for a reunion in Twin Falls, and a dance resulted. The three, Max Sommer, Salt Lake City, at the piano, Sherm Mariott, Portland, Ore., banjo and drums, and Matt Devine, saxophone, rear, had not been together at the same time for 45 years until Friday night when they played music for a dance at the Bowladrome. They played in Chicago and in Idaho in the 1920's and 30's to pay for their college educations.

Anti-busing laws said 'educational genocide'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Rev. theodore Hesburgh, chairman of the Civil Rights Commission, said Friday anti-busing legislation being considered by Congress would inflict "educational genocide" on millions of minority school children.

"This bill burns the last bridge out of the ghetto," the president of Notre Dame University said of a measure being considered by the House Education and Labor Committee.

"To reject busing is to reject integration," Hesburgh told the committee. "And to reject integration invites the interracial tension and conflict of which this nation has already seen enough."

Hesburgh specifically directed his remarks against the House committee proposal that would bar busing of elementary school youngsters and limit other busing as a last resort.

But his criticism was obviously also intended to cover various efforts proposed in Congress and by the administration to slow down and in some cases halt busing for the purpose of desegregation.

He cited statistics and findings compiled by the Commission which he said should be pointed out to the people.

"They should know that desegregation need not mean extraordinarily long trips, and sometimes results in shorter trips," he said. "Concerned parents should be told that fights and disorders occur in all sorts of schools and buses, uniracial or biracial, and that there is considerable evidence that disorderly students in desegregation situations are taking their cue from grown-ups."

"History may well document the fact that in the year 1972 the 92nd Congress of the United States was successful in establishing a racially reactionary policy which will end inevitably in disaster for all," he concluded.

Two-thirds of AFL-CIO said to support Demos

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite a pledge by AFL-CIO president George Meany not to endorse either presidential candidate this year, Business Week magazine said Friday that member unions representing up to two-thirds of the federation's 13.6 million members will endorse and work for Sen. George McGovern.

"Endorsements will be frequent in the next few months of conventions of some of the federation's key unions," Business Week said. The various unions will hold 28 conventions iin the next two months, and 23 state federations have conventions before the election, the magazine said.

Labor leaders will ignore the wishes of Meany and will support McGovern because the South Dakota senator is either "the lesser of two evils," or because he is "the best man there is" for the presidency, the magazine added.

Several AFL-CIO member unions already have endorsed McGovern, and the magazine said that among those other unions McGovern can "take for granted" are the 900,000-member International Association of Machinists; the 500,000-member Meat Cutters union; the United Rubber Workers, with 200,000 members; and the printing press union, with 126,000 members.

Americans perform particularly poorly on reading tasks which demand critical or interpretive understanding.

Soviets to launch new spacecraft

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union probably will launch a new Salyut space laboratory and a two-or three-man Soyuz spacecraft in the next few days, qualified Communist sources said Friday.

The spaceflight, which will attempt to link up with the orbiting lab, will be the first manned Soviet attempt since the three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts died returning to earth June 30, 1971.

Those cosmonauts died after a 24-day flight because they were not wearing their spacesuits when a pressure failure hit the spacecraft during reentry.

This time the cosmonauts, like American astronauts, will wear their spacesuits throughout the voyage, the sources said.

Soviet space experts said a "technically avoidable error"—a leaky hatch—forced fatal air bubbles into the Soyuz cosmonauts' bloodstreams.

"Had the cosmonauts been wearing their space suits, they would have landed alive," space sources said then.

The upcoming flight will include the launch of an 18-ton Salyut space platform or lab, followed in a day or two by the launching of the manned Soyuz rocket.

T-N salesman going to N.Y.

TWIN FALLS — Times-News Publisher Al Westergren announced today that Gary Baxter, a newspaper advertising salesman, was leaving the paper for a position on a New York newspaper.

Baxter will move to Glens Falls Post Star and Times, after seven years at the Times-News.

"We regret to see him leave," Westergren said in making the announcement, "He's done outstanding work for us. This is an advancement for him and we wish him well."

GARY BAXTER

Baxter, 29, is a native of Filer, where he graduated from high school. He accepted his first job with the paper in 1964, staying for four years, starting out as a dispatcher in the advertising section, writing a master plan for a new dispatch system at the paper, and finally handling the training of new personnel for the program.

He left the paper in 1968, but returned in 1969, doing advertising photography for the paper's special editions.

Baxter was a student at Magic Valley Christian College at Albion and a graduate of Northwest Nazarene College, taking his degree in Business with a minor in art and theology. He is also a graduate of the Dale Carnegie Sales Management Course.

He served eight years in the Idaho Army National Guard, teaching communications and tank gunnery.

Active in numerous civic organizations, Baxter is currently treasurer of the Magic Valley YMCA and vice commodore of the Thousand Springs Water Sports Club, Inc.

His move to Glens Falls to work on a staff of a Howard Publications paper, is to help establish special editions and assist in the adjustment to a new type of printing at the paper.

Baxter and the former Robyn Peterson, Heyburn, plan a marriage later this summer.

Third in line

Sen. Eastland named to post

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Senate Democrats today selected Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi as president pro tempore of the Senate, making him third in line of succession to the presidency.

He succeeds Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who died Thursday.

The vote was a formality, because by long-standing tradition the senior member of the party controlling the Senate always succeeds to the office of temporary president.

The vice president is the constitutional president of the Senate, but rarely presides except when there is a likelihood his vote will be needed to break a tie.

Eastland, 67, is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. He has described himself as "a living symbol of conservative leadership in the Senate."

In 1956 the then Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., led a brief unsuccessful floor battle against Eastland's automatic promotion to the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee on grounds he lacked "impartiality on the segregation issue." But there were only two votes cast against the Mississippian.

Eastland, born at Donaldsville, Miss., Nov. 28, 1904, attended the University of Mississippi, Vanderbilt University and the University of Alabama. He was admitted to the Mississippi bar in 1927.

He was elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives in 1928, serving until 1932. He practiced law and engaged in farming in Sunflower County.

Eastland was appointed to the Senate in 1941 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Pat Harrison. He served only three months and did not run for re-election. But he was elected to a full six-year term in November, 1942, and began his long tenure on Jan. 3, 1943.

He has been re-elected every six years since, and will be a shoo-in for election to his sixth term this fall.

Eastland has served longer as senator from Mississippi than any man in history.

In addition to serving as chairman of the Judiciary Committee and heading its subcommittees on internal security and immigration, Eastland, with the death of Ellender, also is now ranking Democrat on the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Eastland maintains his family home near Doddsville, Miss., where he was married to the former Elizabeth Coleman in 1932. They are the parents of three daughters and a son: Mrs. Nell Amos of Dallas, Mrs. Ann Howdeshell of Atlanta, Mrs. Sue Terney of Indianola and Woods Eugene Eastland, a lieutenant in the Navy.

Shy and taciturn, Eastland generally shuns the limelight. He says he never accepts invitations that come to him regularly to attend diplomatic functions or Washington social parties.

20 Japanese teen-agers land in Twin Falls for 3-week stay

By DICK HUGHES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twenty "very scared but excited" Japanese teen-agers arrived in Twin Falls Friday night to spend three weeks observing "the American way of life."

They are part of a group of 156 persons observing life in Idaho and Washington. They are from the largest English-teaching school in Japan. Each student pays his own fare. A reception committee of about 80 people greeted the visitors at the airport.

The trip was arranged by the University of Idaho, Washington State University and the National 4-H Club.

Next summer a group of 4-H youths from Idaho and Washington will visit Japan through the exchange program.

The students are to live with rural families until their Aug. 17 departure for Japan by way of Glacier National Park, Yellowstone National Park and San Francisco, according to district 4-H specialist Carolyn Barnes.

They will spend this week at the Central Idaho 4-H Camp, along with area 4-H'ers.

Chieko Ohkawa, 25, counselor for the youths, said they were "very scared but excited when they landed at Twin Falls."

She said the youths had been "very impressed" with the United States since their July 26 arrival in Seattle, particularly the nation's environment and its transportation system.

"The air is so clean here. It has a good taste," she said. "In Japan the pollution is very bad. And there is so much room here."

The young counselor from the city of Osaka said she especially wanted to see how Americans rear their children.

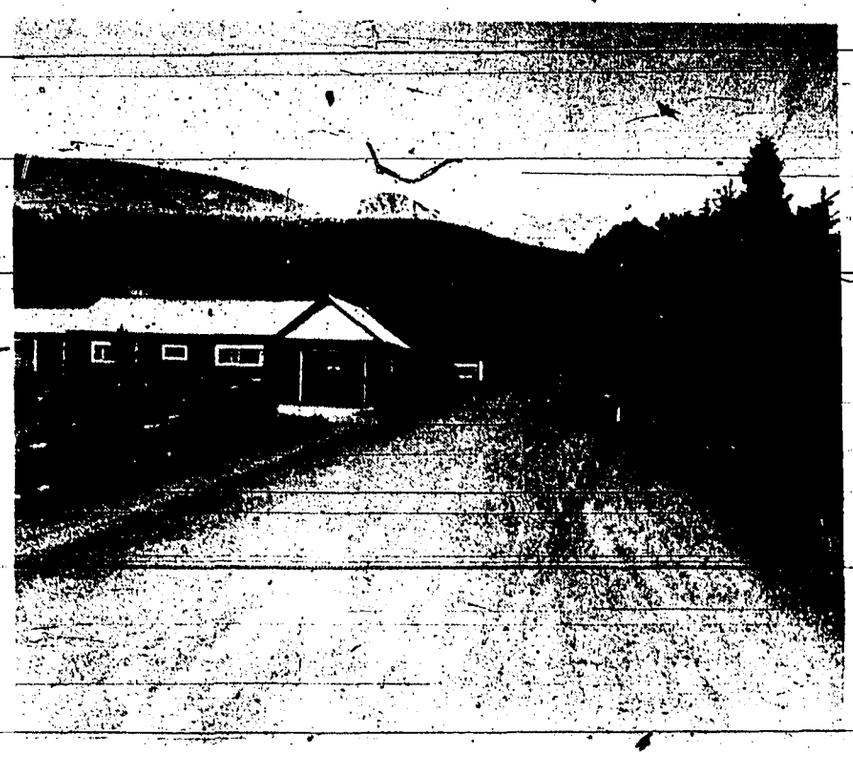

"Japanese parents are very kind to their children. They don't scold them, but I think sometimes you need to scold them."

Area host families include Donal Green, Lee Peterson and Leo Peterson, all Carey; Joseph Wurst, Bellevue; Doran Cluer and Robert Newhouse, both Fairfield; Frank Beck and Roy Hondo, both Burley; Mas Kuwana, Declo; Robert Rhead, Mountain Home; John Jones Jr., Hagerman; Grant Jones, Hugh Roholt and James Sirucek, all Jerome; Kenneth Shufeldt and Joe Studer, both Rupert; Kenneth Daw, Hansen; Richard George, Murtaugh, and Roy Jesser, Kimberly.

Ketchum citizens file writ against council

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — The conflict over access to the proposed Balsamroot condominium project has crested in legal action.

Late Thursday afternoon, a group of 21 residents and property owners on Garnet Street, the planned access route, filed a petition for a writ of mandate against Ketchum Mayor Kenneth W. Richey and the four-member City Council.

The petition, filed in Fifth District Court, seeks enforcement of Ketchum City Ordinance 85, to bar use of Garnet Street.

According to the petition, the ordinance provides a residential area should "be protected against offensive noise, vibration, smoke, dust, odors, heat, glare, other objectionable influences" and "the invasion of abnormal vehicular traffic."

The petition further said the ordinance requires unit developments to have a "circulation plan for vehicle and pedestrian traffic" and the council and the planning and zoning commission must be guided in their review of such development by "the unique conditions of the surrounding neighborhood."

Mayor Ritchey was not available Saturday for comment.

Approval of the anticipated 160 to 192 unit Balsamroot development, located at the end of Garnet Street, came July 3 after a two to one council vote.

Councilmen Glenn Branen and Gerald Sidwell voted for the project and Councilwoman JoAnn Algiers voted against it. Councilman Vern McClellan abstained.

Thursday's petition also requested a judgment for the petitioners, legal costs and expenses as well as for "such other further relief as the court may deem equitable."

The petition states Garnet, located in southeast Ketchum, is 833 feet long and varies in width from 25 to 29.5 feet. The adjacent property is improved with lawns, shrubbery, fences and buildings, to the edge of the street, the petition said.

During the summer the oiled portion of the roadway is 20 feet wide, the petition said. However, it said in winter months snow is piled eight feet wide on both sides of the road, reducing the width to a one-lane, one-way street.

It can only be used to provide ingress and egress by reason of the limited number of people on the street, the petition said.

"The passage of the high volume of traffic generated by Balsamroot would be obnoxious and offensive to your petitioners," the petition said.

It also said use would "greatly diminish" the pleasure of ownership and property values in the area.

Wendell aides dispute claim

WENDELL — Officials in Wendell are having a tough time deciding whether a housing project, long stalled, is dead or alive.

Edwin McNutt, chairman of the combination low cost, elderly housing project, resigned his job last week after he said the City Council refused to provide a building for the site.

But councilman Dale Gilbert said Saturday the council had not "refused" the use of the building for the project, but has agreed to put the land up for public auction so project directors can purchase it.

Gilbert said the city and housing directors had earlier signed a lease agreement for the site, known as the old fire station. But, according to Gilbert, the project officials decided they should own the land outright.

Under the terms of the lease, still in effect, the housing project leases the land for $1 per year.

McNutt resigned his position with the agency Thursday night, saying council action had forced abandonment of the project. "It is my opinion," he said at the time, "that the council feels the property in question is being put to a better use now than if it were to provide a location for a senior citizen low cost housing project."

"Apparently the City Council does not want this kind of project in Wendell," he said.

McNutt could not be reached for comment Saturday, and no replacement for director had been reported retained.

Gilbert also took issue with McNutt over the type of project envisioned. "This is definitely a low-cost project," he said, "In no way was it a senior citizen's project."

Daughter denies nepotism

TWIN FALLS — The daughter of Twin Falls Sheriff Paul Corder denied Friday charges she had received county funds for work done in the county jail.

Mrs. Roy Colson acknowledged she had assisted her mother in work around the jail, but said it had all been on a volunteer basis.

"I have never received any county money," she said, "it has been all volunteer work. I'd like to get this clarified."

TF firms told to pay wages

SEATTLE — Two Twin Falls construction and contracting firms have been ordered to pay over $10,000 in back wages and interest to seven of its employes.

The U.S. District Court issued an order to Neilsen and Miller Contractors and Neilsen and Miller Construction Co. to pay $10,771.48.

In a suit filed by the U.S. Department of Labor, the government had charged the firms with failing to pay time and one-half for hours worked in excess of the 40-hour week, a violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Inadequate record keeping was also cited in the court action.

The court issued a permanent restraining order prohibiting future violations of the act and also ordered the defendents to pay $80.96 in court costs. The order was agreed to by the defendents and signed by U.S. District Judge Fred M. Taylor on July 13.

Investigations into the case were directed by Donald W. Henry, Portland, Ore., area director of the Labor Department's Wage-House Division.

Sorry, London

LONDON (UPI) — Europe's busiest airport, London's Heathrow, would rank 44th among U.S. airports. Heathrow handles about the same number of landings and takeoffs annually as the Salt Lake City airport.

Hearing set for TF man

TWIN FALLS — Preliminary hearing has been set for 1:30 p.m. Aug. 3 for John Thomas Flynn, 20, Murtaugh, charged with robbery.

The hearing will be held in magistrate court in Twin Falls. Flynn was arrested by city police and charged with the July 14 robbery of $60 from John Schwarz, Twin Falls.

Shoshone church hosts group

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone Assembly of God Church will host the Heaven Bound singing group Sunday, at the 11 a.m. worship service at the church.

There are 25 members in the singing group, directed by Sam Thompson, associate pastor and minister of Youth of Christ Church of Westminster, Calif. Christ Church is affiliated with the Assemblies of God.

The group is taking a 2,000 mile ministry in song through Nevada, Idaho and northern California.

RUPERT — Idaho ranchers may face a potential grass shortage this year, state Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said Saturday.

Peavey said the shortage may result in a request to set aside some acres to be grazed earlier than the Oct. 1 deadline.

"The request may be made by those ranchers who can foresee the need for extra forage," he said, "and should be directed to the rancher's respective county Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Committee.

Peavey predicted the grass shortage may result from two factors, a cold and very dry growing season and a severe grasshopper infestation.

"Many areas of the state have pending grasshopper spraying programs which are late in being executed," Peavey said. "There are also areas where spraying has been completed but not successfully," he said.

Peavey said, "Grasshoppers are not only devastating the range, but also devouring valuable forage crops needed for wintering and fattening programs for meat animals."

He said the current meat shortage will not be curbed if ranchers are forced to sell root stock because of lack of hay or grass.

New forest office open

KETCHUM — An administration office for the proposed Sawtooth National Recreation Area is alive and functioning south of Ketchum.

According to Gray Reynolds, superintendent for the planned NRA, the U.S. Forest Service unit was set up July 1 to serve the Swatooth Recreation Area, a consolidation of parts of four ranger districts which has the same boundaries as the NRA.

If NRA legislation is passed, the unit will become the management and visitor's information headquarters for the recreation area, until permanent offices are established at North Fork, Reynolds said.

However, Reynolds said, without the pending legislation, creation of a Sawtooth Recreation Area "has been in the hopper for a number of years."

In addition to reducing administration costs, the larger management area could provide specialized services, such as those of land use and minerals assistants, which are not present on ranger district staffs, he said.

The superintendent said he was "pleased" with the NRA legislation as it currently stands. The legislation has passed conferee committees and is scheduled to go before the House and Senate.

Key advantages of the legislation are that it provides direction for mineral management and gives authorization to coordinate development on private land within the NRA, Reynolds said.

The bill also will provide compensation to private land owners "for any activities not in harmony with the legislative direction" and gives stronger management authority in the Sawtooth Wilderness area, Reynolds said.

Because the NRA emphasizes "recreation potential and values," the superintendent said that the history and character of the area is better suited for such a classification, rather than a national park.

Reynolds said activities, including hunting and livestock grazing, which he said "enhanced the recreational value" would be curtailed under a national park.

The superintendent will be aided by four immediate management assistants. Tom Kovalicky will be in charge on-going resource management, including the areas of recreation, wilderness, fire control, range land and trails.

Lynn Sprague's jurisdiction will be project design and planning.

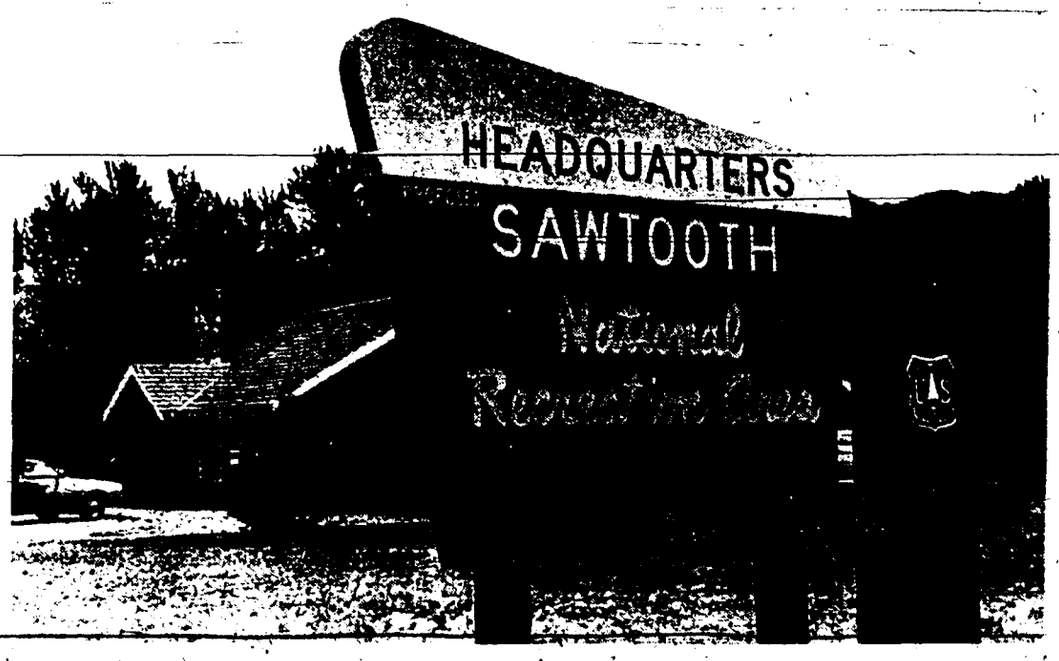

Land adjustment and land use management assistant will be Ken Dittmer. Dittmer will determine future use of private lands and be in charge of obtaining scenic easements.

Management assistant for the entire minerals program will be Harry Young. Young will check patented mining claims for validity, enforce mining regulations and conduct an inventory of all mining activities within the NRA.

Reynolds said the staff presently includes 25 permanent employes and 35 summer or part-time employes. Future staffing will depend on financing by Congress, he said.

The NRA will work jointly with a myriad of federal, state and county governments, Reynolds said. These will include the Idaho Department of Health, Highway Department, U.S. Department of Geological Survey, Federal Bureau of Mines, Bureau of Land Management, State Departments of Natural Resources and Lands, state and county law enforcement agencies, county zoning boards and county commissioners.

Current projects include a recreation mini-map for the entire area, which will be issued in August, Reynolds said. The map will contain points of interest for the traveler as well as designation of stops, commercial facilities, streams and mountains.

Bass Puts Up Better Fight

No end to that argument as to which freshwater game fish puts up the best fight. Statistically, however, the small mouth bass appears to get the most votes from fishermen. The rainbow trout runs second, the land-locked salmon third. Such be this month's claim of the tackle sellers.

AM ASKED if a long gown is appropriate for a bride in her second wedding ceremony. Certainly not inappropriate, advise the consultants. Still, that floor-length costum is a rariety the second time around. Most popular on such occasions, research reveals, is that article of apparel known as the cocktail dress.

THE LADYFRIEND, who is counting her calories of late for reasons unknown, says sadly, "Trying to forget about food is like trying not to think of an elephant." Surely. But why not a long thin python? Or a tall thin giraffe? Why an elephant? Curious.

ROMANCE

THE MORE intellectual the man, the more likely he'll fall for a highly emotional sort of girl So says a Stanford scholar who has made a study of the matter. He also says extroverts tend to be romantically attracted to introverts Good Mix it up a little

"A COURTING mirror" is what it was called Generations ago When a bashful fellow wanted to propose matrimony, he'd look into said mirror theoretically leaving his reflection therein, then hand same to his girl If she looked thereupon, that meant yes. But if she turned the mirror face down, that signified no. The language boys insist this novel bit of stage business is where we first got the phrase "to turn him down."

A PENNSYLVANIAN asks, "Which First Lady in the White House set the best dinner table? And the worst?" Eleanor Roosevelt reputedly won the fewest credits in the dining department. Mrs. Herbert Hoover was said to be the best of the dinner devisors.

Cloudy with chance of showers

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley-Rupert area: Considerable cloudiness this morning, with chance of few sprinkles. Partly cloudy this afternoon thru Monday with chance of lightly scattered thunder showers. Gusty winds near thunder showers. Not quite so hot during afternoons. Highs both days 88 to 98. Overnight lows 55 to 65.

Camas Prairie, Hailey and lower Wood River Valley: Considerable this morning becoming partly cloudy this afternoon through Monday. Scattered thunder showers likely afternoons and evenings. Gusty winds near thundershowers. Not quite so warm days. Highs both days 85 to 95. Overnight lows 42 to 52.

Extended outlook for southern Idaho Tuesday through Thursday: fair except for afternoon cloudiness. Cooler with highs in the mid-80's to mid-90's. Lows most in 50's.

Synopsis: The upper level high pressure system which has been scorching the Western states with above normal temperatures is showing a slight eastward movement. Also moisture developed by tropical storm Bonnie off the Mexican west coast is moving up through California over southern Oregon and into the Gem state. The combination of these will bring slightly cooler temperatures and an increase in thunderstorm activity for southern Idaho today and Monday. The fire danger remains very high over southwest Idaho and high in southeastern Idaho.

Mind Your Money

At sometime in your life as an automobile owner you've probably received a "sunshine" repair job.

A "sunshine" job is when you bring the car in for repairs under warranty and the only thing that touches it is the sunshine out in the parking lot.

Some dealers (fortunately, not the majority) do this to wear you down. They think that after bringing the car back half a dozen times or so, you'll give up. When you get into one of these round-robin repair rip-offs, here are some steps you can take to help get your problem resolved:

1—Write a letter to the owner or general manager of the dealership. If possible, make a date to come in for an interview. Hopefully, you'll be regarded as a customer instead of a complaint and you'll get action.

2—If this doesn't work, you should send a copy of your complaint letter — the one you originally sent to the dealer — to the manufacturer's regional or zone office. Sometimes they can bring in a factory-trained expert to resolve your repair problem. Sometimes they don't do much.

3—Finally, you can send a copy of the previous correspondence to the manufacturer's service manager at the home office. You might even address it to the president of the company. This doesn't do much good but it gets things off your chest and, on rare occasions, it might get results.

Make your letters full of facts, complete with copies of pertinent documents (work orders, previous letters to the dealer). Make your remarks long on facts, short on emotion.

If the problem still persists after, say, three months of diplomatic haggling, you might have to take the legal route. One possibility is the small claims court, providing you have one in your area.

In small claims courts you don't need a lawyer. You just state your own case. Clerks in the courts (found under county government listings in the phone book) can help you fill out forms and describe evidence you might need.

Here's the way it works:

You try to get the dealer to complete the work required under warranty. If this fails, you keep all letters and documents as evidence. You then take your car elsewhere to be fixed. You then present that bill to the dealer. If he refuses (which is almost a sure thing), you sue him in small claims court for the precise amount of the bill.

Most warranty repair bills are under $300, which easily qualifies for most small claims actions.

Getting your own lawyer should only be done if the repair bill is quite large (such as the entire car being a fast-decaying lemon), or you have the time, inclination and money to play legal games.

Some local dealer associations might be of help earlier in your campaign. For example, the dealer association in Cleveland, Ohio, is working with a local "auto safety center" (a Nader offshoot) to help resolve customer complaints. First reports should good.

The St. Louis auto club works with the local dealer association to handle complaints and reports considerable success. There are other auto safety centers popping up in such places as Akron and Columbus, Ohio; Hartford, Conn., and the state of Maryland.

California has an "auto service bureau," which started July 1. It's run by the state and requires all auto service garages to be registered. Euch must provide a toll-free phone number (to the bureau) so customers can complain.

Tom Walker, Adolph Coors Co., distributor for the Magic and Wood River Valley areas, said local collections from January through June totaled 57,667 pounds of aluminum. During the same period last year, collections amounted to 20,198 pounds.

Only aluminum beverage cans will be accepted in the future by the Coors program, Walker said. Distributors previously had accepted aluminum in other forms. The cans are worth a dime a pound.

Since Coors started its cash-for-cans program two and one-half years ago, the local distributorship has paid out $12,746 to those who have brought in aluminum for recycling.

All clean aluminum cans are accepted for payment by the local Coors distributorship in Hailey on Saturdays from 1 to 3 p.m.; in Twin Falls on Thursdays from 1 to 3 p.m., and shortly at the soon to be opened Mini-Cassia branch in Rupert, Walker said.

You see, a VW guarantee isn't a 50-50 deal, but our full 100% guarantee to repair or replace all major mechanical working parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first.

So before we guarantee a big used car, we make sure it's as tough as our little car.

Here are some big cars who are tough enough:

Twin Falls patrolman honored

Greene was retired earlier this year after more than 24 years with the Marine Corps, Air Force and Army. The past two and a half years of his military service was spent with the U. S. Army as chief enlisted regimental adviser to the Army National Guard in Twin Falls.

Green was retired as a sergeant major and has been with the Twin Falls Police Department for three months.

Burlesque star dies

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—Rose LaRose, known as the "Queen of Burlesque" who reportedly made $2,500 a week as a stripper, died at her home here Thursday night after being ill several months.

HOW IMPORTANT IS YOUR FURNITURE?

Next to buying your own home your purchase of furniture is probably the most important item you will ever buy.

Your furnishings reflect your way of life. Actually, they are your way of living.

There is an old saying that "A home is a place for a man to hang his hat but for a woman — it is her very life." And like many old sayings it is completely false.

The home is for every member of the family and it should be furnished accordingly. It is an important part of the atmosphere in which your children are being raised. It affects the mental health of the entire family by influencing everyone's attitude toward the daily routine of life.

Knowing that your furniture selection is of such importance, buying furniture is actually an emotional experience for many people.

It's a good idea to discuss your family's furniture needs with an experienced furniture counsellor, and we stand ready to help you. Come in and talk over your furnishings needs. Remember, there is no obligation.

DEAR POLLY—If you have no sealing wax, use one candle, a colorful crayon and a coin. Remove the paper from the crayon, hold it over the lighted candle for a few seconds and let it drip on the envelope. Put coin on the hot wax and have a perfect imprint. This is also a nice way to decorate an empty bottle. —VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY—When you have trouble with the tension on your sewing machine, do your testing on a piece of paper instead of on fabric. The stitches are easier to see on both sides of the paper.—SUE

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—For buttons that do not bind, put pins underneath them when sewing the buttons on. Use two or three for medium-to-heavy cloth and only one for thin fabrics. Sew the button right over the pins and then remove pins. The button will be attached firmly, but still loose enough for the buttonhole to lie smoothly when fastened.—PAULA

DEAR POLLY—We who use dehumidifiers to eliminate dampness will find the accumulated water is unexcelled for plants or garden. Only a few drops put on the roots will make them spring up and out, almost overnight. I have found no pill or powder that will do as much to bring back a seemingly dying plant. Just a little is required for each plant.—MRS. S.

DEAR POLLY—On a rainy day, give the children a few old magazines, some glue and empty coffee cans to cover. These can be used as handy little trash cans around the house.—DEBBIE

DEAR POLLY—I took an empty hand lotion bottle, washed it thoroughly and filled it with cooking oil. When I need just a little oil I only have to push the dispenser. This is one of the handiest things in my kitchen.—M. B. S.

DEAR POLLY—If I have many letters to write, I write one good one, then copy the main part for the others and just add to each one the few things that would interest that particular person. This saves a lot of time.—SHARON

DEAR POLLY—Deodorant (or perspiration) stains will disappear if the discolored area is scrubbed with white vinegar. Rinse thoroughly, then launder the garment as usual. —LYNDA

DEAR POLLY—Sometimes paint still has lumps in it even after stirring, so cut a piece of screen wire the size of the can mouth just below the rim. Insert this circle of screening and it will sink toward the bottom, pushing the tiny lumps down with it.—VIVIAN

Three "Outlandish" Ideas that Could Reshape Our World

Quiz: How Do Men and Women React Differently?

A Different Way To Barbecue Those Summertime Steaks!

"How My Husband Won Me Anew"
A Candid Story
By Mrs. Robert Stack

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ERNEST BORGNINE

You've been married four times. Do you think you are at fault that the marriages never lasted?—L. P. G., Scottsbluff, Neb.

● I think I'm an easy catch. I honestly feel that I have been taken advantage of. People always think when a marriage breaks up that the man is at fault. Believe me, I tried desperately to keep my marriages together, particularly the last one, because there are two lovely children involved who have been brainwashed to the point where they don't even want to see me any more. I am a family man. All I want is a wife who will listen to my troubles. I want to come home and enjoy my family. To work for their sakes. But maybe that's where I went wrong. I provided my last wife with a beautiful home, a car, swimming pool, servants. Maybe too much. Because suddenly she tells me that I'm an old man and she prefers a young man.

FOR TONY RANDALL

Is it true that you still carry your World War II Army-identification card in your wallet?—R. T., Decatur, Ill.

● I do—because it is a perfect identification. It has my picture on it, my thumbprint, my signature. Besides, I like the way I looked back in 1944.

FOR LEE TREVINO, professional golfer

Which player do the pros rate as the toughest man to compete against?—Charles Wood, Atlantic City, N.J.

● Without question, Jack Nicklaus. When he's in the field, most of us are content if we can just beat him—and that usually means winning the tournament.

FOR ARLENE DAHL

What does it feel like to be a gorgeous, beautiful woman who's always being followed by as many pairs of men's eyes as there are in the room?—D. R., Bellingham, Wash.

● Good grief! I've been asked questions like that a thousand times. All I can say is that no matter how ugly or beautiful a woman is, she can't possibly hear enough times that she looks good, or how good she looks. That's her lifeline, that's what it is. It's what keeps her going in this world.

FOR HUGH O'BRIAN

Why do you think people ask celebrities for autographs? —C. L., Savannah, Ga.

● To most people it's just an excuse to find out how you smell, how tall you really are, if you're wearing your own hair. Most people find it embarrassing to approach a celebrity. But some come up and say, "Hi! I want to shake hands with you; I enjoy what you do." They're secure, they don't need an excuse.

FOR L. PATRICK GRAY III, acting director of the FBI

How do you expect to run the FBI without any law-enforcement experience?—Jean Hoepfner, Randalia, Iowa

● I'm aware of the tremendous responsibility of being head of the FBI; but I feel my career as a lawyer and as Assistant Attorney General has given me sufficient experience and insight into law enforcement. With the help of my associates in the FBI, I'm confident I can meet the challenge.

FOR LANA WOOD, star of "A Place Called Today"

● When I was on television on "Peyton Place," I never saw the sun. I'd get up at 5 a.m., work onstage all day, and go home after dark. It's a strange, funny sort of life! I'd finish shooting at 8:30 p.m., rush home and scrub off my makeup, have a cup of soup, and zoom—into bed at 9 o'clock.

FOR CAROL BURNETT

I read somewhere that you hate singing. Is this true?—Diann Wenzlick, Grand Ledge, Mich.

● Not true. I have said I feel uncomfortable sometimes singing a song as myself. It's more fun to sing with others, or as a character.

FOR ROBERT SHAW

You're married to Mary Ure, one of the world's great actresses, and you have worked with her on the stage and in films. What actresses would you still like to work with? —M. West, Hartford, Conn.

● This is mostly futile, but—the best actress I've ever seen in movies is Garbo. No question. She would have dominated me. And I'd like to work with Natalie Wood. She's underrated, did a fine job in "Splendor in the Grass." And what about Jeanne Moreau? Alas, no chance, no chance!

FOR JOE SCHMIDT, coach of the Detroit Lions

With a running quarterback like Greg Landry, why don't you run the Wishbone T offense that's so popular with college coaches?—J. Churma, Lansing, Mich.

● Several teams, including the Lions, are putting more emphasis on the running abilities of the quarterback. Last season, we installed definite option plays for Greg Landry and they were quite successful. I feel this is the start of a trend in pro ball. However, it's difficult to say whether the Wishbone will be a basic formation in the NFL this season. I prefer to think that it will be an adjunct to our regular formation.

SPECIAL COLLECTOR'S SERIES!

The very essence of 19th Century America . . . and a plate collector's dream come true. Four original hard-to-find Currier & Ives lithographs reproduced on delicate, bone-white porcelain dishes!

You'll admire the craftsmanship that has gone into this exquisite foursome. All the delicate colors and tints of the original prints—ochre, saffron, rose, cobalt—have been painstakingly reproduced. And each large 7½" dia. plate is ringed by a golden corona, a desirable feature knowledgable collectors prefer in pictorial dishware because it "frames" the scene.

Display them in your home singly—or in imaginative groupings. (Each plate is pre-drilled in back with a permanent hanger attached.) Or use with plate holders to stand on sideboard or hutch. Either way they're sure to compliment your decor . . . and your appreciation of the heritage left to us by the people of Currier & Ives' America!

Few fields of endeavor have more influence on our lives than education, medicine and science. Here are reports on three new proposals, or discoveries, in these fields that may seem radical and extreme today, but could prove instrumental in shaping your life in the months and years ahead.

By Charles and Bonnie Remsberg

1. All students should be kicked out of school after they finish high school and be prohibited from resuming any formal education for at least four years.

This system, says the noted educator Mortimer J. Adler, author of the book, "The Common Sense of Politics," would help young people mature more quickly, broaden their learning, focus their career plans, and, if engineered properly, could help the nation solve many of its mounting social problems.

Mortimer J. Adler

Under Adler's proposal, youngsters would start school at age two or three, the years that now, he says, are "ridiculously wasted." From then until they finished high school at 16, all would be taught the same prescribed course of study, concentrating on reading, writing and mathematics. No vocational instruction would be allowed.

At the end of high school, Adler would award all students Bachelor of Arts degrees and "throw them out of school—absolutely—for a minimum of four years." During this time, they would either work in private industry or perform public-service work. "For instance," says Adler, "some might work in the Peace Corps, others in VISTA, still others in a new Environment Corps, or in mental hospitals or as police cadets."

This work would serve a double purpose. First, it would throw needed manpower into the tasks of improving the environment, law enforcement, health, foreign relations and poverty. And equally important, it would expose teenagers firsthand to many of our most complex social problems.

Says Adler: "Schools, no matter how good, cannot by themselves turn out educated and mature men and women. The quickest maturity and the best preparation for genuine learning come from real-life experiences."

At age 20, students would have a choice. Those who felt they had had enough formal schooling could seek jobs, with the security of having a broad liberal education and "real world" experience behind them. Those who wanted to study for a profession or vocation would first undergo examinations to determine whether they were, in fact, talented in their chosen area and whether their desire for more formal education was genuine. After this screening, the students would attend specialized "advanced schools." There, free of charge, each would pursue only studies related to his particular interest.

Because of this concentration, Adler says, students could be trained in even the most complicated professions in a maximum of six years. By age 26, at the most, everyone would be ready to put his formal training to use.

"The student who comes to his advanced education after four years outside the cloistered precincts of a school has important advantages over today's average college student," Adler contends. "He is more likely to have escaped the great mental disorder known as adolescence because his outside experiences will have forced upon him a kind of 'instant manhood.' Also, he's much more likely to know what he wants and how to work to get it. Today, too many campuses are jammed with kids who are just drifting without goals or who are there only because of family pressures. By narrowing advanced schooling down to those able and anxious to handle it, we could make professional training not only more effective, but cheaper as well."

2. People should be psychologically screened to determine if they are cancer-prone.

Do you seem like a well-adjusted, pleasant person to other people but know that inside you're "bottling up" feelings of anxiety, depression and guilt? Do you have a hard time expressing both anger and affection? Are you a stickler for conformity? If so, you are displaying elements of a new re-

Ideas and Revelations To Mark the '70's:

These Three Could Change Our World

1. First Work, Then College

2. The Cancer-Personality Test

3. The "Bank of Geniuses"

search discovery called "the cancer-prone personality," and your chances of contracting some form of malignancy may be significantly higher than those of the average American.

Doctors have speculated for some time that there is a link between human emotions and cancer. Now, reports of two researchers to the American Cancer Society support this hypothesis.

In one study, psychologist Claus Bahnson, senior research scientist at the Eastern Pennsylvania Psychiatric Institute, used psychological tests to compare the personalities of hundreds of cancer victims with those of other people. From these studies, he is able to determine the personality type that appears most likely to contract cancer.

The odds that a person will get cancer seem to be heightened, Bahnson says, if he "operates with high levels of internal conflict or stress" that he tends to mask by repressing his true feelings. The mask may fool others, but inside he's churning with "closed up" emotions, is defensively self-centered and often experiences depression because of difficulties in his intimate personal relationships.

Also, Bahnson claims, the cancer-prone personality is highly committed to upholding social norms, tends to be authoritarian and has "great difficulty dealing with and expressing anger."

On the basis of separate studies, Dr. George F. Solomon, associate professor of clinical psychiatry at Stanford University's medical school, seconds Bahnson's findings and adds some conclusions of his own. "Quite consistently," Solomon reports, cancer patients display evidence of sexual problems and "unresolved tension concerning a parent figure." Also, he says, cancer victims commonly have suffered the loss of an important relationship—say, through the death of a spouse—prior to the development of a malignant tumor.

The exact mechanism by which personality traits and emotional experiences enhance disease susceptibility is not yet understood. But doctors may be able to perfect mass psychological screening techniques to detect persons with greater-than-average cancer risk.

3. Within the next ten years, it may be possible to grow exact carbon copies of any living person. When this technology is available, America should consider establishing a "genius bank," where genetically identical reproductions of society's great men could be grown.

This is the idea of Dr. Robert I. Sinsheimer, a biologist with the California Institute of Technology. The key is a new biological process called "cloning." This technique is based on the scientific fact that each individual cell in any living thing contains all the genetic components necessary to make an identical reproduction of that thing. If a biologist wants to reproduce a series of identical frogs, for example, he can take the nucleus, or "control center," of any cell from a live frog and implant it into an unfertilized frog egg whose own nucleus has been destroyed. The egg will then develop just as if it had been fertilized normally, and because the implanted nucleus contains the chromosomes and genes of the living frog, the new frog that results will be identical to it in every genetic respect. By repeating this cloning process, the scientist can "manufacture" as many of the same frog as he wants.

Cloning has already been used successfully in laboratories to make scores of "twin" frogs, plants and salamanders. "Only technical problems stand in the way of applying the technique to mammals," says Sinsheimer. "When these problems are solved, it will be possible to replicate prize cattle or horses—or humans."

Once the necessary technology is perfected, he believes that a bank where the cells of outstanding men and women can be collected and used for cloning should be established.

This is of vital importance, Sinsheimer argues, because man's triumph over his environment has caused the evolutionary process to grow stagnant. The world is no longer producing the number of great individuals that it should. "I believe there should be six or seven times as many men like Newton, Rembrandt and Mozart as there are," he says.

Such prospects, of course, give rise to the most profound ethical questions. Who is to choose, for example, which "geniuses" are to be duplicated, and in what number? Having copied a person genetically, how can we recreate the environment in which he grew up and which may have influenced the way he turned out? What can be done about a Hitler who might produce exact replicas of himself in mass supply?

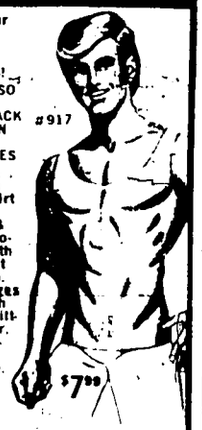

Cloning "will not bring instant Utopia," Sinsheimer concedes. "There will be some tragic mistakes. But ultimately I think we can hope to improve and to find new paths truly different from those we have trod in the past."

The Robert Stack I Know:

Pictorial Press

Rosemarie and Robert Stack: "He gave me strength."

In a Crisis, He Won Me Anew

By Rosemarie Bowe Stack

Being married to an actor would have been a lot more difficult if I hadn't been in show business before I married Bob. Fortunately, I understood the emotional highs as well as the lows. The tensions. The impossible hours. The lack of privacy.

I had worked with quite a few actors before I met Bob, and had always told myself that I would never, never marry one. They were too narcissistic. Too self-centered. Too egotistical.

What worried me most when we got married was that Bob might be spoiled and too set in his ways. After all, he had not only been a bachelor for a long time, but was frequently referred to as "Hollywood's most-eligible bachelor." His father died when Bob was barely eight, so he naturally received more attention from his mother than he would have had under ordinary circumstances. Yet he also came from solid, down-to-earth stock. His father was a self-made man who became prominent in advertising. In fact, he was the man who coined the phrase, "The beer that made Milwaukee famous."

When Bob was a year old, his parents were divorced. His mother took Bob to France with her. Bob's older brother Jim stayed home with his father. The next six years of his life, Bob grew up as any other European. His first language was French; his second, Italian. He didn't even speak English until he was seven, and when he came back to the United States and tried to talk to Jim, he needed an interpreter!

Although his mother became both father and mother to him, she allowed Bob to join in more dangerous sports than if his father had been alive; she wanted to be sure he wasn't going to be raised as a sissy. Fortunately, he had gotten a lot of this out of his system before we met—such as big-game hunting in Africa, polo and racing cars and hydroplanes. He used to race motorcycles with Keenan Wynn, until he had a crack-up that broke both ankles!

I think it's partly because of this that Bob now won't allow our son Charles to get a motorcycle. Bob can be quite strict with Charles, who's 14, and Elizabeth, 15. But we've always acted in unison, never worked at cross-purposes. If the children can't get their way with one of us, they never even think of going to the other.

Nowadays, except for skeet shooting and an occasional game of tennis, Bob's only form of exercise is golf. Actually I was the one who talked him into that. I found that between films and television series, Bob would spend too much time in the den reading. I felt he needed some exercise and suggested golf — never realizing just how involved he would get. Now I'm trying to get him back on the tennis courts so I can spend time with him sometimes! But at least he's not one of those fellows who won't come home after a game and sits in the country club drinking with the guys and playing cards. And when he played in the Disney World Celebrity Tournament (out of about 200 entrants, Bob came in second!), I went with him to Florida.

Traveling is one of the advantages of being married to an actor. Instead of taking a two- or three-week vacation once a year, I have the opportunity to spend maybe three or four months in Italy or France or wherever he films. The only disadvantage is that you might as well kiss privacy good-bye!

Like the time he went on location to Florida and I joined him a week later. I arrived at dinner time, bursting with news about the children and everything that had happened at home. But every time I got started, another fan came over to ask for autographs. I had no choice but to wait until we were back in our room to fill him in on all the latest news.

But this sort of thing is really quite a minor irritation when I think of the 16 wonderful years we've had together. It's unusual for two people to get along so well for such a length of time. I've seen so many show-business wives fall apart — particularly when their husbands are in a series, because they never see them. It becomes a strain on a marriage. Luckily, that's not the case with us.

For years, it was all work. We hardly ever went out. Even on weekends he was so tired. Naturally there were times when I would have liked to go out and have some fun. But we were together, and that's what counted. It was an investment in our future, and it paid off. Moreover, I was the one who talked Bob into doing a TV series. When it first came up, he said, "You know what this is going to mean, don't you?" I did. And throughout all of those years he did "The Untouchables," and later "Name of the Game," I joined him at the studio almost every noon or evening. I'd make sure dinner was something special, from the checkered tablecloth to the food we ate.

It takes a time of crisis to find out how much you really care for someone. Our crisis came two years ago when I had a terrible automobile accident in Sacramento while Bob was filming "Name of the Game." We had often talked about how we would react if there was a real tragedy in our lives. Bob had had only one—his father's passing away. There had never even been another death in his family, or anything else terribly shocking.

It was a mechanical failure of the rented car I was driving that caused me to crash into a concrete culvert. I was slowing down, when all of a sudden the steering simply locked! One of my best friends, who was sitting next to me, was killed. I survived because I had my safety belt on. But I did have serious internal injuries. What made it harder on Bob was that someone had called him and given him the impression that I was completely wiped out. He chartered a plane and flew to Sacramento, not knowing what to expect until he saw me. When I looked at him, I knew I was going to be all right. He gave me strength.

It took me six months to really get over the shock. I'll never be over the tragedy. It was fantastic the way Bob watched over me. I found Bob to be stronger, more reliable than any person I had ever known. A great guy, a wonderful husband.

"All of a sudden the steering simply locked! One of my best friends, who was sitting next to me, was killed. . . . What made it harder on Bob was that someone had called him and given him the impression that I was completely wiped out."

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen suggests a new way to make barbecued steak, because: "What can beat grilling a steak outdoors in summer? But a little trick I've learned is to marinate the steak overnight in an herb-wine marinade. It gives your barbecue just that added bouquet, and makes the simplest outdoor meal special."

The Family Weekly Foodshelf

Herb-and-Wine Barbecued Steak

HERB-AND-WINE BARBECUED STEAK

- 3 lb. round or shoulder steak, 2½ inches thick
- 2 cups dry red wine
- ½ cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
- 1½ tablespoons marjoram leaves
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ½ teaspoon instant minced garlic
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

1. Wipe meat with damp paper towel. Place meat in heavy-duty plastic bag.
2. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour over meat in bag. Seal securely with twister. Refrigerate about 24 hours, turning meat 2 or 3 times to marinate evenly.
3. When ready to grill, drain marinade from meat. Reserve marinade.
4. Grill steak over hot charcoal 4-5 inches from source of heat for about 20-30 minutes, until of desired doneness, turning and basting with marinade every 8 minutes.
5. To serve, slice thinly on the diagonal. Makes 8 servings

SAUTEED ZUCCHINI AND TOMATOES

- 2½ lbs. zucchini
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion, rehydrated
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Pepper
- 2 cups cherry tomatoes

1. Wash zucchini well and cut into ½-inch-thick slices.
2. Heat oil in large skillet, sauté zucchini about 8 minutes, turning frequently with spoon.
3. Season with onion, oregano, salt and a few twists of pepper from pepper mill. Add cherry tomatoes and heat about 3-5 minutes, until tomatoes are just heated through.

Makes 8 servings

BEEFY BEANS

In a 10-inch skillet over medium heat, sauté 1 lb. lean ground chuck until it loses its red color. Break up meat with a spoon as it cooks, drain off excess fat. Stir in 1 clove garlic, chopped, 1 can (16 ozs.) stewed tomatoes, ¼ teaspoon oregano, 2 cans (16-oz. size) beans in tomato sauce and ¼ cup light molasses. Bring mixture to boiling, reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, stirring occasionally for 10 minutes. Serve with grated cheese and hot garlic bread. Makes 4-6 servings. (To grill: Place skillet on grill above gray coals. Follow cooking directions as above.)

The moment you peel most fruit, it's vulnerable. Discoloration begins. Flavors slip away. That's why peeled fruits need the protection of Fruit-Fresh. To lock out browning and lock in flavor.

Peel fruit into solution of 3 tablespoons of Fruit-Fresh to each 2 quarts of water.

Fruit-Fresh. Because there's a big difference between just preserving fruit and preserving the freshness of fruit.

People Quiz

Why Men and Women Can Never Act Alike

True or False: A woman likes what she sees in the mirror better than a man does. (See number 1.)

By John E. Gibson

People are the most interesting things in the world, and in many ways the most unfathomable in their complexities and contradictions. In this quiz, we focus on some of the attitudes and characteristics of both sexes.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. A woman likes what she sees in the mirror better than a man does.
2. Men are more easily distracted by noise than women are.
3. Women drivers don't get an even break.
4. Women are more sensitive to weather changes than men are.
5. A woman is more concerned over "what people think" than a man is.

ANSWERS

1. False. Women look in the mirror more often than men, but don't like what they see as well. Studies at two leading universities (Duke University and the University of Wisconsin)

show that men are much more satisfied with the way they look; that women, regardless of age, tend to be much more dissatisfied with their faces as well as their figures. When a man looks into a mirror, he's likely to give what stares back at him a casual but reassuring nod of approval, adjust his tie, perhaps flick a bit of smudge from his nose. Not so with the average woman. Her eyes rove critically over every feature, wincing at each real or fancied imperfection, the expression on her face saying: "If I only had the receipt, I'd like to exchange it for something else. . . ."

2. True. A team of university psychologists tested men and women graduate students on their ability to perform mechanical and mental tasks under noisy conditions (clanging of high-pitched electric bells). Results: The men's performance deteriorated, but with the women it was found that "the noise did not cause any deterioration in performance, and actually had a facilitating effect on mechanical tasks."

3. True—according to driver-reaction studies conducted at Purdue University. In the tests, 123 drivers, selected at random, pulled up behind experimental cars that purposely caused a slight traffic delay. Findings: The sex of the frustrating driver was the big factor in determining the other driver's reaction. "Only 52 percent of all drivers honked at the experimental cars when they were driven by a man, while 71 percent honked at a female-driven car."

4. False. In tests at Kansas State University Institute for Environmental Research, students were exposed to temperatures ranging from 60 to 98 degrees, and humidities ranging from 15 to 85 percent. Men, it was found, were more sensitive to weather changes than women. They felt uncomfortably warm at temperatures the women still found agreeable. And it was found that "humidity plays a significantly more important role in how men feel than in how women feel."

5. True. Psychological studies show that when a woman commits an indiscretion, she is more likely to be concerned over what people will think than the way she herself may actually feel about it. Whereas with a man, it's apt to be the other way around.

The Doctor Lets You In

Why Is So Much Hepatitis Going Around?

Chances are, in the last few years you've known somebody who's contracted hepatitis ("inflammation of the liver"). Hepatitis, alas, is becoming a sign of the times. There are two types: Serum hepatitis is caused by direct blood-to-blood transfer of the virus. Heroin addicts and others who share needles have a high rate of serum hepatitis and often give it to innocent victims in cities where they have sold blood for transfusions. Infectious hepatitis, the less serious type, has risen in incidence because of sewage-polluted streams, rivers and ocean shallows. You can get it from raw oysters and crustacea, and from any kind of fecal-oral transmission. . . . Symptoms begin with a sledge-hammer "flu." Unbelievable weakness, fever, body aches, nausea and vomiting are followed by orange urine and clear stool. Go to a doctor at once. You must have hospitalization or total bed rest at home, with a private toilet and someone to take care of all your needs. People exposed to new cases of hepatitis should be given an injection of gamma globulin as a preventive measure. . . . Hepatitis hits rundown people worst. To avoid it, practice scrupulous hygiene; don't eat raw seafood; and contribute your own healthy blood to the Red Cross, to build up the national supply.—By John J. Secondi, M.D.

Cats Need Grooming, Too

Although a cat is one of nature's cleanest animals, spending hours each day running a sandpaper tongue over his fur, he is likely to get hair balls (especially during the shedding season) if he isn't given a little help. A short-haired cat should be brushed every day; a long-haired cat should be combed. Start when he is a kitten, and he will love his daily grooming sessions. Turn him upside down on your lap and comb or brush in short strokes with the fur. Look for evidence of fleas or mites. Then turn him over and do the same for his back. You will be amazed at how much fur comes out. Puss will feel much better and your furniture will benefit, too!

Mom Usually Wins Those TV Battles, But...

The children are staring at the TV again. From the next room comes the voice of one of the parents: "That's enough TV. Go play or read." In your house, would that voice be Mom's or Dad's? If it's Mom's voice, then your family is typical. Two sociologists who investigated family TV habits discovered that more mothers than fathers make family rules concerning children's TV watching. But in all families, it's Dad's, not Mother's, TV and reading habits that seem to have the greatest influence on children's behavior. Even in families where Dad does make TV-watching rules for children, scientific investigation indicates that it is Dad's own behavior in regard to TV and reading—not the rules he makes—that most strongly affects the children's own TV and reading behavior.—By Shirley Sloan Fader

Sports Mini-Profile

AL KALINE:

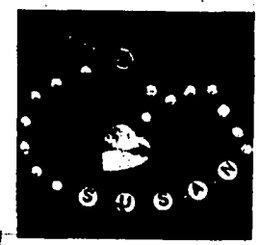

The Modest Tiger Who Turned Down $100,000

When Al Kaline became a Detroit Tiger at 19, he displayed so much energy that one cynic commented, "That kid'll burn himself out in a couple of years." Kaline is now in his 20th year with the Tigers—and is as indestructible as Old Man River. He had one of his best seasons last year at the age of 37, showing as good an eye at the plate as he did in 1954, when he became the youngest player ever to win the AL batting title. Kaline has played in 15 All-Star Games, has won ten Golden Glove Awards, and led the Tigers to the world championship in 1968. . . . The only player ever to turn down a $100,000 contract because he felt he wasn't worth it, Kaline says, "I didn't have too good a season in 1970, so when I was offered the six-figure salary for 1971, I refused." But he did accept the 100 G's this year—becoming the first Detroit player in history to reach that level. . . . Kaline is a native of Baltimore, married, and the father of two sons. A year-after-year home-run hitter, he is also one of baseball's best-fielding outfielders; last season he didn't make a single error. . . . Late in the 1968 season, he was sidelined by an injury for six weeks and modestly told his manager that his replacement should have the honor of playing in the World Series because he had been doing so well. The manager, however, moved the replacement to another position and insisted on using Kaline. He responded by hitting .379 for the Series.—By Barry Abramson

"LAUGH-IN'S" RUTH BUZZI
Gladys Ormphby charm schools?

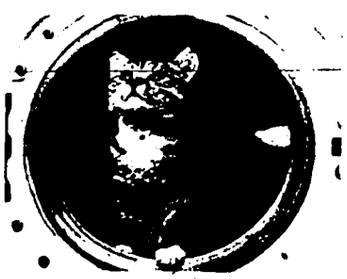

How painful to be Gladys Ormphby! But, after that, what a pleasure to be Ruth Buzzi again! The frumpy little nymph with the flailing handbag—Gladys Ormphby of "Laugh-In"—has inspired her creator. Ruth Buzzi tells us that changing back from Gladys ("that awful-looking creature") to her own good-looking self gives her a lift. "There's something psychological about it," she chirps. "When I walk off the set I actually feel as though I could stop traffic with my good looks!" Ruth's secret desire is to establish a chain of Gladys Ormphby charm schools, "so that average-looking women could get that great feeling of going from one extreme to the other. The school would first make the customer look her very worst, and then make her up as glamorously as possible. A complete transformation is so therapeutic!"

DR. LOUIS LEAKEY

Mankind may not exist more than 30 or 40 more years, says world-famous anthropologist Dr. Louis Leakey. Man is the most endangered species today, the 69-year-old scientist believes, "endangered by pollution; lack of forethought; misuse of resources; overpopulation; and by allowing the invention of germ warfare, and hydrogen and atom bombs." He emphasizes that we "must not adapt to pollution, but fight it before it kills us." Dr. Leakey, whose fossil discoveries in Africa established that man existed some 2.6 million years ago, says mankind must change direction if man is to survive.

The gambling trap: "One of the most significant and interesting items uncovered [in a study by psychologist Dr. Richard Evans of the University of Houston] is the finding that compulsive gamblers as young children were compulsive liars. There seems to be a very high correlation between these two things. Among a group of young people who lie compulsively, though they have never had any gambling experience, you might make a prediction, that would be borne out, that from this group compulsive gamblers will emerge." From "To Gamble Or Not To Gamble" (World, $9.95) by Walter Wagner.

DINKY THE KITTEN
She went for a spin—and survived.

Mary Welch's three-month-old kitten, Dinky, was none the worse after a 15-minute 780-revolution spin in a tumbler-dryer, but Mrs. Welch is still trying to recover from the shock of finding her pet mixed up with the hot laundry. Dinky came out all right in the wash because she rolled with the Tide instead of trying to keep pace with the machine. Mrs. Welch has pledged to take a roll call of her pets before she starts her machine next washday.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

SHADOW AND SUBSTANCE
By Richard Armour

Most women wear eye shadow.
I don't know why they do.
That bluish stuff
Must cost enough.
Takes time applying, too.

A lot more fun I'd think it,
At least with most adults,
To stay up late
And dissipate
And get the same results.

A Modern Psalm

The polluter is a shepherd I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in DDT'd pastures.
He leadeth me beside waters that smell like a still.
He restoreth my gall.
He leadeth me into the paths of gaseousness for his profit's sake.
Yea, as I walk through the valley of the shadow of smog,
I fear his evils for they art with me—
his hot rod and his graft discomfort me.
He prepareth a table before me from which I dare not eat.
He anointest my head with oil spills; my sewers runneth over.
Sure, goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life—but only if I dwell in the house of the conservationists forever.
—Robert Orben

"Whatever became of the girl you were dating?"
"She jilted me."
"Why didn't you tell her about your rich uncle?"
"I did. Now she's my aunt."
—Thomas LaMance

My neighbor says his conscience is no still, small voice—but he knew that when he married her. —Val Peters

A moviegoer who'd been standing in line for nearly an hour finally reached the box office. "That'll be three-fifty," said the girl behind the glass.
"Well, sir," said the girl sweetly, "we like it." —Dorothea Kent

Recently my young daughter was sitting at the table drawing. I asked her what she was doing. She said, "I'm drawing God's picture." I tried to explain to her that no one knew what God looked like. She quickly replied, "Well, Mommy, they will know when I finish drawing Him."

LITTLE EMILY

"When I grow up, I want a profession that is meaningful and relevant and will provide me with lots of loot."

Do your clock watching with the timepiece that was already an antique when Henry VIII was having matrimonial problems and Christopher Columbus was sailing across the ocean. This exposed wheel train-type model is a perfect working replica that keeps time. Of course there is only one hand because the minute hand wasn't invented until a century later. It operates with balanced counterweights that control the tick-tock mechanism that adds to the charm of this conversation piece. Classic old style Roman numerals on a 7" dial. All expertly toned in traditional rosewood hue. 18" high excluding weights. Assembles in less than a half hour without glue or nails.

The start of more action than you may be able to take.

These famous novels are written for tough-minded readers about some of the roughest characters who ever roamed the frontier: broken-nosed, bullet-scarred men who had to ride hard and shoot fast in order to survive.

Not everyone can take this sort of story.

But if you can, we'll be glad to send you for the token price of $1 three of the greatest books Zane Grey ever wrote.

The Call of the Canyon. What happens to a soft-living Easterner who walks out on the good life to face an outlaw's vengeance alone on Arizona's desolate frontier.

Wildfire. For a stallion who wouldn't be ridden, a girl who wouldn't be kissed, Lin Slone gambled everything. And his life was the smallest chip in the pot.

The Hash Knife Outfit. Three men in the gang and the softest among them lived only to kill. What chance for the hot-tempered cow punchers facing them . . . and beautiful Molly Dunn, the hostage of the butchering outlaws?

These rugged books are hard bound in sunset red, desert tan, and cavalry blue. And they're stamped in real gold. Normally they cost $11.67. But while our introductory offer lasts, you can have all three for only a dollar.

Why are we staking you to three handsome books like these?

We think you'll like the books we send you. And that you'll want to own other books in the Zane Grey Library as they come from the presses.

They will include: Riders of the Purple Sage, The Dude Ranger, Wild Horse Mesa, Arizona Ames, Thunder Mountain, The Vanishing American, Maverick Queen, and many more.

Because we print in quantity and cut out the middleman, we can still offer our subscribers these distinctive, cloth-bound books for only $3.89 each plus shipping.

You get advance descriptions of all future selections. You can reject any book before or after you receive it. And you can cancel your subscription at any time.

Send no money. Just mail coupon to get The Call of the Canyon, Wildfire, and The Hash Knife Outfit by Zane Grey. All three for the introductory price of only $1.
The Zane Grey Library, Roslyn, N.Y. 11576

Please send me The Call of the Canyon, Wildfire, and The Hash Knife Outfit.

If I don't want to keep these introductory volumes, I'll return them within a week and owe nothing. Otherwise, I'll pay just $1 for all three, plus shipping.

Also reserve for me additional beautifully-bound volumes in the Zane Grey Library, which I will be entitled to receive as they come from the presses.

I'll get advance descriptions of all future volumes. I may reject any books before or after I receive them. For those I do keep, I pay just $3.89 each plus shipping. And I may cancel my reservation any time.
